The Flandreau Times

Welcome! Welcome! Welcome! It is the school year of 2005-2006, a year filled, like many that have come before it and the many that will come after, with events that ignited every intense sensation and feeling that can be found on the emotional spectrum. These moments and these experiences served as a daily schooling for many students, contributing to their very beings, giving new memories and new outlooks on their very young lives. So as you look back on these momentous memories, the yearbook staff has determined to present them with enthusiasm and sensationalism because "every production of genius must be the production of enthusiasm."

Hence the newspaperesque theme, "Extra! Extra! Read All About It!" Of course you'll be observing more than reading, but in a sense, you will read these pictures. Reading facial expressions and reading movements allows you to comprehend the emotion in the picture. So yes, read all about it...we want you to feel and remember both the good and bad times, only because it helps you to not only recall, but to reflect on these moments. And as our good friend Lao Tzu says on gaining from reflection and experience, "Knowing others is wisdom, knowing yourself is enlightenment." So grab your edition of The Flandreau Times, gather your friends, look back and remember, reflect, and with our earnest and sincere hope, come out a better person. We, in yearbook, serve to inform and to share, but in informing, we serve to better society. On that final note, we hope you enjoy and "read all about it!"

The Academics Section

Academically, the United States sits far behind other countries in many educational areas, but especially in mathematics and sciences. In response to this growing concern, national and state standards for schools have been set in order to challenge students to rise above their current status.

Students and teachers have felt the effects of this growing concern. With rising standards, students have been consistently tested in order to understand where Flandreau's students sit in comparison to the state or nation. But even in the classrooms, the push for betterment exists. Writing a report for Chemistry or doing a PowerPoint project for Algebra II are becoming norms. But in increasing the difficulty level in school work, Flandreau has tried to equally maintain an atmosphere that will encourage students to relax and enjoy their high school years. The year was challenging for several students, and yet many feel that the obstacles have prepared them for college-level work.

Slur Organizations Section

Due to organizations such as FCCLA, FFA, and TATU, students and teachers alike were allowed to participate in a variety of entertaining and productive activities throughout the year. Many of these organizations work to give back to society, and through innovative ideas such as the Penny Wars Volleyball Match (held by the FCCLA), they were able to fundraise money for a variety of causes.

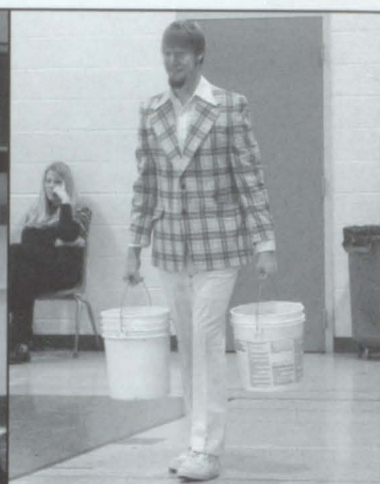

Through the FFA, the Sioux Falls Blood Mobile stopped by the high school, allowing both students and teachers to donate blood throughout the day. The turnout was high amongst juniors and seniors.

In late spring, in efforts to encourage healthy living amongst youth, TATU invited cultural singer/dancer Jackie Bird to perform for elementary, middle school, and high school students. While entertaining, her overall message encouraged students to lead drug-free lives.

Not only did the school give back through successful participation, these events brought the students together. It gave students the opportunity to think about others while maintaining an amusing and enjoyable atmosphere.

During the week of February 18-25, 2006 local FFA members participated in the local and national FFA weeks. The Purpose of the FFA Week was to teach all students about all of the possible careers and benefits an agricultural life could include. Activities for the week included for the HS: Tuesday – Pajama Day, Wednesday – Petting Zoo and Farmer/Redneck Dress up day, Thursday – Old Fashion Prom Day, Drive your tractor to school day, and the High School Ag Olympics, and Friday – Blue and Gold day and the faculty/staff breakfast. One of the highlights of the week was the petting zoo, where students were free to come and see all of the animals like the dogs, cats, rabbits, pigs, geese, turtles, and horses; about ¾ of the high school students attended. An elementary highlight was the coloring contest, in which kids in grades 1-5 colored a barn yard setting that was later judged by the FFA officers. Another highlight was the HS and MS Ag Olympics where students from each grade faced a team of FFA members and the faculty. Games included the wheel-barrow race, hay-bale toss; find your species, and the corn bucket relays. On Friday the FFA members showed up to the Flandreau Community Center by 6:30 AM to start making the Flandreau Public Schools staff and faculty an appreciation breakfast.

