	This German poster is anti-French, showing the various forms of the French Foreign Legion. The Ape represents the African part. Again always bringing in the Jewish piece as well. Full credit if their name of the poster shows the French in a poor light. Partial credit if they know its German but did not understand it is against the French.
	This is the Japanese version of Loose Lips Sink Ships. Full Credit for Japan's loose lips or even if it is listed as Japanese and a home front issue. Anything else should be zero credit
	This one comes from Italy. The allies are shown as pirates and gangsters. They are being shown as the cause for the war. For full credit the title should bring in either pirates or gangsters. Full credit if listed as Italian. The words are clearly not German, so that answer should only draw half credit.
	This German poster is to show the superiority of the German race. The male is modeled from a character from Gone with the Wind, Wesley. This was Adolph Hitler's favorite. She is young. He is older but in a protection position. They are made to look Roman. The idea is that the Germans are the new Rome. Full credit if the students name this as a positive German poster. The clues eliminate the others.
