The school as it looks during the beginning of the year.
Late in the year, the construction begins on the new Moody

County Resource Center which will house a new library with state of the art computer technology and equipment.

From September to May...

1997-1998 was a memorable year all the way through. Students faced the needle at the start of the school year as a second dose of the MMR shot was required for all school age children because of a measles outbreak in central South Dakota. But, come November the needle on the Flier compass pointed towards Mitchell, SD where the Girls Basketball team made their appearance in the State Tournament, bringing home the 6th place trophy.

Spring brought about changes at FHS. Anxious to finish up the school year, some found it hard to study while backhoes, dirtpackers, and other large equipment started work on the new County Resource Center that is being added on to the High School.

The four members on the boys Golf team were also successful. Coach Jim McGlone led his team to a one stroke victory to win the State B Championship title.

As the last of the books were turned in and the final bell rang, students, faculty and administration could all look back on the year and deem it remarkable...from beginning to end.

From top to bottom

After spending the previous year at the top of the pack as eighth graders, the freshmen were forced down to the bottom once more. Most were able to handle the change of seniority by involvement in various clubs, sports and activities while others kept busy with schoolwork.

Participation in Homecoming festivities was another perk of high school. Many tested their acting skills at Little Orpheum while others thought it better to watch. Despite differences, many found the year a great start to the long, but well traveled road ahead.

From place to place

Finding just the right place to be was the job for the sophomores.

Good things to come out of the year for the class was that they were not identified as freshmen anymore and they knew that after getting through this year, they'd be upperclassmen.

Most got involved in something whether it was a club, activity, sport or something totally away from school.

And most got through speeches, dissecting and PE classes.

Above: In a first time public appearance, Mary Katherine Gallagher (Drew Headrick) and Ralph (Travis Deutscher) were crowned queen and king of the sophomore's coronation ceremony during their class skit at Little Orpheum. # From time to time

Many juniors wait for two years to become upperclassmen so when they finally get there, all they think about is the time remaining until they are seniors!

Most are comfortably in a sport, activity or organization by now. They raise money for prom expenses and then decorate for the big dance. For some, it's the first time attending the special event.

Throughout the year, the juniors remember they've done their time as underclassmen and readily greet their new rank.

Right: At the student council games during homecoming week, the egg race was a smashing hit. Here classmates Travis Kuhnelt and Jason Beyer keep their eyes focused on what's between them.

From September 3,

Memories begin the day a 5-year old walks into the Spafford kindergarten room, and they continue to add up until graduation day 13 years later.

From the early years at Spafford on through middle school and into high school, most students can recall good—or not so good—memories. All are important and may never be forgotten.

Friendships have been made and many will always be kept.

OM team wins its way to state competition at Pierre

Creativity, hard work and late nights were all part of Odyssey of the Mind. The group was faced with a unique problem: design a product and its advertising campaign (with an original jingle) under the direction of an unusual mentor, William Shakespeare.

Using dancing noodles, a crazy inventor, a geeky secretary, a time machine, green velvet, yellow tights and Shakespearean quotes, they formed the "You Pick It" advertising agency.

They placed second in the region competition and moved onto state where they were forced to solve another problem—where to stay. All rooms in Pierre were booked so they turned to Angela Lind's uncle, Gov. William Janklow, who offered his mansion.

TORCH took an active involvement in promoting drug and alcohol-free activities. They formed an Improv Group and established TATU (Teens Against Tobacco Use).

Improv performed for the middle school students demonstrating proper problem-solving techniques. They also spoke out against teasing, peer pressure and sexual harassment.

student was rated on a 0-3 scale in the areas of leadership, service and character. Teachers from the vocational, language arts, social studies, science and math departments were on the selection committee as was the principal and counselor.

Students who were selected to the society were given a pin. If a member's grade point average falls below a 3.0, they are dropped from the chapter.

Speaker at the event was substitute teacher Dan Sutton.

Yearbook numbers small; Quiz Bowl earns fourth

Surveys, surveys and more surveys. The yearbook staff had a survey for everything.

A small and virtually new group of students joined the yearbook staff.

Early season computer problems set the group back a bit, but they finally got going in the spring.

Putting in her 11th and final year as adviser was Mary Lynn Headrick.

Members from SEEK, chosen to represent the school in the Central Valley Conference Quiz Bowl competition, competed on home soil for the first time.

Reader's Theater earns superior marks at state

To some people getting up in front of people and speaking for five to ten minutes is torture but for the oral interp team, it's what they like to do.

that they had set for themselves. Categories include solos, duets and Reader's Theater.

This portion of oral interp consists of three to six people performing one piece. The group of Emilee Ellingson, Sara Headrick, Grant Lacey, Kari Lacey and Lynsey Sutton adapted the piece "ABZ's". They took the piece all the way to state at Rapid City earning themselves a superior rating from all three judges.

Also attending state were the duet team of Headrick and Lind and Kari Lacey in poetry.

Members receive 42 degrees at banquet in May

Busy with contests and busy with activities was a common sight for the members.

