JOB POSTING

Part-Time, Long Term English Instructor

January 23, 2024 – May 24, 2024

Application Posting Date: Friday, January 5, 2024
Application Closing Date: Until suitable candidate is found

The long-term substitute will assume a teaching load of one class each week including office hours. The class is described below:

AP English Language & Composition

Students in this introductory college-level course read and carefully analyze a broad and challenging range of nonfiction prose selections, deepening their awareness of rhetoric and how language works. This course prepares students for the AP Language and Composition test in May 2024. Through close reading and frequent writing, students develop their ability to work with language and text with a greater awareness of purpose and strategy, while strengthening their own composition skills. As this is a college-level course, performance expectations are appropriately high, and the workload is challenging. Students are expected to commit to a minimum of five hours of coursework per week outside of class. Often, this work involves long-term writing and reading assignments, so effective time management is important. Because of the demanding curriculum, students must bring to the course sufficient command of mechanical conventions and an ability to read and discuss prose.

Qualifications:

A successful candidate will have at least a BA in English or a BFA in writing and be capable of not only conveying this material to the students but also aiding students in writing analytical papers on the assigned themes and concepts.
