SPIRIT WEEK

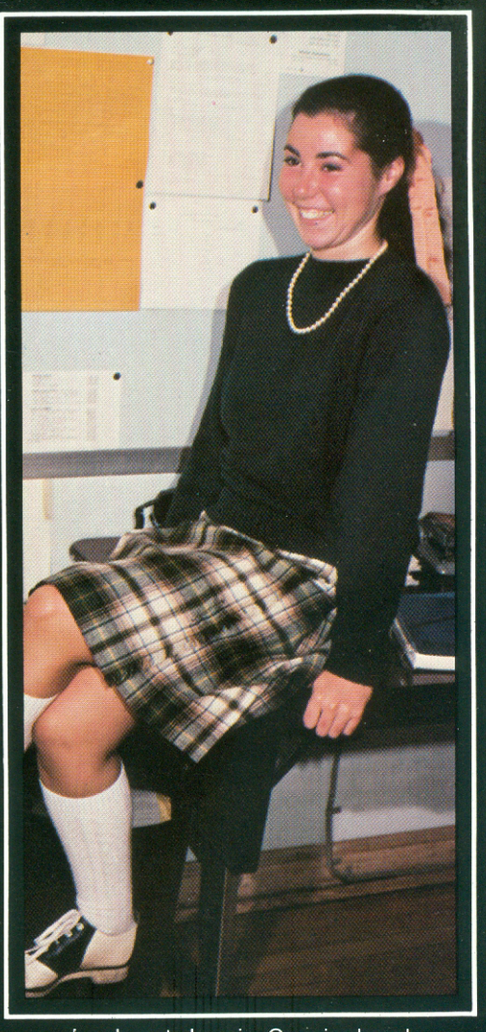
Spirit was paraded all over the school during the traditional Spirit Week before the Homecoming game. Students dressed a different way each day. Tuesday was Dead Head Day, Wednesday was P.J. Day, Thursday was Hawaiian Day, and Friday was Blue-Gold Day. A twenty-five dollar prize for the most spirited class was given to the Senior Class. Everyone pulled together to show that Kenmore East has the ultimate school spirit.

Spiderwoman emerges.

Darcy punks out.

Some members of the Blue Gold Club.

The ultimate in interior decorating.

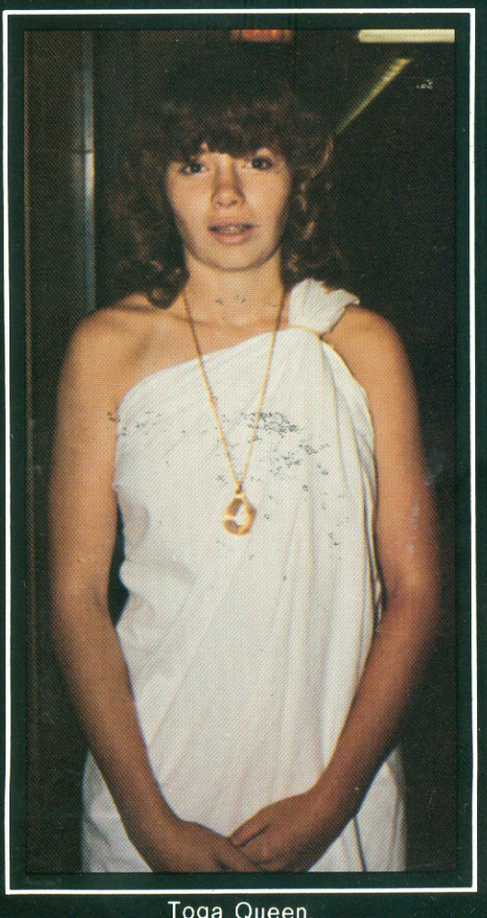


Look out Joanie Cunningham!

An original punk design.

Bernie arrives from the Orient.

Up, Up, and Away.



Toga Queen.

PEP RALLY

The excitement of the annual Homecoming Pep Rally raised spirits high for the big Homecoming game against Sweet Home. Senior King, Tom Frank, and Senior Queen, Michelle Critelli, as well as the underclass Princes and Princesses, were announced at the rally. In addition to the usual festivities, Dale Jackson and Eric Bachman competed in an ice cream eating contest with Bachman winning by a few seconds. The Cheerleaders and the Band also added to the excitement of the Pep rally. The rally was followed by the traditional East Feast in back of the school.

Varsity Cheerleaders are awesome.

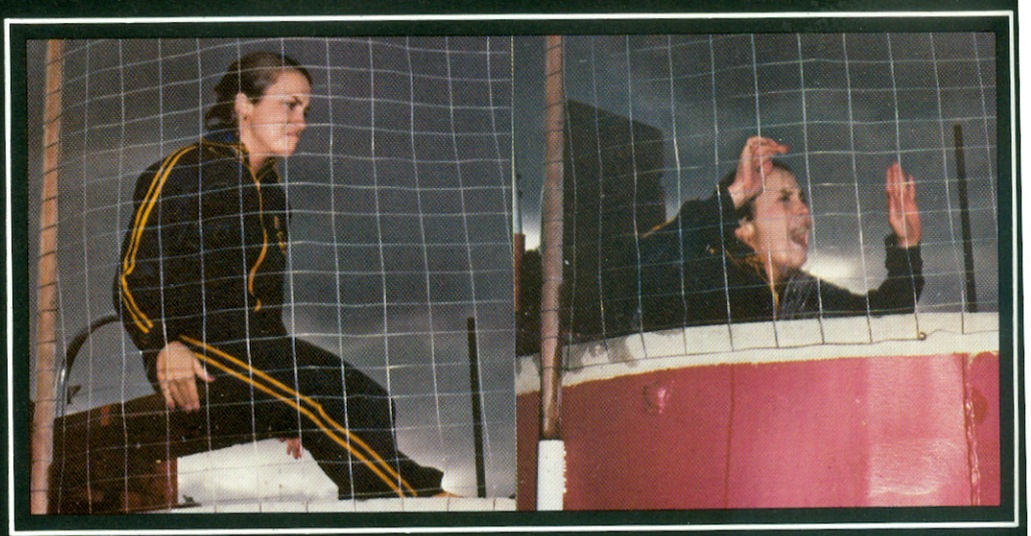
EAST FEAST

The annual East Feast was a great success with various groups participating. The Dunking Machine and Sophomore Class's pie throw booths were especially popular.



Miss Elliott shows Bulldog spirit as . . . she takes the plunge!

Kurt got his hands on Dad's shaving cream.

Special Ed. joins the health kick.

Mmmmmmmmmm.

Louie is a victim . . .

HOMECOMING

The Kenmore East Bulldogs took a hard loss to the Sweet Home Panthers with a final score of 23-6, but not without a fight. The Bulldog fans, with the help of the cheerleaders, cheered on until the bitter end. The float competition was a great success with the Senior Class and Blue Gold Diggers tying for first place. The Cheerleaders took a second place and the Color Guard placed third.