Leadership contests tested their public speaking and parliamentary skills. The major highlight of the year is the state convention where lots of awards were won. Taking second in the state were the meats, mechanics, and floriculture teams. The chapter won three national chapter awards, six team trophies and numerous proficiency awards.

FFA week is something members look forward to each February. Ag Olympics is held for all the high school students while the younger kids get to attend a petting zoo.

SD theme is "Go the Distance" for FHA chapter

Black and white checkered flags could be seen throughout the year as the chapter used "Go the Distance" for its theme.

Finishing up her term as State Secretary and District 3 chairperson was senior Paula Larson.

With 19 high school members, the chapter made 26 baby quilts to donate to needy and ill children. The group had a record selling year of 500 carnations.

tions at Valentine's Day. Community service projects included donating children's items on a bi-monthly basis to the Breadbasket food pantry, collecting over 20 pounds of used cards to recycle and donating to the Sioux Falls Banquet birthday cupboard. One of the most visual fundraisers was the $600 brought in for the new Resource Center through the raffling of a quilt made by textile students. Business manager Lisa Sanderson won the log cabin quilt which was designed in the four medicine wheel colors.

The local chapter also hosted the District 3 meeting, held an Alumni Night and went to the state meeting in April.

Spirit begins here

For the six cheerleading squads, there really is no time to rest or relax as they work virtually year round.

Between boys basketball season and summer, the girls have a little bit of a break, but they have the nervousness and anxiety of spring try-outs to go through.

“ My favorite activity this year had to be the Girls State As because I was a cheerleader. It was fun planning the pep rallies.

Many attend camps during the summer hoping to learn a new jump or dance routine.

Through the work and the effort of the cheerleaders, the teams and the fans get filled with enthusiasm and spirit before and during the games.

Homecoming is a huge undertaking. Cheerleaders are responsible for the pep rally, both in the gym and uptown in front of the Crystal Theatre, as well as being at Little Orpheum, the girls basketball game and the football game. They are also the people who place all the 'good luck' signs around the hallways and on the athletes' lockers.

The end to Tiger's tale

With only seven starters returning from the previous season, the team had a lot of rebuilding to do.

The offense attack was led by the right side of the line. Seniors Daron Johnson, Justin Jewett and Brent Headrick made the openings in the line for the running of Brandon Jacobs (847 yards on 109 carries). He was the touchdown leader with eight.

Air attack was another method used to gain some yards. Dustin Headrick, junior quarterback, completed 38 per cent of his passes for 716 yards while Johnson received 26 tosses for 195 yards. Eric Markuson and Cory Burshiem, both seniors, caught fewer passes but with their quickness, they earned the longer yardage receptions. They both had 16 receptions and had 287 and 189 respectively.

The defense was led through the efforts of Jeremie Houtman, leading middle linebacker with 68 tackles and Jewett in the defensive back position with 66 tackles. Brent Headrick and Johnson led on the line with 44 tackles apiece while Travis Eich, senior, made two interceptions.

Central Valley Conference selections were Jacobs, Jewett and Brent Headrick while honorable mention was awarded to Burshiem, Johnson and Markuson.

Jim “Tiger” McGlone strolled the sidelines of the field for the final time of his 31 year coaching career at the school when the team lost to Sisseton, 46-0 in the first round play-off game.

McGlone ends his career here at 152-126-2. “I will miss coaching but there comes a time and place in everyone's life when they have to give up something very dear to them,” said Tiger.

It all ends at the Bird Feeder

The grade for the test of the year resulted in an "A" – the State A that is. Numerous injuries tested both the players and the coaches but even taking five players off the roster couldn't take away their love for the game.

"It seemed that once we would get back on track, another injury would hit," said junior forward Erin Oswald.

"I am really proud of our team's spirit and determination through it all."

The true fight for victory in the regular season came in the Central Valley Conference tourney where they came out the champs. In CVC standings, they were fifth at 3-4.

That championship fever kept continuing by conquering Madison in the districts and Hamlin in the region finals to advance to the state tournament in Mitchell, the first time since 1989.

Here, the first loss was to the injury bug as reserve guard Andrea Solem tore her ACL during the practice session. Then came a loss to Wagner, the eventual champions, but Friday brought a defeat over Lemmon. Overall, they took sixth with a loss to CVC foe Tri-Valley Saturday afternoon.

Racking up the stats for the year were junior Charissa Sheppard, CVC All-Conference and All-Tournament team, with 376 points, 250 rebounds and 59 blocked shots. During the game against Lemmon, Sheppard went over the 1,000 point scoring mark. Mona Zephier set a school record of 12 assists as she led that category with 75 total. She also had 75 steals. Zephier along with Jacques Schmidt were named CVC Honorable Mention.

The team tied a school record with the season record of 18-7.

Aiming for the chute at the end

Under a new coaching staff, Mr. Jim Keyes as head and Mr. Travis Bartels as assistant, the teams put in a pretty good season.

Freshman Charles Knutson took 47th, junior KC Burshiem 58th, freshman Anthony Hobbie 79th and sophomore Mike Aadland 98th. They came back with a ninth place team finish from a field of 16 teams.

