Living Messages Education Consultancy

Ezette Grauf is an international education consultant, leadership coach, former school principal and early years learning architect. She is the founder of Living Messages Education Consultancy.

With more than 25 years of experience across early childhood, school leadership and curriculum reform, she has worked with educators and leaders in Australia, the Middle East, India and beyond.

Passionate about the early years, Ezette specialises in literacy, pedagogy, curriculum design and creating learning environments that honour children's curiosity, competence, and agency. Her work spans classroom practice, leadership development, professional learning, resourcing, coaching and system-wide improvement initiatives, including the design and resourcing of new libraries.

Known for her engaging and practical approach, Ezette combines research, real-world experience, a deep respect for children's thinking and a focus on the human side of school change. She supports educators to build rich learning cultures where both children and adults can thrive.