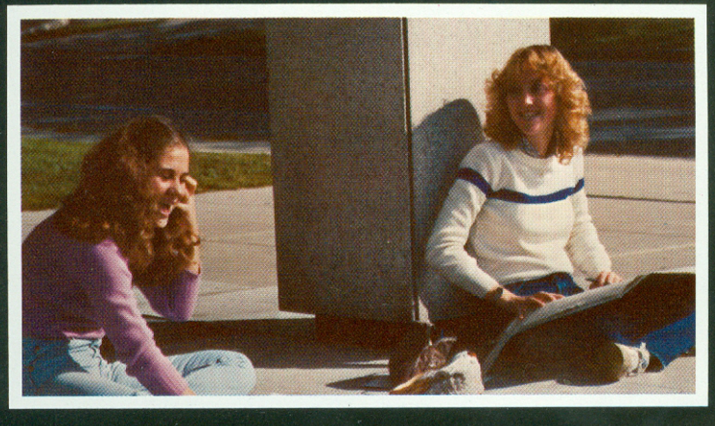
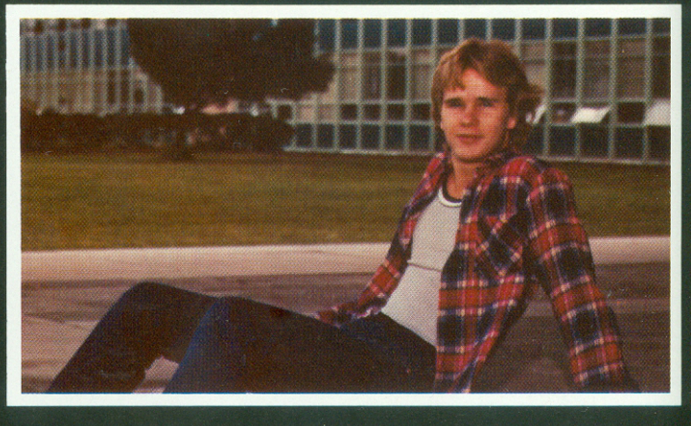
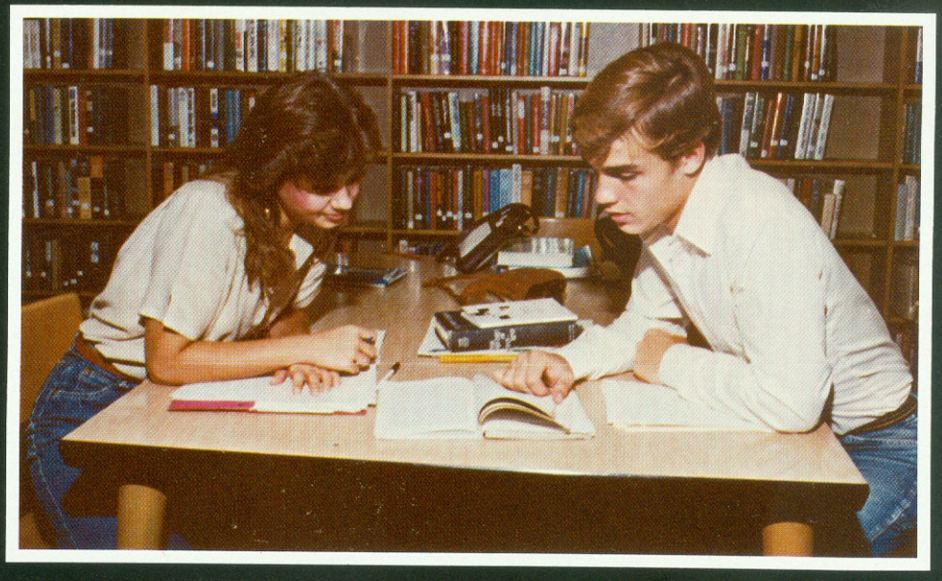
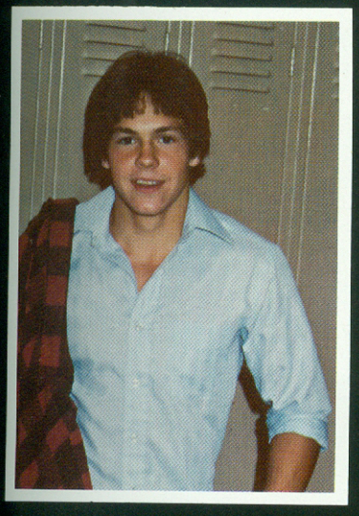
STUDENT







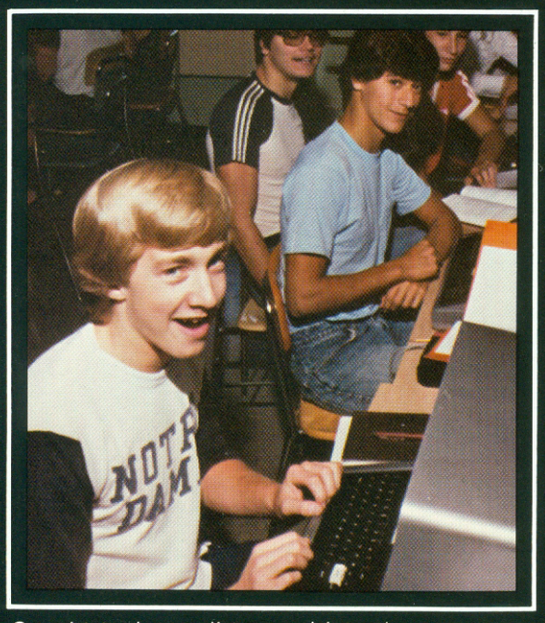


LIFE

CLASSTIME . . .

means many different things to people at Kenmore East where there are classes to fit the needs of everyone. For many, there are the painstaking classes of algebra and American history, along with the all-time favorite, coed swimming! Some of us have trouble concentrating in class so we all have ways of passing the time, including note writing, daydreaming, and sleeping. Often the face of the clock seems more familiar to the student than the face of the teacher!

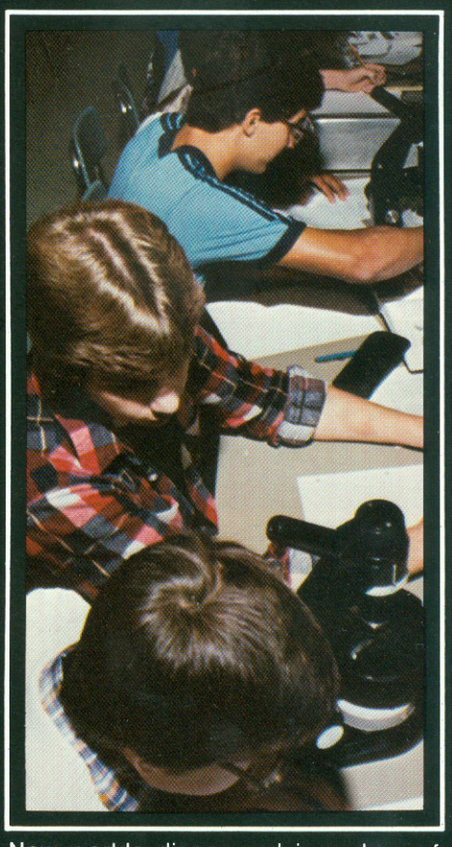
It looks like another Monday morning.