On the girls side, eighth grader Kyndal Ziegenbein was the only participant and she came into the chute in 75th place.

In the Central Valley Conference meet, held in Dell Rapids, the host team Quarriers took the boys title scoring a low 23 to the Fliers' 38. Four on the boys team medaled including N. Knutson, 3rd; C. Knutson, 8th; Hobbie, 12th and Burshiem, 15th.

For the girls, a sixth place finish was earned and Ziegenbein just missed winning her first CVC honor as she came in one place over the medal positions, 21st. Garretson won the CVC title.

Two close year at state meet

Under a new head coach, the team filled the weight classes and hit the mat for another season.

Travis Bartels took command of the team along with help from assistant coach Jim Keyes, also in his first season in that role. The two guided the team to a dual record of 14-17-1. They were 4-3 in Central Valley Conference standings.

Top team tournament placings were harder to obtain. The boys had to settle for eighth at the Booster Club Invite and fourth in the CVC meet. District 3B produced a fifth place while at a talent-packed Region 2B, they took 12th.

Brent Headrick was chosen the most valuable wrestler as he finished first in the CVC, District and Region tourneys along with a sixth place finish at the state Class B meet in Aberdeen at heavyweight. At the home invitational, he was at 189 pounds and his only loss of the day put him at third place.

Other than Headrick, five wrestlers advanced from Districts to Regions.

They were Joe Rydell, Jamie VonEye, Levi Luttmann, Justin Jewett and Brandon Jacobs. From Regions, Luttmann worked his way into the state meet with a third place Region finish. He did not place at state but was chosen as the most improved wrestler of the year.

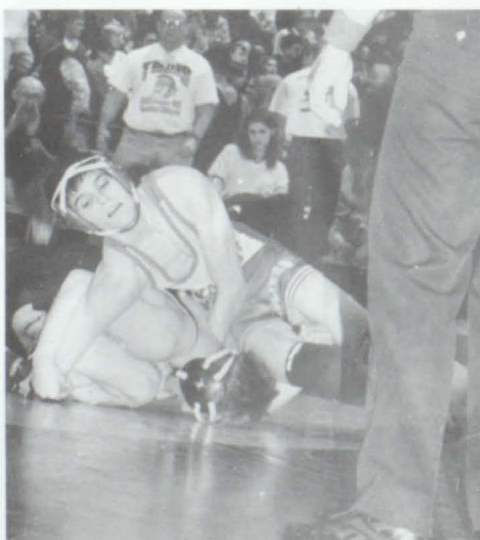

Senior members Jewett, who spent the majority of the year injured, and Headrick were co-captains for the team which included another senior Jim Millman. Larry Pitsenberger and Adam Toso had been on the team in previous years but moved away during their senior year. Senior Candice Kneebone recorded the stats for the team.

Leading the team in most of the record categories was junior Charissa Sheppard. She was the top digger with 189, blocker with 69, spiker with 322 and led in serve receives with 326/371 for 87.9%. She was chosen to the Central Valley All-Conference team along with senior Sandy Wiese, the team leader in serving. She made 168 points.

Freshman Mona Zephier had a serve percentage rate of 97.1% to pace the team and she was the top setter putting up the ball up 562 times. Zephier, who led the CVC in attacks with 93%, was awarded honorable mention from the conference along with junior Erin Oswald.

The girls finished fourth in the CVC standings behind Garretson, Howard and West Central.

The year ended with a disappointing losses to Madison and Sioux Valley in District 4A play.

Chosen as the most improved player was sophomore Laura Iott, a B-team member. Other awards were given to Maren Skroch, freshman, chosen for the Unsung Hero award, and another freshman Kris Solem for the Hustle Award.

Nine girls earned letters from Head Coach Georgia Adolph for the final time as the veteran coach resigned from the job after the season closed.

Season ends at District finals

The season was full of ups and downs for the basketball players, but they ended with a winning record.

Six seniors hit the court with not too much varsity experience due to so many seniors on the team the previous year. But while the group spent a considerable amount of time on the bench last season during the games, they could be seen practicing many nights after others had went home.

The efforts paid off as the group won many honors and according to coach Rick Weber, played some good team basketball. They won fourth place in the Central Valley Conference tourney and tied with Howard and West Central for second in the standings.

Seniors Daron Johnson and BJ Burshiem were named to the CVC All-Conference team. Johnson led the CVC in field goals (43 of 61), blocked shots (15) and rebounds (55).

Named to CVC honorable mention were seniors Cory Burshiem, Eric Markuson* and junior Dustin Headrick.

Johnson also was the overall leader in points scored with 301, rebounds with 186 and blocked a total of 47 shots in the 21 games. BJ Burshiem followed in scored with 243 hitting 37 per cent of his 3-pointers.