FFA WEEK

Amanda Damm helps her fellow classmate, Michael Mohr tie on his blindfold in preparation for the buddy search activity during the Ag Olympics. Blindfolded students could only try to find their partner by using animal noises.

FFA Members: Nick Orlick, Shane Torrence, Brandon Torrence, Cody Welbig, and Kassidy Doyen-Kramer were all in attendance for the annual FFA Banquet held each spring.

Flashy Holist Sutton knows how to dress the part of emcee of the annual Ag Olympics, sponsored each year by the local FFA Chapter.

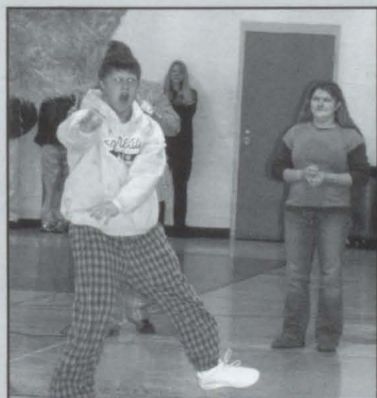

Katie Giegling can take on anything as she prepares herself for the bale toss. It takes a special person to be able to launch a hay bale while wearing footy pajamas.

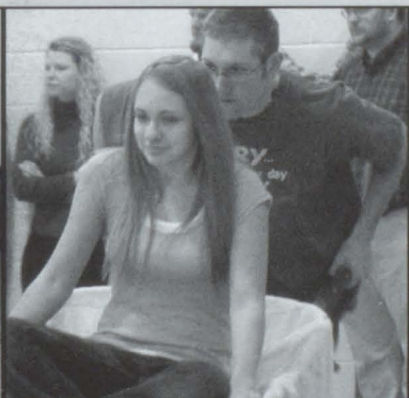

And he is off...FFA member Adam Stenger knows a thing or two about hauling two five gallon buckets of corn. The freshman team of corn haulers were beat by the faculty team.

Recent studies show that students who involve themselves in activities outside of academics tend to be better adjusted and more well-rounded. Flandreau High School, as stated in their mission statement, aims to ensure that all students have the opportunity to use their many, unique talents. This is quite evident in the abundance of activities at Flandreau Public - oral interpretation; chorus; concert, marching, and pep band; one-acts; the all-school play; Homecoming; and Prom.

Many students throughout the year have done well at all levels of competition from local to state. In developing their special talents, students form a way of relaxation from the rigors of school work and are allowed to express their creativity and to release their daily stresses.

FLANDREAU CHORUS

CHORUS MEMBERS TAKE TRIP TO FLORIDA

My favorite memory of chorus would have to be our senior band/chorus trip! We watched movies the whole way up to the Twin Cities. Then later that night at the Dinner Theater, we had two hours to waste, so Daniel Warner, Nicole Reed, Chelsey Gassman, and I all sat in our booth and read my "Would Your Rather?" book. Once that was over we went back to our hotel, where Noah Luttmann, Tyrel Deuschter, Austin Wiese, Chelsey Gassman, Nicole Reed, and I all stayed up until two o'clock in the morning talking. That night was daylight savings time, so we all thought we woke up late the next morning. We called the boys to make sure that they were up. As it turns out, they were still in bed and we found out that one of boys had messed with our clock! They were a little upset that we had called, so for payback for the early morning wake-up call, they threw me in the pool... with all of my clothes on! It sure was a great time!

FLANDREAU BAND

FLORIDA AND DISNEY WORLD, HERE WE COME!

The band participates in many events every year ranging from parades to community events. By far the highlight of the band year would have to be Marching in the Festival of Bands parade for Agustana's Homecoming. There seemed to be a series of what one might call misfortunes plaguing Flandreau High School Marching Band. To start off, the weather was nice, but a little warm and those uniforms can keep in the heat, so by the end of the parade everyone was hot and sweaty. The three major misfortunes happened within three blocks of each other. First, Kc Scofield's bass drum carrier broke and fell off after she tripped in the many potholes. The next two accidents belong to the drum majors, who tried to walk over so gracefully backwards. Rachel Ullom tripped and fell down, while shortly after that I lost my shoe. Overall, the band year provided many exciting moments, such as Tessa Weber's solo at contest that I am sure will never be forgotten.

Abbie Bruning plays the saxophone, along with drummer Kc Scofield in marching formation. The band worked on their performance all year long with their culminating performance taking place at Disney World in Florida in June.

The marching band is an awaited half-time feature at the annual Homecoming football game. The half-time field routine always gets a warm welcome from the home crowd.

Pep Band Rules... There to get the home crowd going!

MJ Ziebarth plays a mean baritone.