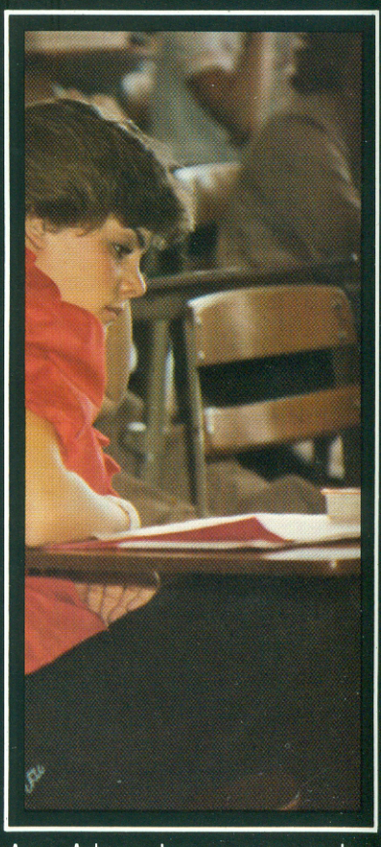
Caught typing a dirty word into the computer

Linda Kasperek takes a few pointers from Mr. Roswell.

"Did you say 20 laps?"

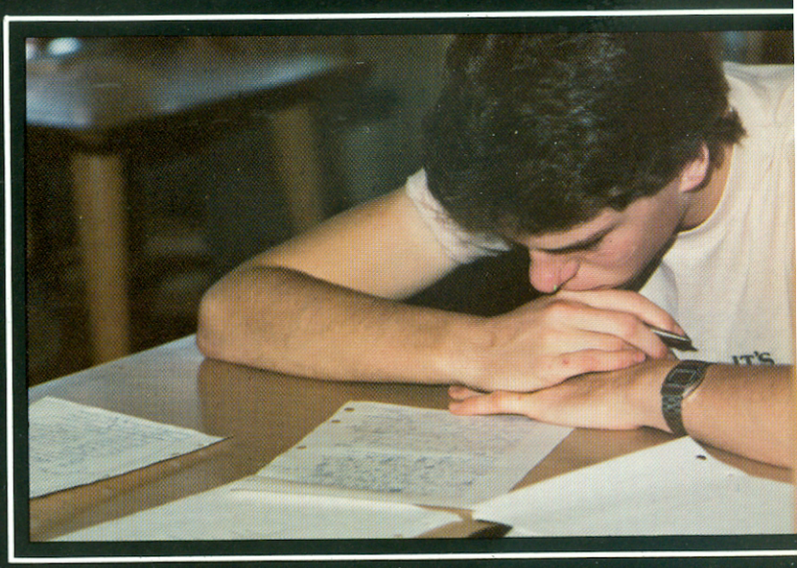


New worlds discovered in a drop of water.



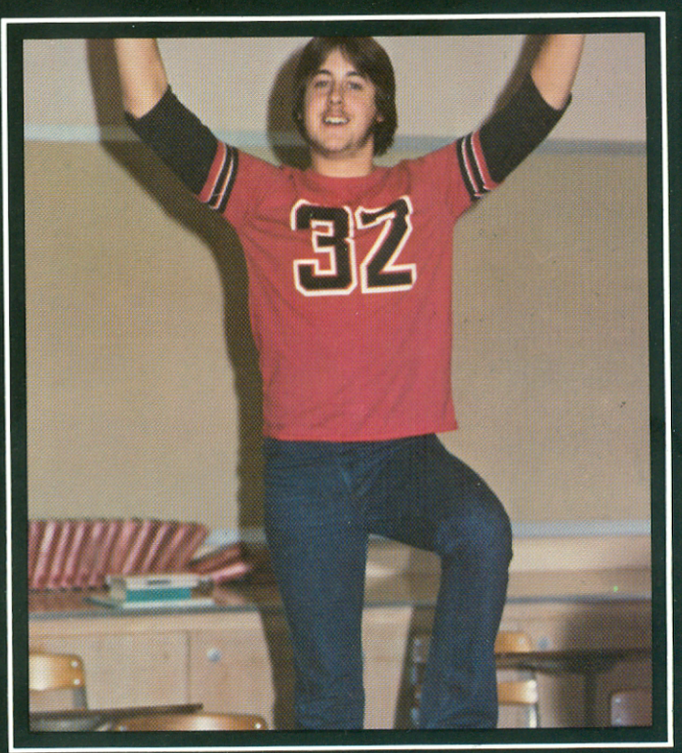
Amy Adams has a man on her mind.

A study in concentration.



Dear John . . .

Is Dan really shy?



"Don't shoot! I'll do my homework!"

Typists have the "velvet touch."

Bathing beauties.

LEISURE TIME . . .

is enjoyed by all at East. This is the time when students have a chance to relax and talk with their friends. Lunchtime and studyhalls are a well-deserved break from the academic routine. Meeting places at East are very diverse. While some students gather under the clock in the foyer, others prefer the porch for their social spot. Our lingering memories of East will be highlighted by the lighthearted fun times and the many laughs we shared during our leisure time.

"I got the signal."

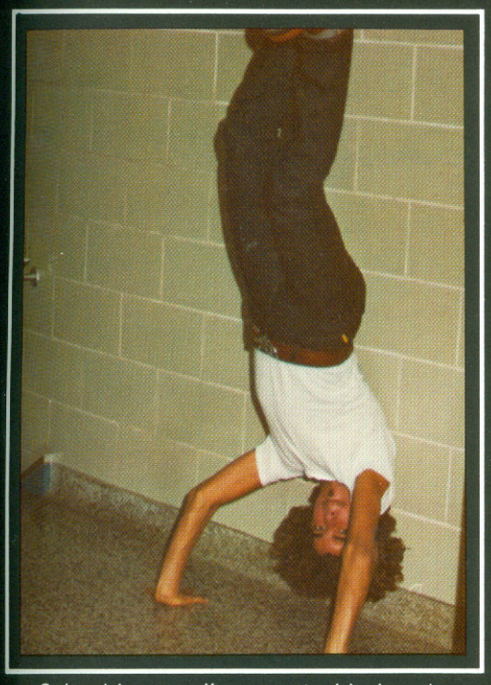
Thoughts of graduation . . .

Cameras tend to draw a crowd.

Yummy in the tummy!!

Boys must play.

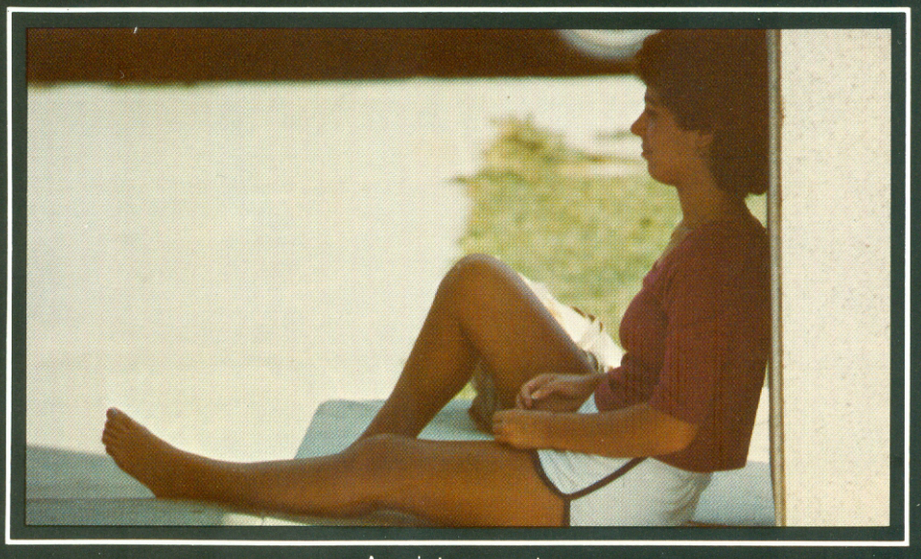
Marc is caught with his mouth open again.