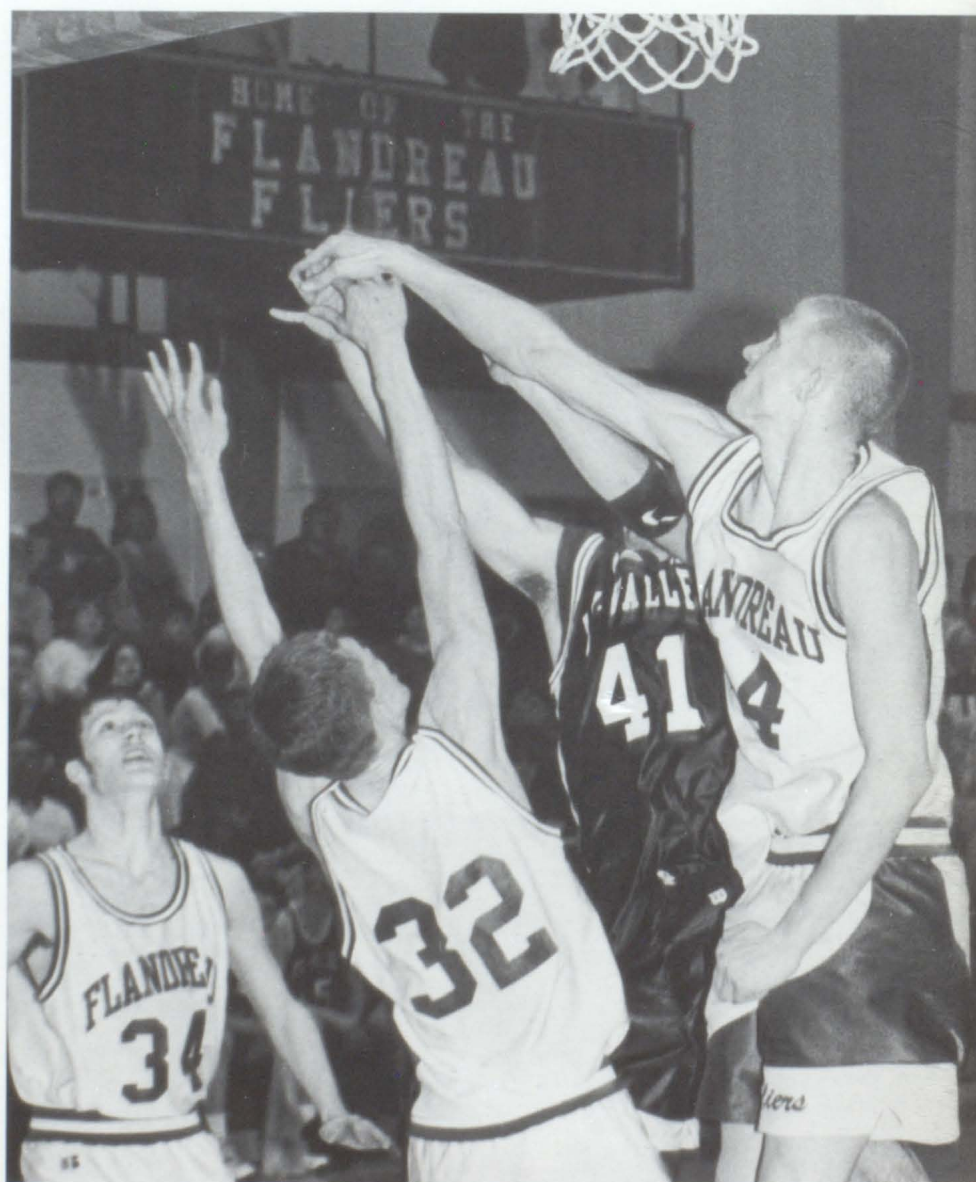

Cory Burshiem led the team in thefts with 49 and in assists with 63 while Dustin Headrick came in the second place position for rebounds (101), steals (32) and assists (54).

After defeating Madison in first round districts, they lost to Sioux Valley in the finals.

Boys finish with State B title

Capturing the Class B state title put the finishing touches on what was a perfect year for the golf teams.

After taking an exciting Region 1B win, the boys varsity moved on and won the state title by one point over three other teams. They scored a 488 while Parker, DeSmet and Britton all shot 489s.

Jeremy Johnson was a major factor in the title win. He shot an 80 on day one, then a 79 to compile a fifth place score of 159 in his first state meet.

Justin Jewett took 11th firing a 161. The Burshiem brothers (BJ-168, KC-177) did not place.

Three of the boys won medalist honors at one meet or another and the team won every meet they attended except for the McCook Central Invite where they lost by four strokes.

In Central Valley Conference play, the boys were unstoppable for the fourth year in a row as they once more took the title. Jewett and BJ Burshiem tied along with Justin Stofferahn of West Central for the medalist honors.

Burshiem captured the play-off hole while Jewett finished third.

They blew the competition away at the Flandreau Invite winning with a low 112 to 131 for second place DeSmet. The Flier boys finished 1-2-3 and 7. KC Burshiem was the medalist at this meet.

On the girls side, eighth grader Jessica Jewett was a top finisher at every meet. She placed sixth at the state meet. Also attending state was junior Jodi Jensen.

