Time Away From the Books

Although free time is scarce to students, when they do have extra time it is spent doing a variety of fun things — from attending school dances and athletic events, to driving around and going to “private parties.” Free time is a very treasured part of a high schooler’s life to spend time with friends, to be alone for awhile to complete their homework, or to relax.

Davey Spolum, Bridget DeClerk, Stacey Greenhoff, Michelle Markuson, and Troy Hammer are posing as mannequins at the Hospital Auxiliary Style Show.

The Year In Review

The year was filled with many happenings that the students will keep memories of. One of the most memorable was the seniors being recognized as the 100th class to graduate from FHS. The Flier Booster Stadium turned 20 years old and the track will be resurfaced during the summer of '92. The boys golf team took the state title and Coach Jim McGlone was named golf coach of the year. Long-time athletic director, Dennis Rhead resigns from that position after 25 years, but will continue his teaching duties. Local news was filled with the news of probable tax hikes, Mayor Lowell Johnson was re-elected and two new school board members, Dave Johnson and Russ Kneebone, were voted in. The Crystal Theatre reopened again so students can now watch popular movies and not have to leave town. Other news items: President was George Bush, Governor was George Mickelson, the Soviet Union was dissolved, NBA basketball player Magic Johnson announces he is HIV positive and crime goes up with some rash ones like Jeffrey Dahmer's cannibalism and the rape trials of William Kennedy Smith and boxer Mike Tyson.

Our athletic director, Dennis Rhead retires from being the AD after 25 years. He will still teach.

Senior DeAnna Knipling shows how frustrating a computer can be but knows how important they are in a young person's life in today's world.

Many scouts never become an Eagle Scout, but Sophomore Adam Headrick made it. He earned many merit badges to receive the award. A ceremony was held in his honor.

America Or Bust

It's safe to say that Kern Madsen certainly got his share of rides in a cop car during his stay in the USA. But whenever you saw him, he always had a smile on his face. Maybe that's because his host father was a policeman. While here, he was active in football doing the kicking, wrestling and track. Kern came from an island in Denmark called Fano-Nordby. When he returns he hopes to go to a two year college where he will study to be a police officer so he can get a car of his own to cruise in. His host family was Pat and Beth Renner.

Igor Elgorriaga literally reached new "heights" during the past year while living with Beth and Darrold Anderson. While away from his home and family in Victoria, Spain, he decided to try a few new things. He started out by going out for football, an uncommon sport in Spain, and then he did something a little more drastic — he started taking flying lessons. Igor found that he had the talent and proved his ability by receiving his private pilot's license before having to leave the United States.

Jerry Elkhuijzen ventured away from his home in Holland to find a new home with Darwin and Jennifer Latham, here in little ole Flandreau. The USA had a rather large impact on Jerry. From his first arrival when he had long hair and a mustache to the end of the school year when he sported the "Elvis do" and the clean shaven look. Some of Jerry's past times include listening to rap music, spending time with blondes, rollerskating, dancing, and anything else that sounds even remotely fun to do.

"We'll miss all of you. Good luck in your future".

Hard Workers

Several of our dedicated students sacrificed countless hours after school and on weekends for the love of money. Leading the pack for employers was the Riverview Manor, Pizza Ranch, Paul's Shurfine and Chuck's Foodland, the Spot, Powers Oil, and some worked for their parents on farms or elsewhere. Favorite ways to spend the money was on 1. Food, 2. Clothes, & 3. Movies.

A new job for kids to do is being a crossing guard at the Spafford Grade School. Two students responsible for this are senior, Chuck Willis doing the morning shift and junior Doug Peters, after school.

Keeping the kitchen the Riverview Manor Nursing Home a clean place is just the job for junior Jeni Story. Looks like a job she obviously enjoys.

Only talented people like Angie Watson and Chris Hecht could handle the high pressure jobs given to them at Paul's Shurfine. Here Angie gives out change while Chris takes the hard task of bagging up the groceries.

