

1858

Finally, the United States Post Office developed a better way to get mail across the nation. Butterfield's Overland Express, a relay of stagecoaches, could cross the country in just three weeks.