The Bronstein Brief

Happy Friday, Somers!

This past Tuesday was a Professional Learning Day for all faculty in each of our four schools. I had the opportunity to visit with our administrators and curriculum leaders who led this important work. The topics for professional learning are based upon our Districtwide Success Plan Priorities for 2026-2027. I commend our teachers for their commitment and dedication to improving their instructional practice and teaching craft on behalf of all of our students in the Somers Central School District.

Around the District

The Primrose Post Office is officially open for the new school year!

Before opening day, second-grade students participated in "Wee Deliver Post Office" interviews, where they learned about the many jobs that help keep a post office running and practiced important skills, including how to properly address a letter. During their interviews, students shared their organizational skills, ways they help out at home and their top job choices.

Following the opening ceremony, students officially stepped into their assigned roles as the first shift got underway! Throughout the school year, every second grader will have the opportunity to take on a job, work alongside their classmates and gain hands-on experience running their very own school post office.

We can't wait to see the Primrose Post Office in action all year long!

Tusker Tidbits

A little taste of Italy at SHS!

In celebration of Italian Heritage Month, our very own Frank DellaCamera treated students to a special mozzarella-making demonstration during lunch! Students had the opportunity to watch the process firsthand and, of course, enjoy some delicious fresh mozzarella samples along the way.

A fun (and tasty!) way to celebrate Italian heritage and culture. Grazie, Frank!

Tusker Pride

A little Halloween fun in 3rd grade! Our SIS students had a spooktacular time showing off their creative costumes during the Halloween Parade and putting their artistic skills to work decorating pumpkins. From festive designs to lots of Halloween spirit, it was a day full of creativity, smiles and seasonal fun!