Even After Homecoming- We're Still Good Kids

Being chosen Homecoming Queen was one of the most memorable experiences of my high school years.

To kick off Homecoming week, the halls were filled with outfits that clashed. On Tuesday many students were confused with Roseanne Barr, Steve Urkel, and other T.V. stars. Wednesday everyone was seeing stripes and polka dots. Thursday we all went hunting as it was camouflage and hunter day, and on Friday was the infamous Spirit Day (Purple and Gold Day). The bonfire planned for Monday, September 23, was rescheduled due to rain and was held the following evening. The frantic freshmen got off easy on initiations. Next year's class will unfortunately not be that lucky! The week was capped off with the Homecoming dance after the victorious football game against Dell Rapids. A DJ was hired and he played a variety of music to suit many tastes. The cheerleaders are the gals we thank for a fun week at FHS, and Mr. Markuson congratulated us on our "exemplary behavior."

♥ As overall winner for dressing up throughout Homecoming week, Scott Scofield is portraying his favorite T.V. character "Mama" from "Mama's Family."

◆ The cheerleaders help fire up the crowd during the Little Orpheum by doing their routine to the school song while at the same time trying not to hit the Homecoming candidates, and the King and Queen with their pom poms!

Royalty Reigns at FHS

Ask Amy Johnson or Jon LeBrun what the date September 23, 1991 and Little Orpheum meant to them, their answer would probably be, "one of the most memorable events of my high school years." The senior class narrowed the number of candidates down to ten people, five boys and five girls, and the whole student body voted for the King and Queen. Amy Johnson and Jon LeBrun were chosen to be the lovely Queen and handsome King.

◆ Right: As Amy Johnson's name was called, we caught her with this look of "I can't believe it" on her face while her friend, Tammy Hammer, shows her own excitement.

Did You Hear About The Blonde

Anything goes this school year as far as fashions are concerned. Some students stick to the more reserve but hot fashion ideas while others seem to express themselves better with their clothes and accessories. Shorts were once again an issue and the kids lost again. Many were sent home and told to return with jeans. Many blonde jokes were heard early in the year. Lots of kids wore jerseys and baseball caps and many were wearing the popular black and white athletic apparel. So who needs Vogue magazine when you have Flan-dreau High School to turn to for your fashion and fad ideas?!

A popular item to wear during the warmer months of school was shorts. Many kids wore baseball jerseys and athletic shorts like senior Abet Garcia.

While the blonde jokes were going around school, many students like Bridget DeClerk were enjoying them. Here she sits among the blondes of the school (although it's really difficult to see that they are since this is a black and white photo).

All the fashionable back to school feet were sporting black Adidas. Pictured from left are Wendy Kneebone, Tami Johnston, Tressa Koch, Leandra Sutton, Teresa Utech, Tracy Schmidt and Troy Hammer.

Oh No, No Not Again!

The curtain rose and fell on another masterfully executed and well received performance by the All-School Musical crew. The cast and crew ranged from seasoned veterans to fresh recruits. The entire group was overseen and flogged into a state of perfection by directors Janna Ellingson and Marda Olson. After all was said and done (and Joe had stopped messing with those lights) it is hard to imagine the sight of Mrs. Ellingson wringing her hands amid pizza crust, script books, and Clearly Canadian bottles lamenting, 'I just don't see how this is going to come together!' When the dust had cleared from our "rougher" nights, the performance majestically burst forth upon the audience assembled at 7:00 on March 5. During this musical, numerous miraculous events occurred: Sarah Tufty didn't miss one of her thousands exits and entrances; Ryan Johnston perfected his dance; Bridget DeClerk actually took time to breathe during her dance; our three floozies, Stacey Greenhoff, Lori Johnson and Darcy Petersen, stalked the stage to the delight of all with extraordinary swaggers; like Bridget, Heather Johnson also took breathers between words; Craig Tjeersdema delivered whole pages of dialogue aided only by minute scribbles on his hands; Michelle Markuson found peace of mind on-stage after finding her vanished costume; Davey Spolum actually began to act and those indispensible chorus members managed to keep painfully broad grins up throughout all those long songs.