In honor of his boys team winning the state and just as he retires after 15 years as head coach, Jim McGlone was named "South Dakota Golf Coach of the Year."

son at the Flandreau Invite. The Bulldogs had 104.5 points while Chester came in with 104 points. It was the first team title for the girls since 1992 and only the sixth in the 26-year history of the invitational.

No new school records were broken by either team during the season.

The boys team concentrated more on individual efforts. Some relay teams were filled by eighth graders due to lack of high school participation. In the Central Valley Conference meet, Charles Knutson, freshman long distance runner, took the gold in the 3200 meter.

Senior Cory Burshiem made the most of his time at the State A meet in Spearfish by leaping 5'11" to take eighth in the high jump.

For the girls team, CVC gold medals were won by the 400 and 800 meter relay teams and by freshman Mona Zephier in the long and triple jump events. The relay team members were Sunny Garcia, Charissa Sheppard, Zephier and Ashley Blum.

The girls team participated in seven events at state. Zephier took third in the triple jump at 35'6", fourth in the long jump at 16'6" and Garcia was eighth in the long jump at 16'1 1/4".

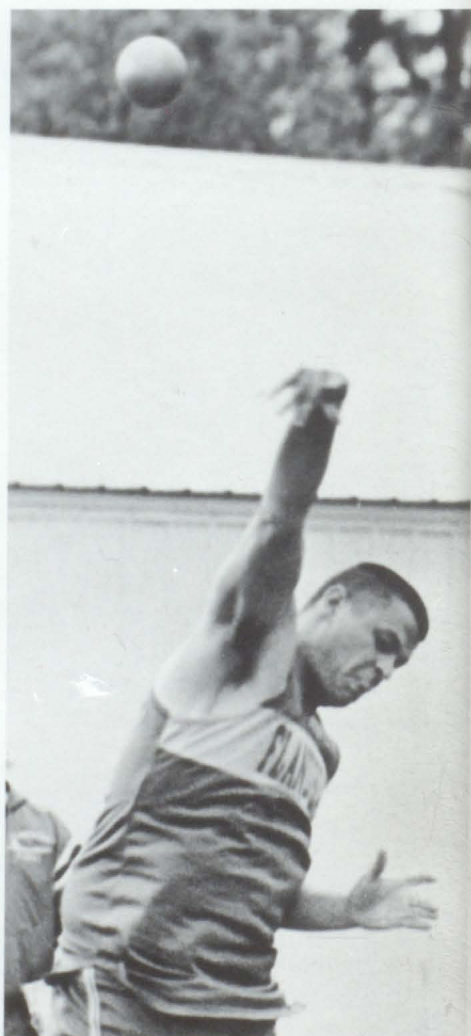

The 800 meter relay team was sixth with a time of 1:49.37.

Figuring it out

Math is just one of the subjects that student are required to take...at least for the first two years.

Freshmen must take algebra. If taken as an eighth grader, they move on to geometry with sophomores.

Juniors are found with a Functions, Statistics and Trigonometry book stored in their locker. A newer class taught is Pre-calculus, for seniors.

Math teachers are Mrs. Roberta Luttmann, Mr. LeBroy Benson and Mr. Rick Weber.

Right: "Anatomy was an interesting class for me," said junior Emilee Ellingson, pictured at right taking notes, adding that it focused on a science she is interested in. Angela Lind peers through binoculars at bird species.

Left: Mr. Rick Weber teaches two periods of math along with being the activity director for the district.

Below: Freshman class member Geriann Iverson explains to the rest of the class the answer to the problem on the board.

It's 'element'ary

Any well-rounded student can be found with at least one kind of science book in their possession.

Those in first-year instructor Miss

Chris Kraft's physical science classes, covered basic applications such as the flow of electricity and laws of gravity.

Students in Mr. Bruce Porisch's biology classes spent their time dissecting various items. He also taught anatomy and physiology.

Repeats itself

After an absence of one year, Mr. Jim McGlone was able to take his senior government students out to Pierre to see the happenings in the state capitol building.

Good weather led the bus and 59 seniors out west where they learned how the state government works and watched the state legislature in action.

Seniors were also required to attend a school board and a city council meeting. Many filled out voter registration cards when they toured the local courthouse.

For juniors, American history is a major portion of their grade when it is integrated with the English III classes.

Right: Junior Angela Lind gets into the acting part for her English/history presentation of the Cotton Club. Seated is sophomore Malia Luttmann a jazz band member. Lind and her partners used the band to add to their presentation.

Sociology, psychology, free enterprise and economics are some more of the classes offered to juniors and seniors.