School has really gone to his head.

Doug Clark sees a girl.

Judy forgot her dental floss.



A quiet moment.

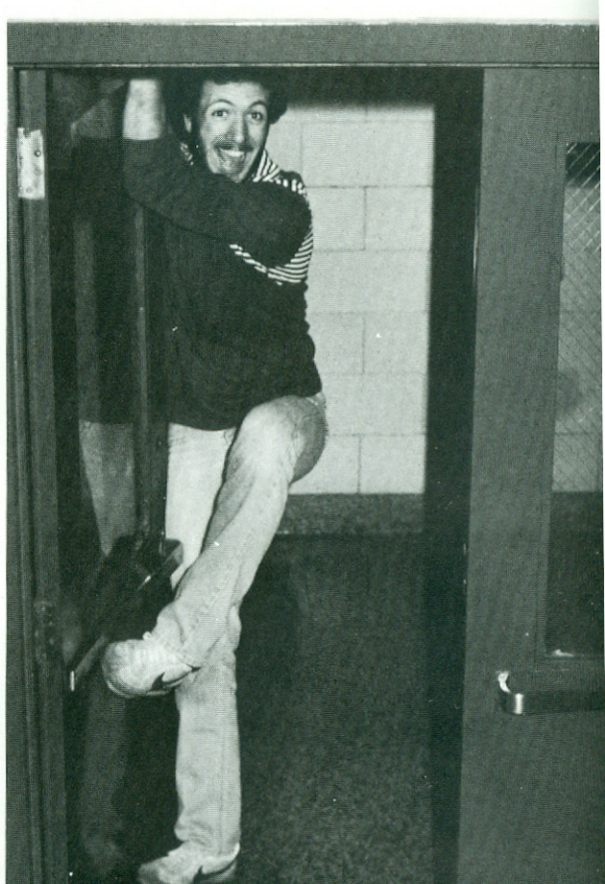
Jim Vastola — stud of the year.

The halls are for dancing.

"I can't believe I'm eating this."

LEAVING TIME . . .

is one of the nicest times of the day for students (and teachers) at East. As soon as the bell rings, many are already headed out the door. Some students spend time chatting with their friends in the foyer or in the parking lot before leaving for home. But for others, the 2:45 bell doesn't represent the end of the school day. There are meetings for clubs, athletic and dramatic practices, and numerous other activities going on after the end of the official school day.



Anticipation: climbing the walls.

Calm before the storm.

A rare moment of silence.

Big plans for the weekend.

Is this dedication, or what?

Bus riders are friendly people.

Free at Last!

"We use Pepsodent"

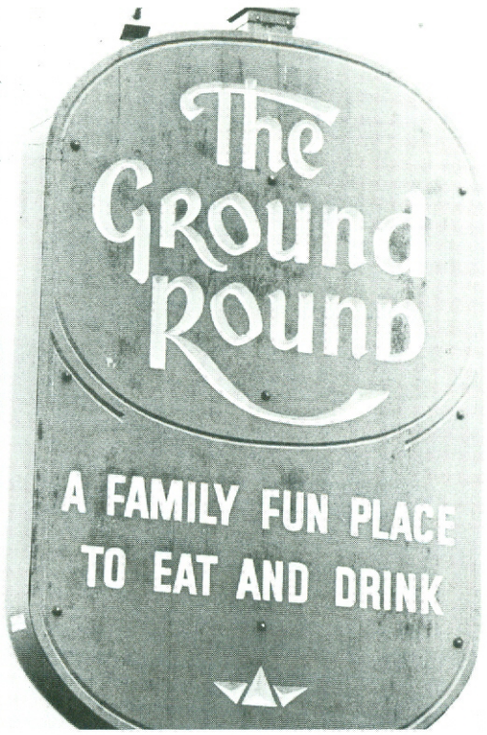
"I can't believe I have all this homework!"

OFF and running . . .

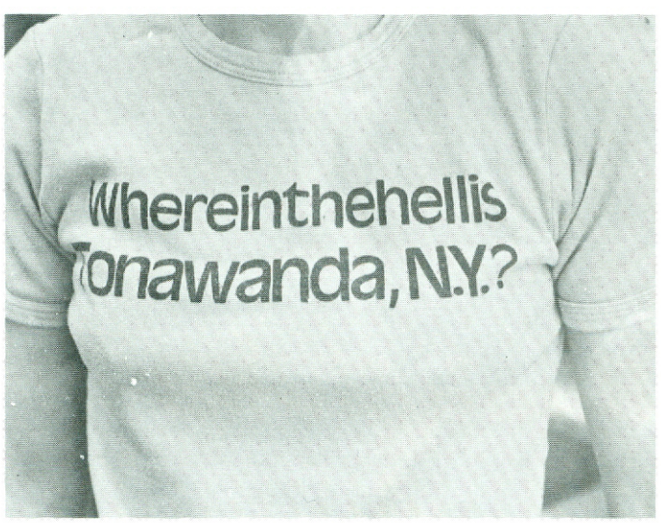
Staying after school doesn't make Dave happy.

PARTYTIME . . .

With t-shirts proclaiming "Where in the hell is Tonawanda, N.Y.?" in bold letters, Kenmore East students activities on the weekends readily contrast the image the t-shirt conjures up. The 2:45 bell on Friday symbolizes the beginning of the weekend, a long-awaited break after a week of hard work. Tonawanda is full of places to eat, from famous Buffalo wings at Duffs and beef on weck at Anderson's, to Mexican-style tacos at the Mighty Taco. Our town also has many social spots and movie theatres where students can have fun or catch the latest movie. Fall afternoons are favorites for chilly Bills games and as winter nears, the Stallions and Sabres seasons begin and spirit remains high through the year. Concerts are also frequent and well-attended events in the area. For those who are willing to go a little further for entertainment, Canada and Niagara Falls are only a few minutes away. They not only offer a whole slew of new places to visit, but also are a romantic spot for a quiet date.