Talking to his wife on the phone is Craig Tjeerdsma while the three floozies, Lori Johnson, Darcy Petersen and Stacey Greenhoff tease him.

A Truly Wonderful Night

May 16, 1992 proved to be a very exciting evening for juniors and senior prom goers and their dates. After working hard all week, the juniors put on a beautiful prom that is sure to be remembered by all. The DJ, Jon Michaels, provided music with videos on a huge screen. Later in the evening, the King and Queen, Tod Lacey and Sarah Tufty, were chosen. After the prom was over, most of the dancers headed over to Eastman Hall to attend the second annual After Prom Party. The theme was "Casino Night" and several card games were set up with Royal River Casino employees helping with the games. Also a ping pong table was set up and the seniors video was playing throughout the rest of the morning. It turned out to be a "Wonderful Night".

The man who provided the music for the Jr.-Sr. Prom was Jon Michaels, a Sioux Falls DJ. He played a wide variety of music that was popular and familiar to everyone.

Above: These two photos show the dancers and the decorating job the juniors did. Many couples turned out for the big dance and money didn't seem to be an obsolete commodity when it came to purchasing dresses, flowers and renting tuxes. Some even rented limos.

Athletics

Stastically Speaking

Football players had an up and down season. They faced a tough conference, but worked it out and came up with an even year. The Fliers finished with a 4-2 conference record. In non-conference action, the team finished 0-2 ending up 4-4 overall. Some positive statistics in 1991 were recorded. Senior Abet Garcia led in pass receiving with 345 yards for an average of 34.5 yards. Quarterback Ryan Johnston passed the ball 126 times, completing 40 passes for a total of 662 yards. Kern Madsen, a foreign exchange student from Denmark, did the punting and kicking for the team. He punted 25 times for 814 yards and had 27 kickoffs for 1130 yards. On kick off returns, Santee Penney grabbed 8 for 149 yards. Punt returns were done by Scott Hinricher, 8 for 61 and Bisson had 10 for 73. The tackling was done by S. Hinricher getting 79 unassisted tackles. The majority of the scoring was done by S. Hinricher (6 touchdowns) and Garcia (5 touchdowns). Madsen also kicked 1 field goal and 13 extra points.

Record 4-17

Even though the Girls' Basketball team lost the District 4A championship game by one point to Howard, they ended the season on a positive note winning two of their last three games. With only one senior, Casi McFarland, on the roster the Flier girls had an inexperienced season ending with a 4-17 record. The team had three girls that scored over 100 points. Trisha Whaley led the Fliers with 248 points. Sarah Gullickson was the next highest scorer with 132 points and Lisa Austreim had 111 points. Whaley and Gul-lickson were also the top two rebounders. Whaley led with 126 rebounds and Gullickson had 114. Paula Hagel also pulled down 108 rebounds to end the season. Sara Shaeffer led the team in assists with 46 and Whaley led the team in steals with 25. "This season was a real tough season for us, but I really think our experience this year will help us next year improve our overall playing," says Lisa Austreim a Junior on the team.

Out of Breath?

During the first two months of school the cross country team put 300 to 400 miles on their shoes. All the hard work really paid off. The only senior on the team, Dennis Hobbie, placed first at the Regions and seventh at State. Sophomore Bridget Hinricher also placed first at Regions and 13th at State. Other team members earning their way to State were eighth grader Charlie Jones and junior Lisa Albers.

Pumping Up The Spirit

Summer practices started for the cheerleaders long before the school doors opened. Through the year, the squads created new ideas to keep the crowds alive. The cheerleaders held a car wash during the summer and raised money for paints and poster tape. The girls were under the supervision of first year advisor, Miss Kristel Bakker. She brought in fresh new ideas for the cheerleaders to work with. During the year, they headed up the homecoming festivities - pep rally, Kangaroo Court, and dress-up days.

Season Ends...