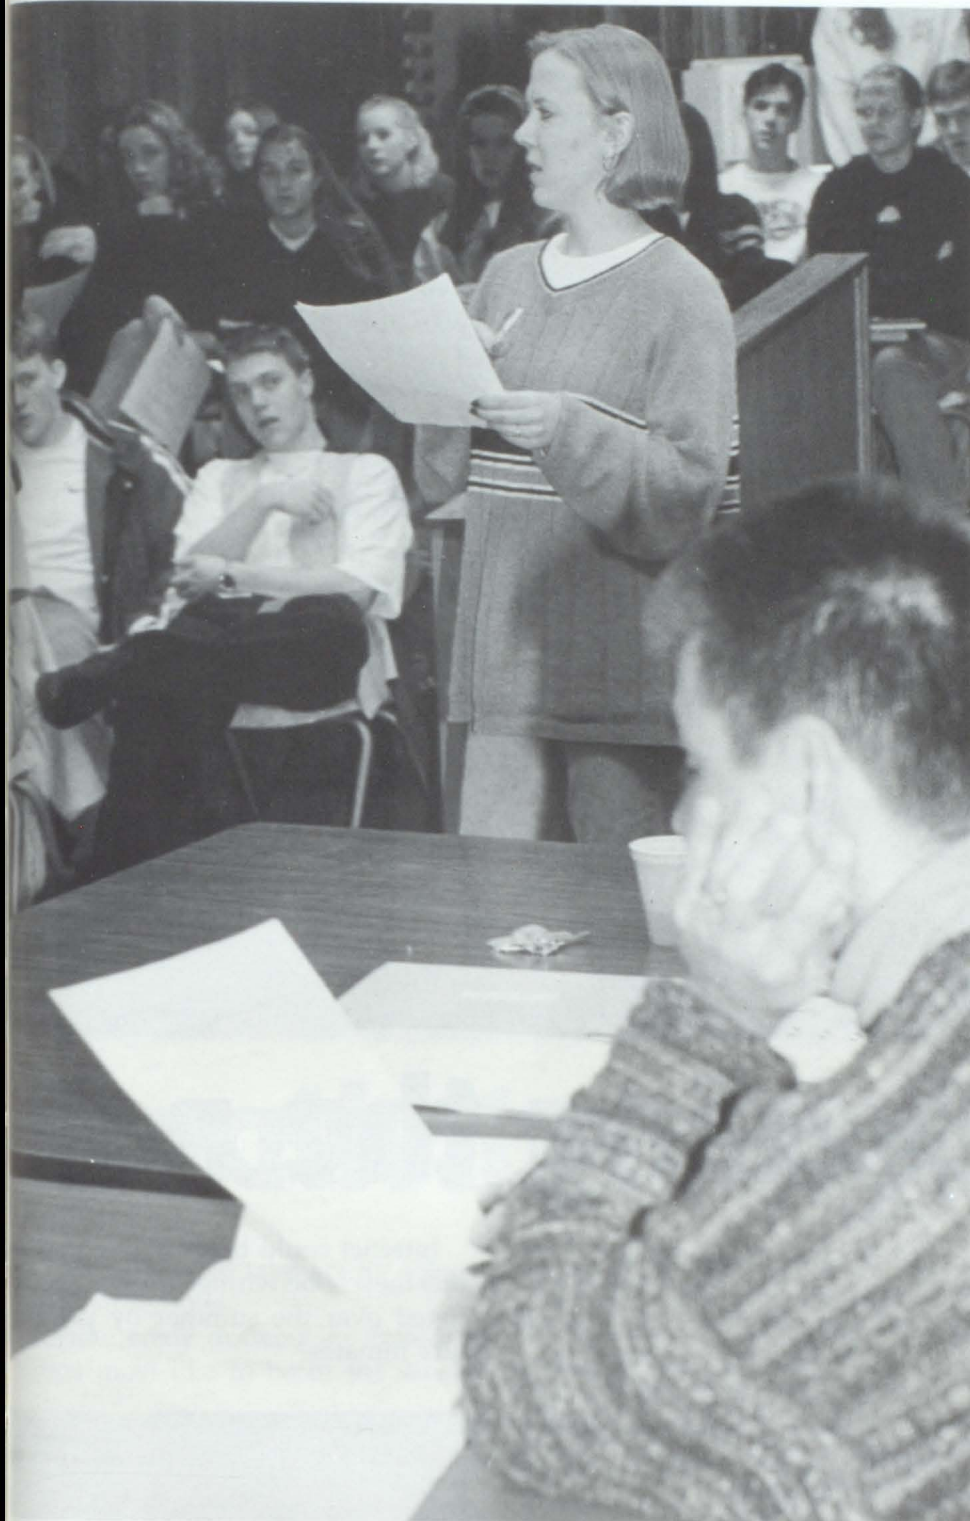

In the lower grades, the only required class is geography for the sophomores. Only one semester of study is needed for credit.

Below: English IV settles down toward the end of the year. Here Holly Prebble, foreground, and Sommer Koel fill out their "Who's Who" surveys. Otherwise the students studied British Literature.

Speak to me

All four English classes taught writing, thinking and understanding skills.

English I concentrated on poetry and Shakespeare's tragedy "Romeo and Juliet" while English II included speech and demonstrations.

Freshman Nora Johnson said "Mr. Linder's class is never boring."

English III was combined with American History for projects while English IV studied British Literature.

Spanish was the only foreign language offered to students. Groups created presentations about a Spanish speaking country. Posters, pictures, souvenirs, food, music and native clothing were some of the highlights.

