Meet the All-Observer lacrosse teams, the best prep athletes in the Charlotte area

By Steve Lyttle

Brevin Wilson

Varsity Boys Lacrosse

Cannon School senior Brevin Wilson is the Charlotte Observer's boys' lacrosse player of the year after setting school records in several offensive categories and helping lead his school to its third consecutive N.C.

Independent Schools Athletic Association Division 1 state championship. And Aime Caines of Lake Norman Charter is the Observer's boys' lacrosse coach of the year after directing the Knights to the N.C. High School Athletic Association's 3A-2A-1A championship in his first year at the school.

Wilson had a remarkable season and a remarkable career with the Cougars. He totaled 66 goals and 63 assists and finished with the school record for goals (242), assists (180) and points (422), among other categories. Wilson is a two-time all-America selection and won all-conference and all-state honors each of his four years at Cannon School.

He was captain of a team that finished 19-3, narrowly beating Providence Day 8-7 for that third straight state title.

Wilson will play next season at North Carolina.