The 1991-92 Flier Boys Basketball season ended just short of a chance at a district championship. They ended with a loss against the Madison Bulldogs in the first round of districts. Although the season fell short, they ended it with a winning record of 11 wins and 9 losses. The team was led by four seniors, Jon LeBrun, Abet Garcia, Jesse Nester and Ryan Oswald. LeBrun led the team with 410 points with an average of 21.6 points per game. LeBrun also led in total rebounds with 195. John Porisch, junior, was second high scorer and rebounder with 349 and 144 respectively. Abet Garcia led in steals with 35 and in assists with 104. The team will lose four strong players, but will have several varsity players back next year.

Good Season

The track season ran to another successful year entering in 12 meets. The girls excelled throughout the season and earned a third place finish at the state meet in Sioux Falls. Senior Casi McFarland lead the girls in both the 100 and 300 meter hurdles. She took first in both at state. Other consistent leaders were Tami Johnston in the triple jump and Bridget Hinricher in the long distances. Hinricher placed second in the 3200 and seventh in the 1600 meter runs earning two school records at the state meet. For the boys during the year, leaders were Jon LeBrun in the discus, Dennis Hobbie in the 1600 and 3200 runs and Desi Jibben in the pole vault.

Another sophomore, Lezni Schipper readies herself to leap when the gun goes off. The Flandreau Invitational was a cold, windy event. She is running the 200 meter run. Holding the blocks for her is Kari Ramsdell.

Sophomore Jamie Nelson takes off running in the 800 relay race. He taking the baton from Duane Rice at the Flandreau Invitational held annually in April. The relay received second place with a time of 1:37.

Left: Matt Spolum, freshman, was one of the long distance runners in that was happy to run to keep warm. He helped the 3200 meter relay take fifth place at Flandreau's meet.

Below left: If winning every 100 meter hurdle event she ran in this season was not enough for Senior Casi McFarland, then taking first place in the State Meet in both the 100's and 300's must be. Casi was a huge asset to the girls team, taking all firsts in the 100's and always placing in the 300's.

The golf boys had an exciting season, winning all tournaments they entered except one (lost by 5 strokes and lost a dual by 1. They took both region and state. State placings were, Shane, 5th; Jesse, 13th; Todd, 25th and Matt, 26th. Much of their success came from many hours out practicing even when they weren't told to. The girls struggled at the beginning, but steadily improved their game. Jennifer Jewett placed 34th at the state meet.

FFA-Know Your Dirt

Being in FFA isn't as glamorous as it looks, especially when you are down on your knees with your hands in the dirt. To many people, land judging is one of the great mysteries of all time. To an FFA member, it is an art form. Participating in other judging activities such as Ag Mechanics, Farm Management, Livestock, Dairy, Horse, Dairy Foods and Meat fill up the chapter's year. Refurbishing the stadium bathrooms, painting Mr. DeBates' tractor and helping at several community events were some of the more glamorous jobs the members did this year. Awards night was May 18.

♦ John Krempges received one of the highest awards an FFA member can obtain — the State Farmer Degree.

♥ The group had the opportunity to promote themselves at the first annual Moody County Farm & Home show. Working the booth are Marsha Utech, Josh Smith and Chuck Willis.

Profits In Carnations

In early September, the Future Homemakers of America were already busy electing officers and ran a membership drive. Sixteen girls signed up with new advisor, Janelle Weatherly. They worked on their Action Activities Events, held a costume party and had a poster fundraiser to pay for membership dues and district and state meeting expenses. They also had concessions for volleyball games and wrestling matches. In January, members went to the district meeting in Madison and AAEs received Excellent and Superior. In February, when they celebrated FHA week, they sold and delivered 250 carnations for Valentine's Day as a fundraiser. They also co-sponsored a dance with the FFA members in March. On May 3-5, Tracy Manwarren, Karlia Willis and Cam

Raye Geraets attended the state meeting in Sioux Falls for leadership training. At the end of the school year, new officers were installed for next year and a final supper meeting was held at the Pizza Ranch. During the summer the group plans to go to Valley Fair.