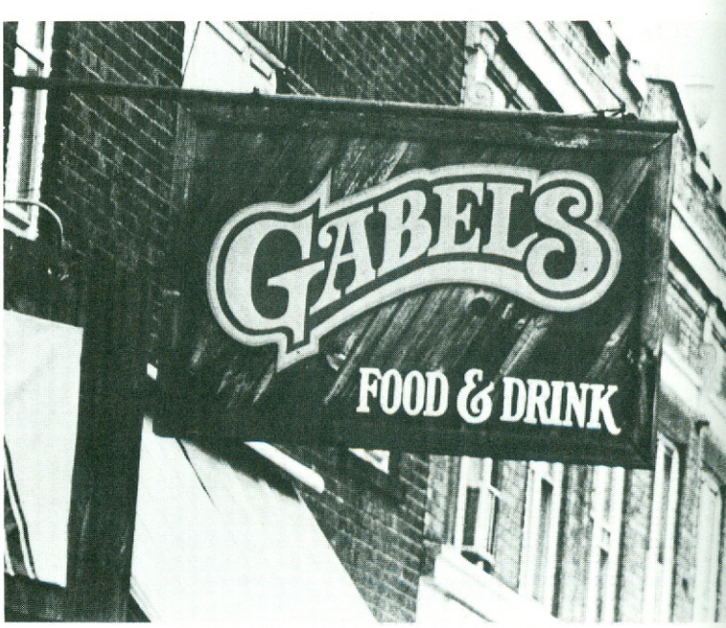
Who can resist free popcorn?



Our best travel ad.

A haven for video game addicts.

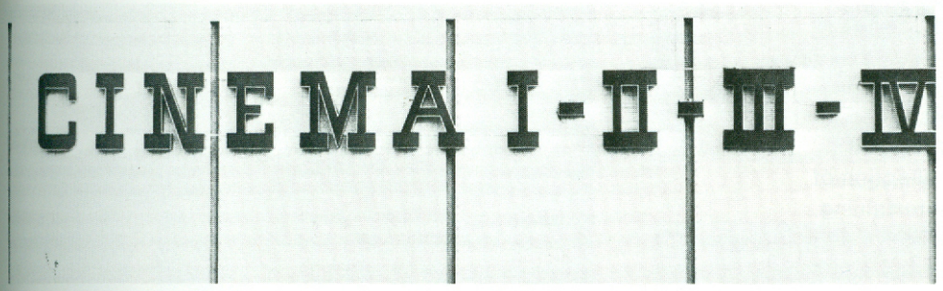
A sure cure for the munchies.



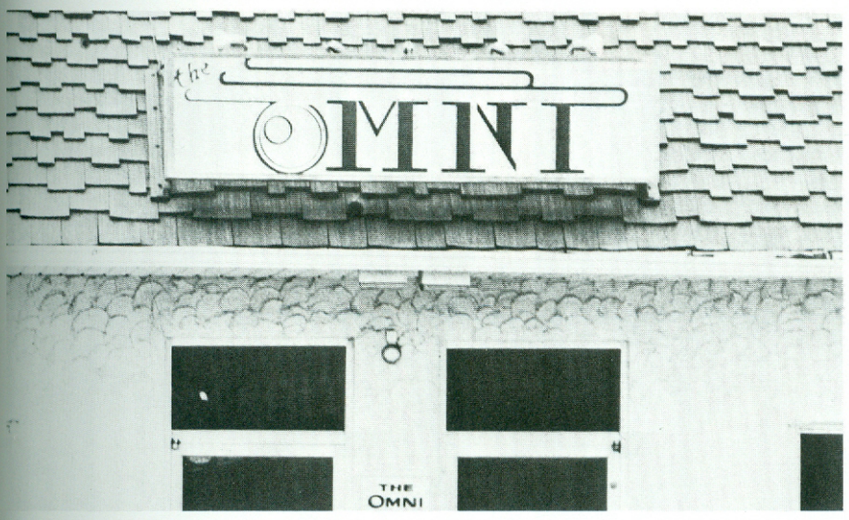
A favorite hangout of East seniors.

For the best wings in WNY.

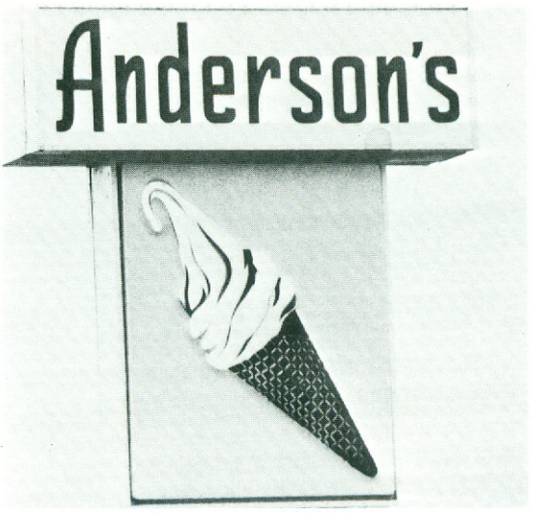
Stanley hopefuls.



The place to check out the new flicks.



A popular bar around town.



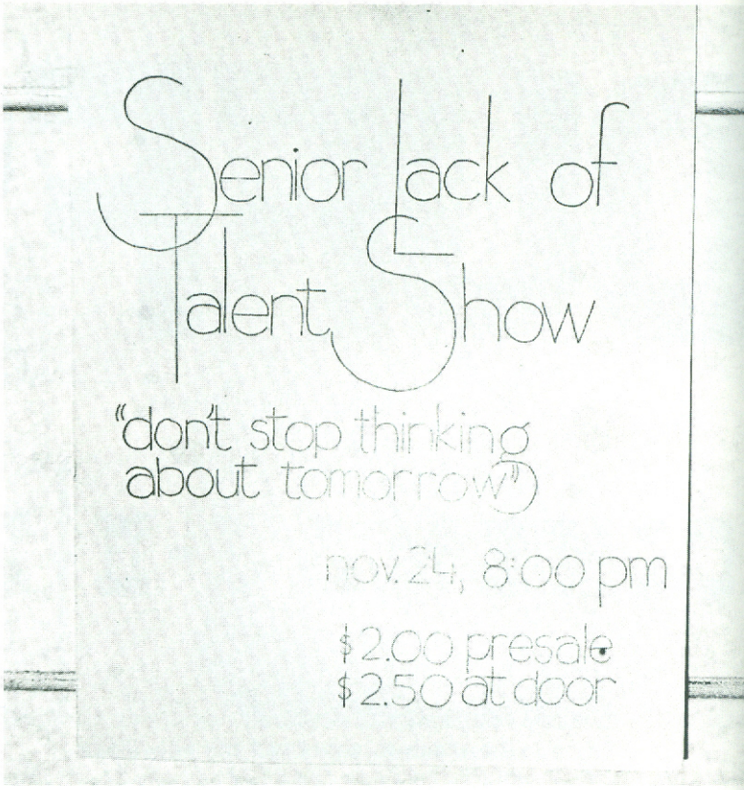
A summer tradition.

An international sign . . .

. . . points the way.