Both Spanish I & II used the Internet for interaction.

Leslie Jensen said, "Spanish is fun."

"English II is my favorite class. Mrs. Beaner is a good teacher. I like her way of teaching and she lets us have fun."

Computers get bigger and faster each year so the district hired Mrs. Marda Olson as a Technology Coordinator for all three school buildings.

She was the one to call if a computer wasn't working properly, needed some more memory, a chip or card of some kind.

Mrs. LeAnn Carr moved up from eighth grade instructor to teach most of the science and applications classes.

Creativity is high

Lots of people take art for lots of different reasons.

Some enjoy drawing or sketching while most like to be in the second semester for pottery.

First semester students traveled to Minneapolis to see the Walker Museum and the Institute of Art.

Students were also in competitions and exhibits in Sioux Falls, Brookings and Flandreau for the second annual Youth Invitational Art Show.

Lessons for life

Highlights for the Family & Consumer Science classes were many, but probably the most visual segment of the classes were babies and quilts.

Students were kept awake through the night when taking care of their "Baby Think It Over" dolls. These dolls were human-like and if students slacked off on responsibilities in taking care of it, a sensor could confirm this when it was checked upon return.

Log cabin quilts and wall hangings were a popular sewing project. One quilt was raffled and brought in $600 for the new resource center. Business manager Lisa Sanderson won the quilt.

Over 25 ABC quilts (At-Risk Babies Crib Quilts) were made and distributed locally, statewide and nationally.

The career classes shadowed in an area of interest and gave slide presentations to summarize learnings.

The families class had discussions about present concerns and relationships and what they wanted in their future families while independent living students learned what to look for when buying a vehicle.

Above: Horticulture class allows students to get outside if only for a brief time to water the seedlings. The job is given to seniors Jared Gelderman and Mark Wentworth.

Something useful

Hands-on learning is a common theme in Mr. Dan Folkerts and Mr. Brian Bergjord's classes. Not a lot of time is spent sitting at a desk as students get involved in these classes.

First-year ag students spent time learning the fundamentals of ag by holding mock FFA meetings. They learned the "tools of the trade" by constructing nail boxes and feedbunks.

Horticulture students raised some seedlings and learned about plant life.

Those in building trades took advantage of going outside as they built an addition to Mr. Jim McGlone's house during the fall.

Welding, general maintainance, and basic shop were also offered to those in industrial arts classes.

Keeping in tune

Band and vocal are two extra curricular activities offered that also give credit.

Every year the band takes on more and more challenges. New, was the creation of a drumline. The group's beat was heard and their tricky maneuvers were seen at several athletic events as well as community events, too.

The marching band was at Gypsy Day in Aberdeen, Hobo Day in Brookings, the county fair parade and at Memorial Day services. The concert band performed five concerts during the year. The jazz band kept a smooth beat and entertained at many events including the senior prom at the manor. They were also in contests. Everyone participated in the solo and ensemble contest in Sioux Falls and the large group contest in Madison.

In choir, a new teacher greeted the students, Mrs. Carrie Hiniker. The choir performed at the manor, did two concerts and participated in the large group contest in Madison. Some went to solo and ensemble contests in Sioux Falls.

New was the show choir, a group of 18 singers and dancers. They performed at the spring concert and competed in various contests.

Junior Laura Schmidt said, "Vocal was awesome because this is the first year for show choir with the guys."

Members also sang at graduation.

SPIRIT IS THERE

With all of the events and activities happening, it was hard not to get caught up in the Spirit of Homecoming.

From imitating various people during Little Orpheum to showing up for class in your pajamas to decorating your locker, everyone had plenty of opportunities to show spirit.

The busy and exciting week started off with Little Orpheum and coronation on Monday, Sept. 22. The seniors took the trophy for the Best Overall skit for their "All That Pat Show" featuring a return appearance from the Pom Pom Squad—Cory Burshiem, Brent Headrick, Justin Jewett and Adam Toso. They appeared on the talk show hosted by "Pat", Julie Bonrud.

Best Class Skit was awarded to the sophomores with their version of "The Royalty." They crowned Ralph, portrayed by Travis Deutscher, and Mary Katherine Gallagher, a popular character from SNL, portrayed by Drew Headrick.

Faculty members entertained with the "Top 10 Reasons Why Coach McGlone Shouldn't Retire."

"The skit gives us the chance to be creative and act a little bit crazy," said Mr. John Evans.

Throughout the week, students dressed to themes such as "Grease", pajama and backward days. They participated in the Student Council games such as the Obstacle Course and Find the Jelly Bean.

The week ended with the football game and a dance in the lunch room.

TWO PLAYS GIVEN

Auditions, memorizations and many hours of practice are just a few of the ingredients needed for successful plays.

Two plays were performed. The one-act was first and was titled "Balcony Scene." This was a drama set at the funeral of a ne'er-do-well man. He is escorted to the church's balcony by a friend and is forced to listen to what others have to say about his past.

The group took the play to the regional competition and four cast members earned superior acting awards, Kari Lacey, Cal McKeown, Grant Lacey and Sara Headrick.