One Act Plays Steal The Show

Two great plays and a sensational troupe of actors gave the Flandreau audience a fun night of entertainment. One of the plays presented was "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet" which showed what it would be like if all of his leading ladies would meet in one setting. The other comedy was "You Can't Take It With You". This play was a comedy of errors with unexpected twists. Receiving superior acting awards were Emily Firman, Ellen Lacey, Bridget DeClerk, DeAnna Knippling, Davey Spolum and John Miller. "You Can't Take It With You" represented us at region competition at Augustana College in Sioux Falls. Superior acting awards were received by here by Davey playing the eccentric Kolenkov and Bridget playing Essie, the "wanna be" ballerina. The plays were both coached by Karen Thaler, the dedicated supervisor.

The cast of the Shakespeare play — Ellen Lacey, Stacey Greenhoff, Lori Johnson, Jenn Schrecengost and Emily Firman.

Davey Spolum, Mr. Kolenkov, directs Bridget DeClerk, Essie, as she attempts to be a ballerina. Both received superior awards at Region.

Stepping Up And Speaking Out

The Oral Interp team took big steps ahead in 1991. Talented speakers and their dedicated coach, Karen Thaler, gave up precious Saturdays to travel to area schools. The highlight of this year (for the team) was taking home a first place B school plaque from Lincoln High School," commented Amy Toso, a member of the team. Locals were held here on October 20. One student was chosen from each of the six categories to represent Flandreau at Districts in Brookings. Davey Spolum, Bridget DeClerk, Sarah Tufty, and Kathy Redder each advanced to Regions in Watertown. At the State contest in Yankton, Flandreau was represented by Sarah (poetry), Bridget (dramatic), and Davey (serious prose). Davey and Sarah each received a Superior rating and Bridget received an Excellent. A positive year was had by all. Besides gaining speaker points, members gained something more important, self-confidence.

Vocal—And So It Goes

If you attended any chorus concerts, you would've noticed the drastic improvements since Marda Olson took over two years ago. The chorus performed at the Christmas Concert, the Evening of the Arts and at the Spring Concert. Although Marda did not bring back the swing choir, she began a small group chorus which performed at the Christmas and Spring events.

Strike Up The Band

The 1991-92 band year was filled with seemingly thousands of activities and performances. From selling the 25th annual band calendars to the fun-for-all band carnival, members were kept busy in their attempt to raise money for the upcoming Florida trip in 1993. In the fall, the band participated in various parades including Hobo Day and Dakota Days plus field marching at home football games. A special event took place this year when the band was invited to play at the Bandmaster's Convention in Brookings. Concerts were also held for the public. For the first time ever at contest in Sioux Falls, the band received superior scores from all three judges attending. The band also played for many athletic events. This is appreciated by the athletes while they are warming up. The Stage Band always keeps busy whenever asked. They once again played for the Senior

Prom at the Riverview Manor. At the final awards concert, individual contest winners were recognized as were the letter winners. Jenn Schrecengost was awarded the John Phillip Sousa Award and Darcy Petersen received the Band Boosters Scholarship. The band's last performance of the year was on Memorial Day. Different patriotic selections were played at both Trent and Flandreau. This is the conclusion of an outstanding year.

Good Government Needs Brains

National Honor Society and Boys and Girls State are two very important honors one can receive during the last two years of school. Three boys went to Aberdeen and three girls went to Brookings for one week in June to represent FHS at Boys and Girls State. They learned about politics and government. The representatives were chosen by a committee of men and women from organizations that sponsor them. Each person wishing to try out for it has an oral interview with the committee and from that interview the committee chooses. National Honor Society is also an honor to be chosen for. Any Junior or Senior with a 3.0 grade point average has a chance to be chosen. Fifteen bright new members were inducted into the Society this year.