SENIOR SHOW 1982

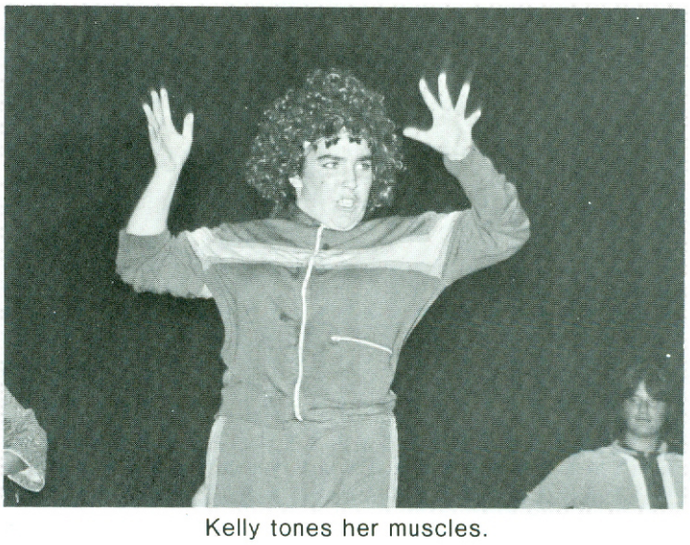
The class of 1983 took to the stage this year with fervor and the show lived up to its title. Highlighted by two fine bands, several dance acts, and a collection of crazy comedy skits, the show was entertaining. Among the unusual acts were the Geek of Oz and Let's Talk Genetics. Everyone involved with the show enjoyed themselves and the audience was treated to a performance which will not be easily forgotten.



An appropriate title for the show.

Future tales unfold.

Al DeLattre is starstruck.



Kelly tones her muscles.

Steve's got the beat.

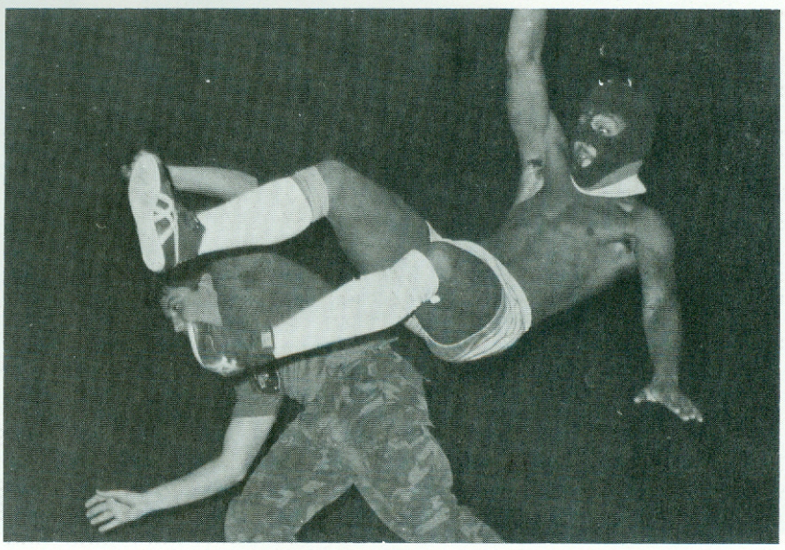
Senior girls roast the guys.

Kevin sererenades his admirers.

Dale attempts to be humorous.

The life of a star isn't easy.

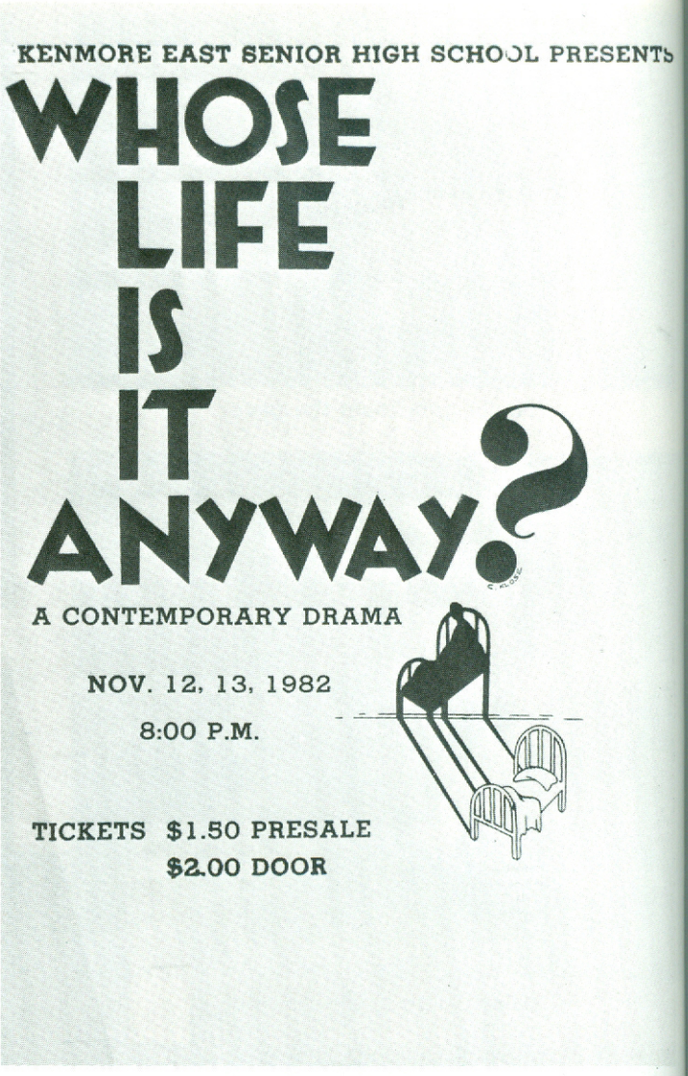
Dreams of John Entwistle.



Bodies fly on stage.

WHOSE LIFE IS IT ANYWAY?

This year's All-School Play, "Whose Life Is It Anyway?", was a great success. Turning in an impressive performance was Dan Mattesion as Ken Harrison, a helpless quadraplegic. Featured as his concerned doctors were Renee Stasio and Francis Vogt. Ken's questionable "life" in the hospital was brightened by nurse Kay Sadler played by Kelly Sheuneman and the far out orderly Steve Jamison. Although comic at times, the play evokes a serious question of who has the power over one's life. Other solid performances were by Leah Archibald, James Austin, Jim Vastola, Dave Rezel, Todd Mordick, Renee Giaraffa and Craig Klose who helped to make the show a successful and convincing drama. Stage direction was by Arthur Cranston and the student director was Renee Giraffa.



A controversial issue.

Mrs. Boyle discusses Ken's condition with Nurse Anderson.

Philip Hill reviews his case.

Ken is befriended by an easygoing orderly.

Dr. Emerson faces a difficult decision.

The nurses give Ken a lot of TLC.

Dr. Scott expresses her concern for Ken.

Ken's psychiatrist ponders the situation.

THE WIZ

In 1983, Kenmore East undertook a great challenge in producing The Wiz. A contemporary adaptation of "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz," the musical was extremely difficult to choreograph and direct. The story finds Dorothy swept from Kansas into the land of Oz. She journeys to seek help from the Wiz and along the way she makes friends with a lion (Todd Mordick), a tinman (Dan Matteson), and a scarecrow (Craig Klose). The show was musically and theoretically excellent and was received well by the full capacity audiences. Tom Doyle directed the musical portions extremely well and Arthur Cranston combined with the leads to create excellent acting.

Glinda (Debbie Dinero) tells Dorothy the secret.

Aunt Em (Sue LaMendola) comforts Dorothy.

The Tinman slides in to see the Wiz.

Dorothy (Michelle Carozzolo) meets the Munchkins.

Emerald City glitter.

Addaperle (Kelly Scheuneman) points Dorothy toward the Wiz.

