TYE Academy

TiE Young Entrepreneurs (TYE) fosters the next generation of leaders through the transformative experience of building a startup. This extracurricular program for exceptional high school students provides participants with the essential business and leadership skills to prepare them to succeed in college and beyond.

TYE Academy serves students in grades 9–12 through 12 alternating Saturday sessions from October through May at Cambridge Innovation Center in Kendall Square. Students work alongside entrepreneurs and mentors to conduct customer research, prototype solutions, develop business and financial models, and ultimately pitch their ventures.

More information and application are available on our website.

McKinsey Alum Workshop | Navigate Case Competitions

Join Harvard and McKinsey alum, Stephen Turban, for a free workshop on how to break down a case prompt, understand what judges look for, and present your thinking for the Harvard Student Agencies Case Competition.

Date and time: September 18 (Friday), 9 PM Eastern Time
Register here: https://luma.com/cfpxfvzy

The HSACC is a global business case competition where high schoolers advise Apple on pricing strategies to win a share of $13,690 in prizes. Judges come from McKinsey, Microsoft, and Procter & Gamble. Registration is $10 through Sept 30 (then $15 until Oct 17). More information here.

Young Founders Lab

The Young Founders Lab is now accepting applications. During the program, students work with startup founders and MBA mentors while building their own venture or nonprofit.

20% of our alums end up going to an Ivy League or Stanford - 4x more than the general pool. More info in our brochure.

The deadline for the next Cohort is Sep 21. Apply here.