The 1991-92 National Honor Society members are, back row: Dennis Hobbie, Scott Johnson, Tod Lacey, Jennifer Schrecengost, Kathy Evans, Lisa Austreim, Bridget DeClerk, and DeAnna Knippling. Individuals Chosen To Be Leaders

The student council and class officers are chosen to represent their respective classes when there are decisions to be made concerning the students. The class officers organize and hold the class meetings and the student council representatives meet every few weeks to make any important decisions that need to be made or to present issues that need attention. At the beginning of each year, every class meets and elects officers and representatives.

Representing the sophomores are Tracy Schmidt, student council representative; Terry Johnson, student council representative; Jamie Nelson, secretary/treasurer; and Tim Sundermeyer, president.

The freshmen representatives are Wendy Kneebone, student council representative; Matt Johnson, vice president; Mike LeBrun, president; Jeremy Gourneau, student council representative; and Tressa Koch, secretary/treasurer.

From News To Red Ribbons

The third annual Co-Pilot has been a real interest to the Flier students by keeping close tabs on the new faces and activities that go on in our school. With deadlines to meet, the staff takes their tasks seriously. But Teens On the Road to Chemical Health have a different attitude on how to meet their goals. This year's TORCH group is one cheesy bunch! With many new members and Mr. Evan's two new assistants, Miss Harms and Mr. Pirtle, the group planned various activities ranging from workshops to dances to tying red ribbons on cars and doors. They are hopeful that with so many members they will be able to reach more students with their message.

Putting Faces Into Print

The annual staff rose in numbers this year with several juniors joining the force. Together they worked on week nights and after school to produce an annual they are proud of. From all the time spent in the darkroom, arranging the layout of the pages, deciding which page to put what on, and keeping up with all the other activities of creating a yearbook — they kept busy. Proofreading had to be done and all the typing of the copy into the computer was performed. Teamwork proves to be the key to success. Mary Lynn Headrick was the lone adviser during the whole school year and the group puts some hours in during the summer months.

At right: Computer editor of the book was the only senior member, Darcy Petersen. We hope someone else knows how to type next year.

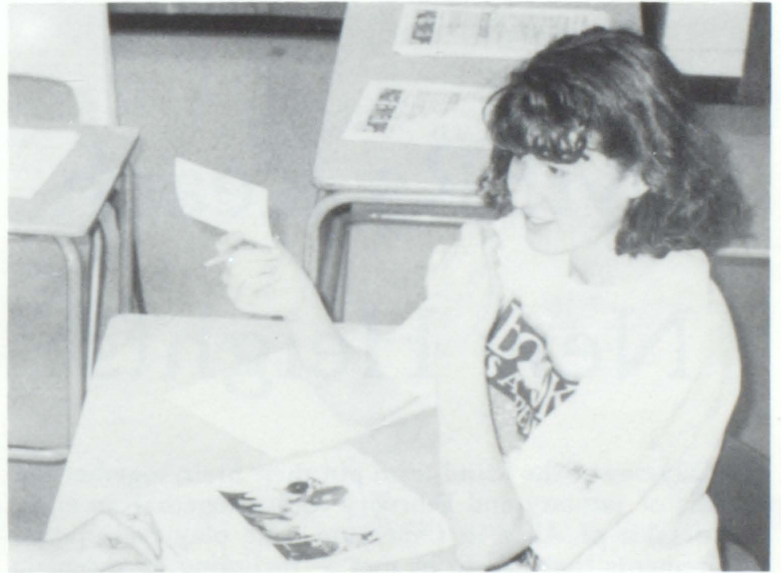

Below right: Junior Lisa Austreim was responsible for writing much of the copy and doing the editing of everyone else's work.

Putting their ideas together on the pages are Leah Scofield and Amy Toso. They are two of the new juniors who joined the yearbook squad. Welcome!!

Above: Ever ambitious Bridget DeClerk is trying to talk everybody into her ideas for the prom decorating page. Bridget is always full of energy and great ideas.