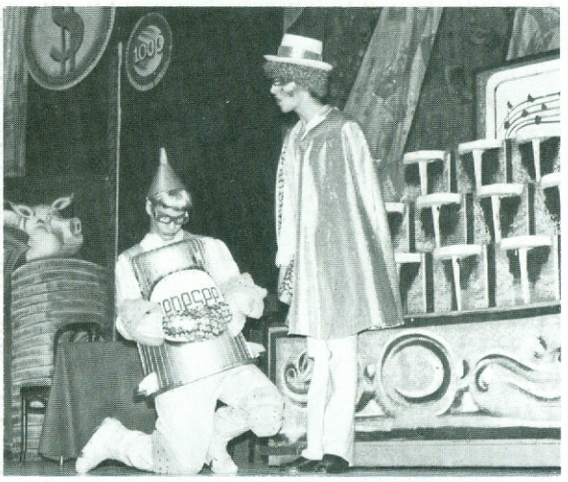
The Scarecrow is happy to be on his feet again.

Dorothy sings the praises of home.

Evillene (Leah Archibald) sits on it.

The Wiz (Fran Vogt) reveals his true identity.

Back-up singers add a new dimension.



The tinman asks the Wiz for a heart.

GLOSSARY 1983

Awesome — better than excellent, completely indescribable.

Blow off — n. 1. a person whose schedule consists of less than 2 classes. v. 2. to totally disregard something in favor of another thing more fully enjoyable.

Book — see motor.

Bowing to the porcelain god — happens mostly after a night of heavy drinking. See york, tossing cookies, blowing oats.

Brownnose — a teacher's pet, typically a skip.

Bullsheister — obnoxiously enthusiastic fatalistic supporter of school teams, uses plungers and wears masks.

Bummer — something that affects the emotional state in a negative way, something depressing.

Burn — see roast.

Crank — to kick butt, turn up, turn on, speed up, ie. "crank the stereo", "crank the car to 90", "crank the sucker."

Geek — wimpy, long-necked peahead with a lousy physique. Unsuccessful in everything. A contemporary nerd.

Grody — dirty, messy, disgusting, something not to be touched with the hands.

Head — one who enjoys the effects of mind-altering substances, resides in lavs, says "man" frequently. See waste.

Jam — something excellent, fun to do. One has a jam when their parents are out of town.

Jock — One who is athletically inclined, has distinct style of walking. The "popular" ones.

Like — a fill-in word. Used between every other word. Versatile, can be used as any part of speech.

Massive — totally awesome, entirely excellent, fantastic.

Mega — to the max the most, the best.

Motor — to leave, take off, bookage. To proceed quickly, as in leaving school.

New Wave — A contemporary lifestyle. Characterized by certain music, styles of dress, and behavior. More sedate than punk.

Prep — one who dresses ultra conservatively. Marked by sickeningly good manners.

Psyched — to be greatly excited, full of enthusiasm. Rahs are easily psyched.

Punk — One who enjoys being outrageous. Marked by mohawk haircuts, torn clothing, and wild makeup.

Rag — n. 1. an ugly person. Someone you say no to when asked to the prom. v. 2. to give someone a hard time. "I got ragged on for not graduating."

Rah — One who is a perenial supporter of jocks and sports teams. Giggly, school-spirited.

Roast — To mock, embarass totally, usually done in front of a large crowd.

Skip — A person who finds studying more fun than the other pleasures of life. See scooter.

Spent — exhausted, drunk, incapable of going any further. One becomes this way after cranking too much.

Stud — A male who thinks he is gorgeous, cool, and is proud of his alleged sexual prowess.

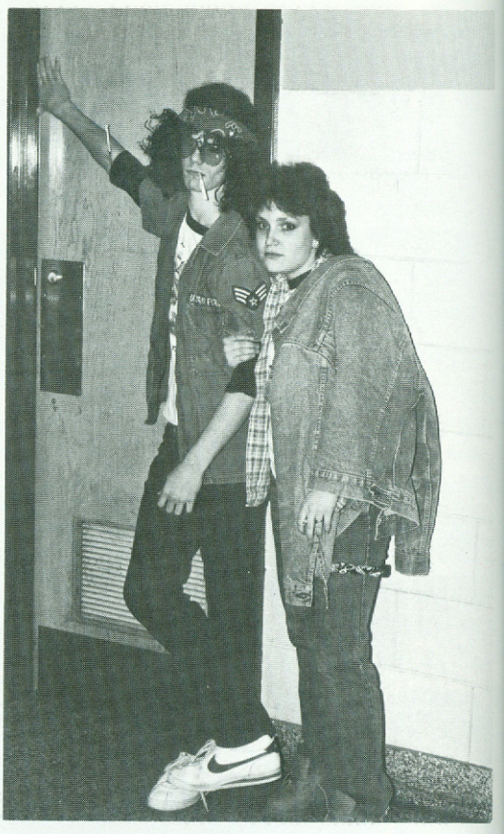
Swirlie — Giving a person you dislike a free shampoo in a toilet.

Totally — Completely. The farthest one can go.

Val — Craves all new fashions and trends. Uses Valley talk. A total state of mind.

Valley Talk — Lingo of Vals. See awesome, totally, grody, gag me with a spoon, for sure, Oh Mi God!!!!!

Waste — Under the influence of mind-altering substances. See buzzed, blitzed, smashed, tanked, blotto.



Heads head for their favorite hangout.

These jocks think sports are a great pick-up.

This rah is psyched for the game.

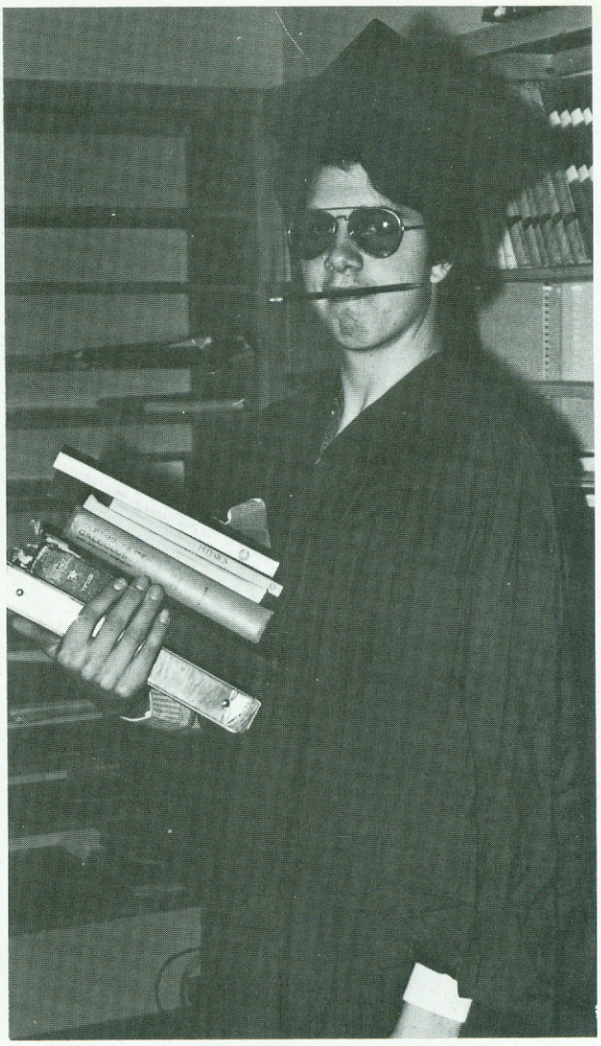
"Like, Oh Mi God!!"



