The Art of Becoming

How Principia students are transforming creativity into recognition and artistic achievement.

Ingenuity, originality, creativity—resourcefulness. The list of adjectives describing Principia School's burgeoning artists is impressive, extending far beyond its campus into the most respected circles of the local art community.

This year, the work of multiple students was selected for display in the prestigious Young Artist Showcase at the St. Louis Artists' Guild and the Foundry Art Centre, giving emerging artists a professional platform to share their creativity.

Through opportunities like these exhibitions, Principia's young artists discover not just what they can create, but who they can become through creativity. From ideation to creation—through planning, experimentation, and finally sharing their work—students experience a full creative journey.