On November 13, 1991, Mr. Benson took 13 students to a Math & Science Contest in Madison at Dakota State University. The teams placed very well. Adam Headrick and Annlee Ellingson, got first and second place respectively in Geometry and then in Biology Annlee got a first and Adam a second. Ryan Oswald received third in Advanced Math and Holly Sutton was first in Algebra II. Overall, the students placed second in the medium division of the science portion and earned a first place in the math division. They brought home two more trophies to add to the case.

OMERs Reach New Heights

The Odyssey of the Mind team put their brain together the months of January and February to put together an eight minute skit of Alice in Omerland. The play had special requirements that had to be met — including an eccentric character, an animated object, a tree or plant that shows human characteristics, something that increased in size and also the character Alice Liddle. The team presented "Alice's Final Liddle Excursion" in Madison. Davey Spolum wrote the script. His mother Kathy was the coach and kept everyone on task. Many props were made and the time spent to make the skit fly went tremendously fast. Bridget DeClerk said, "We were very disappointed at Madison when the judges supposedly did not understand our play and the points made, but the play had a wonderful moral to it. Personally, I think that I both learned and benefited from the hours of hard work."

Odyssey of the Mind members were, bottom, Scott Johnson, Davey Spolum, Adam Headrick, Bridget DeClerk. Middle, Jenn Schrecengost, Angie Watson, Kathy Evans. Top, Lisa Austreim, Amy Toso.

Classes

The teachers and administration worked extremely hard throughout the year to help better the students, whether the students realized it or not. There were two new fearless leaders this year — Janelle Weatherly in Home Ec. and David Spolum in art. Some of the teachers responsibilities were to plan and teach lessons to their various classes, help with detention and lunch duty plus the athletic events. The teachers are also required to attend meetings and inservices. Each year the whole school system's faculty votes to pick a teacher of the year and this year it went to our own, Bruce Porisch. He was recognized at the graduation ceremonies where he received a standing ovation. Even through a busy schedule the faculty runs a very successful high school.

Starting At The Bottom

I don't think it is as hard as everybody says it was going to be.

— Bridget Palmquist, freshman

Even with the frightening thought of initiation, the freshmen were outgoing and energetic about starting their first year of high school. Despite the new schedule and new classes, the freshmen handled their first year in high school quite well. They've gone through alot, such as their first high school semester tests, high school pep rallies, and getting actual credits for accomplishing high school classes. For their homecoming skit they did their version of the "Pepsi Chill-Out." A majority of the freshman class attended the school dances, sporting events, Little Orpheum, band and vocal concerts, and TORCH. They were also involved in one-acts, oral interp, All-School musical, FFA, and FHA.

Sophomores, Movin' Up

Sophomores are ready and waiting to become juniors and to partake in a few more activities — like prom. (Sarah Gullickson and Casey Sampson did get to attend the prom but had to serve punch.) But for now, they'll have to be satisfied by decorating for the graduation exercises and participating in Little Orpheum and extra curricular events. Even though the sophomores didn't have too much to do in 1992, they have a lot to look forward to in '93.

The juniors had a very hectic schedule before them. Between magazine and concession sales to raising money for prom decorations, taking the "last" Stanford test with number 2 pencils, and other tests (PSAT, ACT, and ASVAB). Some days the juniors wish they could trade it all in for the good 'ole days of kindergarten nap time.

Who Could Ever Forget . . .

The 45 graduating seniors in the class of '92 had the honor of being the 100th class to receive diplomas from our school. Every class member will keep memories of their last year here, from Homecoming, to attending governmental board meetings to cheering at the assembly for our State Boys Golf champs. Several members pooled money together and bought a multicolored "Class Car" with the infamous phrase, "Eat Dust" painted on the tail gate. Some will remember individual parties held and the prom put on by the juniors. Many will not forget attending the extra cirricular events they worked hard at — like band, plays, sports, speaking, vocal. Your senior year really is "too good to forget".

Just one of the many fun things that start school off in the fall are the five dress up days to get into the Homecoming spirit. Senior Jason Jensen takes his stripes seriously and wears them every which way.