Skips graduate at the top of their class.

Punkers shield their eyes from the New Wave.

Preps in a classic pose.

CREATIVE COLLAGE

Art and poetry in its many forms provides East students with an excellent outlet for their emotions and feelings. The art work gives students the opportunity to express themselves creatively. The Collage is a brief glimpse of the vast talents that East students possess and use to beautify and enlighten our world.

Helpless Love

I tell you that I love you,
you turn your head away.
I tell you that I need you,
What more is there to say?
The things I do for you
don't ever satisfy,
You never seem to smile
no matter how I try.
Are you telling me its over,
Are you saying that were through?
For if you are I'd like some time to have a word with you.
I gave you all my love,
I gave you all my time,
I gave you what you needed,
believing you were mine.
So if that is how you want it,
then thats how it shall be,
And my love for you will fade:
the love you couldn't see.

Stage

The heavy curtain
Slowly
  Moves
    Aside
Allowing the Flame of Illusion
To brighten and warm
The lives of those
Who gather round
The blaze to warm themselves
When the fire dies out,
The world is a colder
And more forbidding place
To those who must
Return to Reality,
But they will always carry away
from the heat
A small spark
To warm themselves
In times of frost.

Gabe Bouliare

A Friend

Where are you my beautiful friend?
The one that was so dear.
I feel so empty and alone,
Why did you leave me here?
I miss you so very much and it's the future that I fear.

A future without you,
When you were here I was not so scared.
There was not anything we could not do,
I miss everything we once shared.
I found the sweetest days with you,
There wasn't one day I didn't think you didn't care.

Now that you are gone for good,
it hurts me so bad.
I think of you and want to cry,
but then I remember the good times we had.
Those times were the best times in my life,
I will always miss you, DAD!

Lisa Sagehorn

Dan Finnerty

I am a crystal
When the warm sunlight
Shines upon me,
I smile and release
The beautiful rainbows
Trapped inside of me
From dark, rainy days.

I am a crystal
And possess the magic
Of brightening an empty room,
When I dance in the
Captivating sun rays.
But when my friend, the sun,
Abandons me, I sit quiet
And still-yearning for the Next sunrise and another
Chance to taste the sweet happiness
Of sharing my magic
With the cold walls that
Anxiously await my rainbows.

Greg Stenis

The other day I found a box
In which I had kept
All my high school memories.
In it was:
cards from the annual candy-cane sale, pressed flowers from a valentine, pictures of friends, love letters, pamphlets from school shows, ticket stubs from football games, autographs in old yearbooks, and cheery notes from friends.
As I went through, I relived
Every event and wished the
Years had not gone by so fast.

Karen Walsh

Only a Memory

She was not just my friend,
We were closer than sisters,
She could tell me her dreams,
And know that I really cared.

Then slowly her thoughts changed,
I could no longer relate,
To that caring, feeling,
Beautiful friend I once had.

She found different friends,
And a new way of thinking,
She had changed from my friend,
Into a total stranger.

People have talked about,
"That drugged-out, starry-eyed loser",
And I can't make them believe,
The truth about my "sister".

Jocelyn Krieger

As you pass through the many stages of your life, you will find that the people who shall be most important to you in your life, are the ones who will accept you for the way you are and not for some image that they would like you to be.

Candle and the Shadows

The candle's flame danced a pagan dance
Writhing, twisting, and falling.

It fought to keep back the looming shadows
Lurking beyond its reach.

But a breeze came up. The flame went out.
The shadows filled the room.

Todd Mitchell

Everytime I look at you
I remember all we've shared
The time we spent together
I hoped you really cared.

When with you I was happy
When away I seemed alone
I thought you felt the same
If only I had known.

There's just one thing I ask
Please help me to see
Tell me what I ever did
To make you stop loving me.

Lonely

It's cold out now; the trees are bare —
The snow is flying, and no one's there;
I'm all alone in this great big place,
Just another person in the human race;
Like the snowflake that falls slowly to the ground,
I'm the only one here — there's no one around;
It's lonely here — I'm being engulfed;
Like the fish in the ocean, I'm totally lost;
Help me someone — help me find my way,
I want to see everyone; I want to see a new day.

What we are and

Wall of Strength

I needed you then — I still need you now,
You were my beacon in the night,
Whenever I was down, you'd make everything alright;
You promised we'd be together — not just today but every year,
Then why did you go away and leave me all alone here;
I think about you all the time —
I miss all the love we once knew,
I suppose I can make it on my own,
But life won't be the same without you.

Not to return and
Taste its bitter-sweet tang
Once Again.

ADMINISTRATION

The upper echelon of the Kenmore East staff is the administration. Under the direction of principal William Keasling, the assistant principals direct the academic, extracurricular, and athletic activities at East. Their whole-hearted efforts and dedication make Kenmore East a smooth-running and efficient school.

The Guidance department serves the students at East in many ways. It provides underclassmen with advice on class selection and recommend courses. Graduation students are given ideas on colleges and post-high school employment in and ever-tightening job market. The guidance staff helps all students plan and prepare for their future.

MATH

Many new curriculum changes have been made in the Math Department this year. The new curriculum places less emphasis on the things easily done by calculators and computers, and more emphasis on problem solving, probability and logic. Unified Math II has replaced Math 10, and General Unified Math II is also new.

SOCIAL STUDIES

The Social Studies Department takes pride in teaching the skills that will help students function successfully within society. New aims being incorporated into the curriculum this year include a new semester course for tenth graders so they will complete the ninth-tenth year required World Cultures course. This change was made in order to reemphasize World Cultures as a part and basis for our civilization.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The main goal of the Special Education Department is to provide each student with an individualized academic and vocational program. It is divided into four areas of specialization. The Special Service program remediates and increases the student's basic skills. The TMR program teaches self-sufficiency skills to students enabling them to function in society. The Resource Room provides materials and teaching techniques to aid students in learning. The Specialized Workstudy Program offers academic and work oriented opportunities using school and community resources.

VARIED CURRICULUM

The Foreign Language Department has seen numerous changes during the past year in its effort to keep up with an increasing demand for foreign language majors. The retirement of Mr. Leonard was countered to the faculty by the addition of Mrs. Haller and Miss Subar. A new course, Russian I, was also added.

Industrial Arts and Home Econoimcs have continued to offer popular courses for students to take due to their career-oriented subjects.

The Music and Art Department help to enrich our school with their many fine performances and exhibitions throughout the year.

LIBRARY

The Ken East librarians provide a valuable service to the students and faculty of the school. They make books, magazines, and numerous research materials constantly available. Their hard work and dedication goes unnoticed as the people at East use the library's vast resources.

HEALTH

The Health Department serves an important role in balancing the curriculum at Ken-East. The program consists of instruction on proper diet, ways to keep physically fit, plus the discussion of such topics as mental health and social responsibilities. Films and guest speakers are used to accent the course.

Cafeteria Staff: N. Snyder, M. Salamone, S. Boss, A. Chimiewlewski, F. Gabriel, and M. Constanting.
