Student Technology & Cell Phones

North Valley Cell Phone and Personal Devices Policy
North Valley is focused on preparing our young adults for post-secondary success. This includes learning to use technology at the appropriate time and place and for specific purposes.

- Students are allowed to use their cell phones or ear buds during lunch or specific teacher-directed times. Teachers may require that student devices be off and away in their classroom. Expectations will be communicated in the course syllabus and addressed during advisory and community meetings.
- School-provided technology such as Chromebooks and assistive devices are permitted when appropriate for the learning task.
- If a student does not respond to teacher expectations and redirections, the student may be referred to administration for problem solving.
- Smart technologies that can record others (such as Meta glasses) are not permitted in order to protect student and staff privacy.
- Students who cannot use technology appropriately may lose the privilege of having their phone or other devices during instructional hours.

In case of an emergency, parents needing to contact their students may do so through the NV Main Office. Additionally, students may use the main office phone for emergencies.