Senior John Miller goes through the punishment for not dressing properly during Homecoming week but seemingly he doesn't mind having flour all over his face.

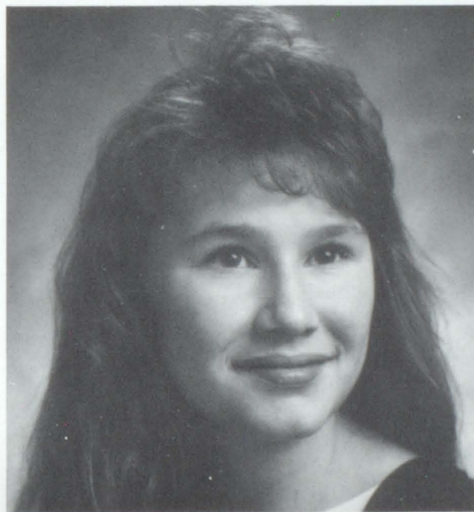

While attending the yearbook signing party in the fall, seniors Tad Greenlee and Luke Pulscher tire of writing in books and their attention turns to arm wrestling. Tad is having a hard time keeping "farmboy" Luke's strength from getting to him.

A car isn't usually something that several people own together unless it happens to be a "Class Car". Lots of kids went in and put together money on the vehicle. Pictured with the "Car" are Luke Pulscher, Theran Koch, Desi Jibben, John Krempges, Tod Lacey, Jon LeBrun and Brian Anderson.

Fest., and the American Legion; DeAnna Knippling, O.E.S., Flandreau Education Association, and the American Legion; Dennis Hobbie, Masonic Award. Front, Casi McFarland, David Jueschke Scholarship and Heather Johnson, Fuller Scholarship.

Awards

The first annual Moody County Enterprise Scholarship is being given to Charleen Lubben by the paper's editor, Chuck Cecil.

At left: Award winners were back row, Tamra Merritt, Charleen Lubben, Craig Tjeersdema, John Miller, Rusch Scholarship. Front, Tammy Hammer, Jelliffe Scholarship and Luke Pulscher, Moody County Pheasants Forever. Charleen also received the Moody County Enterprise Scholarship.

The winners of the Flandreau Education Boosters Scholarships were from left Angie Baer, Teresa Jurgensen, Michelle Markuson, Abet Garcia, Amy Schmidt and Darcy Petersen. Angie also won the Wittern and George Rice Scholarships and the P.E.O. Award. Amy won the Armstrong Scholarship and the Trent Harvest Ag. Fest. Scholarship. Teresa won one of the Fuller Scholarships and the Trent Harvest Ag. Fest.

Centennial Graduates

The moment for graduation diplomas and parties finally arrived on May 24, 1992 at 2:00 p.m. in the gymnasium. Hundreds of family and friends came to see their favorite graduate receive a hard-earned diploma. The class' seventh grade science teacher, Frank Gawell, flew up from Texas with help from monies donated by the class to give an encouraging and thought-provoking address. Besides the 45 seniors representing Flandreau's 100th graduating class, former resident, Bill Janklow was presented his diploma. He would have graduated in 1957, but left school early to join the Marines where he received his GED and then went on to law school and was elected Governor of South Dakota.

Former resident and governor of our state, Bill Janklow receives his Flandreau High School diploma 35 years late. He told the seniors that they actually earned theirs.

Tad Greenlee is taking the time to help his good buddy, Brian Anderson, make sure his cap is situated straight to the world.

Choosing a commencement speaker isn't always something that is very easy to do. Graduates should learn a lot from the address given and this year the students choose seventh grade teacher Frank Gawell. He is now in Texas and is in a very large school system where many of the students do not speak English.

Bottom: The whole high school welcomed three foreign exchange students to the school and as a way of honoring them at graduation they were given these American flags to take home. From left are two of the students, Igor Elgorriaga and Jerry Elkhuisen. Also pictured ready to graduate are Jeremy Entringer, Joe Firman and Tony Francis.