The All-School play was "You Can't Take It With You" and was centered around an oddball family whose daughter becomes engaged to a straight-laced guy.

Directors were Mrs. Gaye Lynn Beaner, who was also in charge of the One-Act, Mrs. Carrie Hiniker and Mrs. Jennifer LeMaster.

The first performance was April 16 at 2 p.m. for junior high students and then again that evening for the public. Another performance was given April 17.

"I had a blast while preparing for the play," said sophomore Emily Pulscher. "We thought that we were so unprepared the opening night, but we made it through and did a good job."

Not all of the play was work according to junior Susan Johnson. "We had some great times when we weren't practicing," she said.

Another sophomore, Grant Lacey, liked his surroundings. "The play was loads of fun because I got to hang around with great people," said Lacey.

Right: Being a part of the cast but not seen on stage is the job for a prompter. During the one-act play, the job was given to sophomore Malia Luttmann.

"HAVE THE TIME OF YOUR LIFE"

Students dressed in tuxedos and formals were the main attraction for the junior-senior prom held May 2.

After the juniors spent a considerable amount of time fundraising, they spent another week decorating the Community Center. Theme for the prom was "Have the Time of Your Life." The room was decorated in royal blue and yellow.

For the second year, the Grand March was held in the high school gym due to the large number of couples. Chosen as King and Queen were Jared Gelderman and April Christenson. Other candidates were BJ Burshiem, Cory Burshiem, Dan Holmoe, Eric Markuson, Tim Redder, Kathryn DeClerk, Kyla Jorgensen, Candice Kneebone, Kim Larson and Sandy Wiese.

Music Express provided the tunes, videos and a karaoke machine for the dance which began at 8:30 p.m. PicPro was there to help record the special evening with couple or group pictures.

Sophomores chosen to serve up the punch were Sunny Garcia and Justin Krull. Other help in the kitchen came from Aron Donaldson and Shaun Powers.

The after-prom party was held at the Empire Bowl and Giggglebees in Sioux Falls. One hundred students attended the parent-sponsored event. Hundreds of dollars in prizes were given away to those in attendance ranging from socks to electronic equipment.

THE END IS HERE

For 59 seniors, the end came Sunday, May 24, 1998. After 13 long years and an inspiring speech by retiring teacher, Jim McGlone, the seniors headed out the door for unknown futures.

McGlone told the class to look around at the person next to them, because it might be the last time they see each other. He told the class that he dreamed of being an 84-year old man and being invited to the Class of 98's 25th reunion. He told statistics that the class may endure by that time. Many will be affected by such things as the AIDS virus, a violent crime, divorce, job changes, etc. He also said by that time, it was quite possible that five or six of them would no longer be living.

The 31-year veteran teacher told the class they needed some "want-to-ness" in order to change the world.

President Justin Jewett gave his farewell speech and then the class finally was allowed to walk across the stage and reach out for the purple certificate they had always wanted.

Forty-five class members plan to attend universities, colleges or technical schools, three will head into the work force, five into the armed forces and five are undecided.

Twenty-nine seniors earned the privilege of wearing an honor medallion.

Mrs. Janelle Weatherly, home economics vocational teacher, was honored as the district's teacher of the year.

Below: Julie Bonrud attaches senior bead around the neck of her 13-year classmate, Corey Schoeberl.

"I was thinking about all that we had been through...things that made our class what we had become. I was happy, nervous and excited all at once, but mostly sad because I would soon be saying good-bye to wonderful friends."

From 1967 to 1998...

After 34 years of coaching, 31 of which were at his alma mater FHS, Mr. Jim "Tiger" McGlone decided to throw in the towel.

As a high school football player at Flandreau, Tiger played offensive center and defensive linebacker for four years. In 1957, he left Flandreau as a graduating senior and went on to graduate from Northern State in 1962.

This brought him to his first coaching job at Plankinton where he was for two seasons before moving on to Elk Point for one year. Soon, he was drawn home by the royal purple and old gold colors to become head football coach. His passion for those colors kept him here for 31 years. He finished with a record of 152-126-2.

While here, he coached over 1,500 football players. He also spent 15 of his earlier years as the wrestling coach and then his final 15 years as the golf coach. The road to the state football championship game only took one of Tiger's teams there as they took second in 1987. A final tribute to him was the 1998 boys golf team winning the State B championship in May.

vices. They also marched for the Moody County Fair Parade in August.

Construction started in the spring as soon as the ground could be worked on for the new Moody County Resource Center. Students will have a vast amount of library technology at their fingertips next fall.

A well-travelled road . . .

Many memories and friends are made and kept throughout the four years of travelling on the High School road.

At the BEGINNING, there's life as a FRESHMAN and then before one knows it, the corner's been turned and they are a SOPHOMORE. Here's where the memories are still in the making.

Then comes life as a JUNIOR and these days are numbered until they have SENIOR status. These students are continually counting down the days until the END of their High School career.

But no matter at what intersection one is on the road, life at FHS will always be remembered...at the BEGINNING, at the END and along the way.
