

Monument 2

"African American Slavery Monument" in Georgia (USA). This monument is 11' high. Depicts a black family caught in a tight embrace with broken shackles at their feet. Inscription by poet Maya Angelou: "We were stolen, sold and bought together from the African continent. We got on the slave ships together. We lay back to belly in the holds of the slave ships in each others excrement and urine together, sometimes died together, and our lifeless bodies thrown overboard together. Today, we are standing up together, with faith and even some joy."

Monument 3

“Brutal Trade” a suggested design for Hyde
Park, London

Monument 4

“Stephen Foster Statue” is outside the Carnegie Museum of Natural History, Pennsylvania (USA). This monument shows a controversial rendering of slave "Old Black Joe" playing the banjo at the feet of the well dressed white composer Stephen Collins Foster.

Monument 5

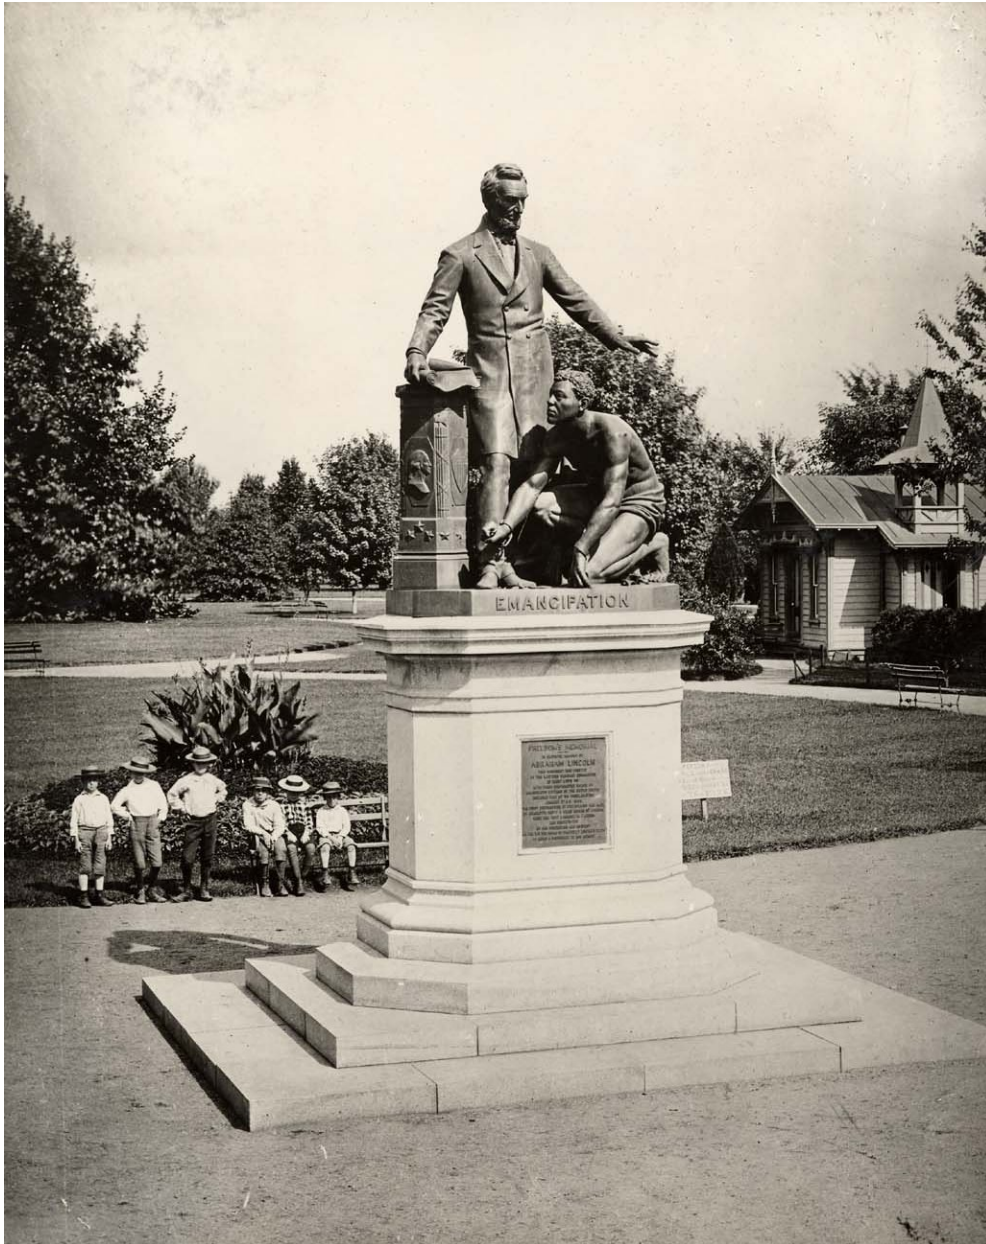

“Monument to Freedom” in Senegal

Monument 6

"Shared Past, Common Future," in the National Slavery Monument in Amsterdam (Netherlands). "Commemorates the abolition of slavery in the Netherlands in 1819."

Monument 1

“Emancipation Memorial” in Washington, DC (USA). The monument depicts Abraham Lincoln holding his Emancipation Proclamation and standing over Archer Alexander breaking the chains of slavery. Alexander was the last slave captured under the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850.