

New Salem Document 1

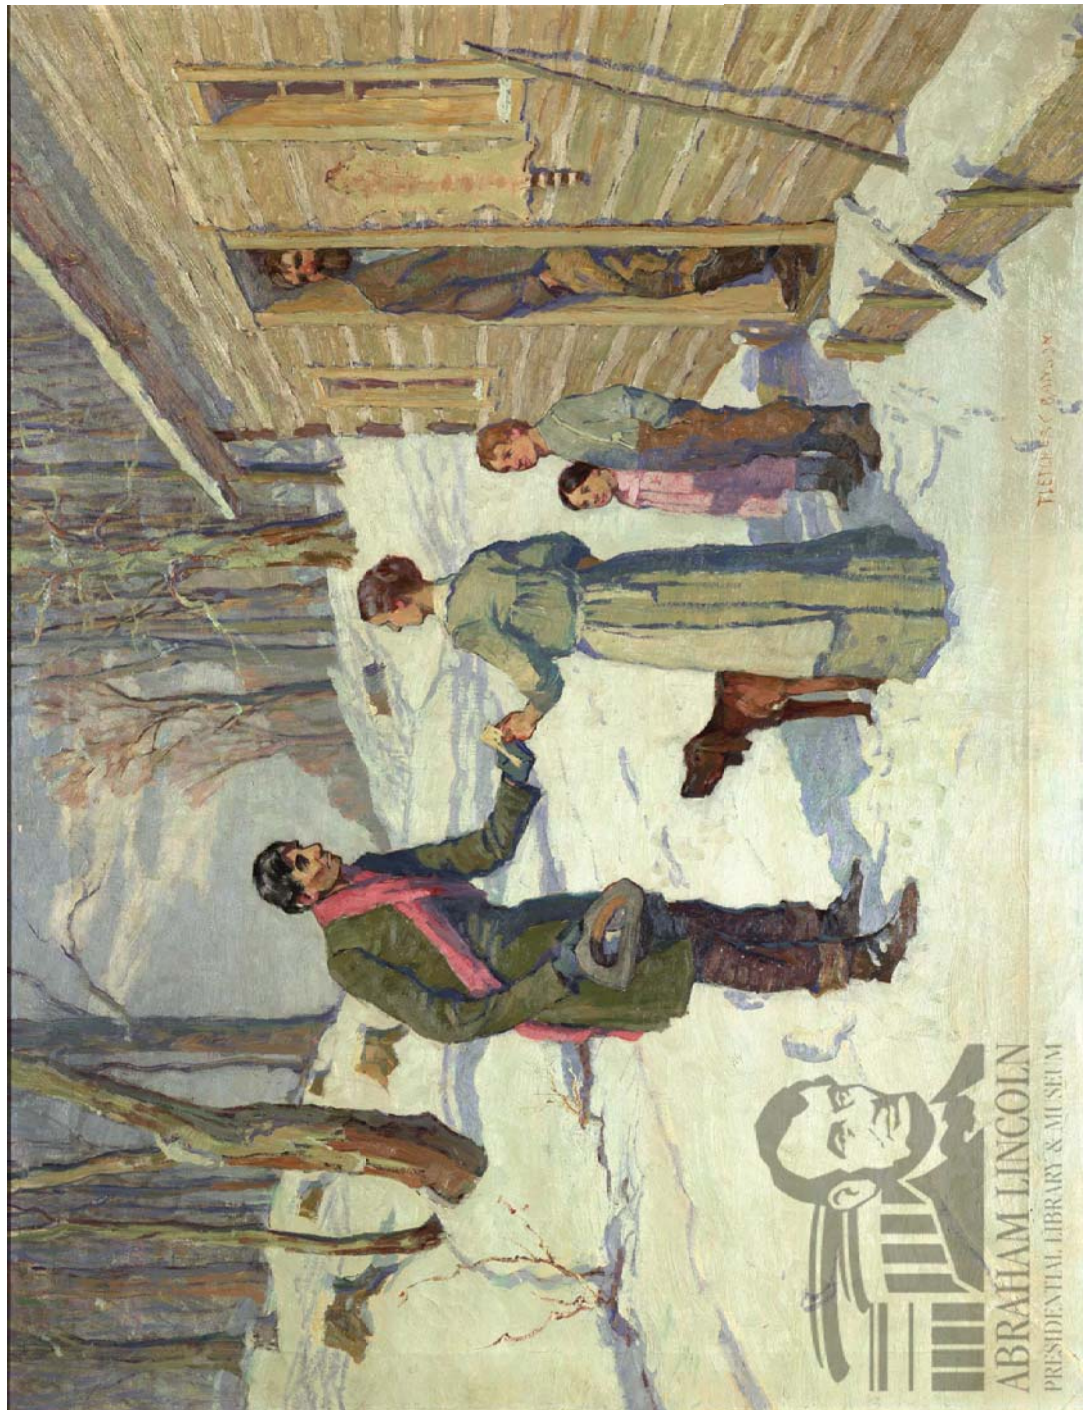

University of Iowa | original from www.artsmia.com

New Salem Document 2

New Salem Document 3 Second Berry-Lincoln Store New Salem Illinois

New Salem Document 4 The painting 'Lincoln the Postmaster at New Salem, Illinois,'

New Salem Document 5

New Salem Document 6

New Salem Document Set

New Salem Document 1 This photo was taken in a Virginia antique shop. It shows the kind of scales a shopkeeper may have used in Lincoln's day. The story is that Lincoln discovered he had used a quarter pound weight when he sold a half pound of tea. He closed the store and walked to give the customer the rest of her tea.

New Salem Document 2

Lincoln, the student, New Salem, 1835 by Ransom, Fletcher C. (Fletcher Charles), 1870-1943 This painter portrays Lincoln teaching himself law in New Salem.

Educational use only, no other permissions given. U.S. and international copyright laws may protect this digital object. Commercial use or distribution of the object is not permitted without prior permission of the copyright holder <http://digital.lib.uiowa.edu/u?/bollinger,3955>

New Salem Document 3 Second Berry-Lincoln Store New Salem Illinois from the reconstructed village in New Salem, Illinois. Photo Used by Permission

http://www.galenfrysinger.com/new_salem_lincolns_store.htm

New Salem Document 4 The painting 'Lincoln the Postmaster at New Salem, Illinois,' by Fletcher C. Ransom (1942).

New Salem Document 5 The post office was located in Sam Hill's store. The mail only arrived once a week. Many people picked up their mail at the store, but for those who did not, Lincoln delivered. He was able to read the newspapers that people received in the mail.

http://www.galenfrysinger.com/new_salem_lincolns_store.htm Used by permission.

New Salem Document 6 A reproduction of the Lincoln Berry store in New Salem, Illinois.

http://www.galenfrysinger.com/new_salem_lincolns_store.htm Used by permission.