Junior Andy Gassman plays a nifty set of quads.

Flandreau Students perform "A Bright, Clear Sky" for One-Act Regionals/State

One-acts a great experience for actor Bryan Ellefson.

There were many great times in the One-Act Play. Even though there was plenty of work to be done, the cast had fun. Practically every day after school part of the cast would show up to rehearse. When rehearsal started, we would do simple things like warmups, and then there was more complicated stuff. Stuff such as trying to stay awake through one of Mr.

Haugen's acting lectures. Then we did "characterization activities", where we had to imagine what life was like for the actual characters. One activity required the whole cast sitting in the dark in complete silence, which I struggled to understand the point of the activity. Despite this, One Acts is a great experience and you meet a lot of talented actors at the One Act Play regionals.

ALL-SCHOOL PLAY... WHO'S DYING TO BE A MILLIONAIRE?

"THE PLAY WAS SURPRISINGLY FUNNY" - KATIE KNIPLING

Who is really dying to be a millionaire? The over all performance of the cast and crew was spectacular. "If you laughed half as much as I did, then you would be in stitches" Director Mary Beth Sutton said as she and Becky Landgren, co-director, cast and crew put together the show.

With the theater packed full of family and friends, the show started right on cue. Mr. Aaron Lacey, who played the role of the announcer, began the show with great enthusiasm and set the mood. The host, Reginald Smarmy (Anthony Sutton), did an outstanding job "pretending to be interesting" and the Hungry Max pancake mix commercial was the cherry on top of the ice cream. The rest of the cast was a hit to watch.

"The play was surprisingly funny, especially when Kyle Sanderson, the Sheriff, dropped his gun and holster and the cast started laughing and had to improvise!" stated Austin Wiese on his favorite part. Sanderson made the 'costume malfunction' seem intentional with the help of sidekick, Resa Hendrickson. Great job cast and crew! - Katie Knippling

2005 Flier Homecoming holds "Battle of Bands: Songs of Victory"

Several state 2005 as one of the best homecomings in years.

Homecoming, that time of year when spirits run high and high school students run amok. Homecoming 2005 was no different than those that have come before it: dress-up days, the bonfire, toga dresses, student council games, the parade, and the main event that symbolizes the start of Homecoming Week, Little Orpheum. Little Orpheum kicked off the week with "Battle of the Bands," where each class chose a song to perform. The freshman selected "Who Let the Dogs Out," to symbolize the Fliers playing archrival the Madison Bulldogs. Sophomores performed "Space Jam", and we don't know why. Juniors did their rendition of "The Lonesome Kicker" with a twist, the Lonesome Cheerleader as well, played by Shane Torrence. Although the seniors had a great, and realistic, performance to "Welcome to the Jungle," the real show stopper came when the teachers performed their take of the "Jock Jam Medley." The high performance included Mr. Matt Gappa as the mixer, Mrs. Janna Ellingson as a cheerleader, Mr. Rick Weber as emcee, and Mr. Brendan Streitz as "The Flier." Individual lip-synching by Ms. Kristi Fischer and Mr. Bruce Porisch, as well as several other teachers as back-up dancers, were additional highlights. Mr. Todd Foster has gone on to say that this Homecoming, Little Orpheum in particular, has been one of the best he has seen in years.

Juniors create Eiffel Tower in gym; decorate for a "Midnight in Paris"

Juniors decorate for prom under direction of class advisers.

Amazingly, prom was a smashing success. Although fundraising was a little sketchy, many volunteers showed up to bring Paris to Flandreau. Efforts paid off when the dance turned out wonderfully. The fun did not end there, the seniors stole the show while hypnotized at the after-prom party. The highlight of the evening was when Mr. Shaw, Mr. Weber, and a group of back up singers sang "The Gambler."

The Sports Section

Within thirty seconds or less, many Flier teams were able to capture last second wins, when only minutes before they trailed the entire game against a tough opposing team. A tell-tale sign of laziness? Hardly likely. Signs of determination, discipline, teamwork, and confidence? Well of course!

The Fliers, no matter which team, boys or girls, have all experienced both captivating wins and heartbreaking losses throughout the year. But by and by, they have all figured that the numbers in the win/loss column don't really mean anything in the game of life. What the athletes learned in training and practice, such as teamwork, confidence, determination, and hardwork, are the lessons that really count in life.

So whether, a ball was fumbled, a baton dropped, or a shoelace fatally untied, and even if a ball stubbornly bounced off the rim one too many times, Flier athletes had fun, and that is what they will remember in life. So when the game of life starts ticking down: THREE...TWO...ONE... The Fliers have already won it all; they were already taught the important skills needed in these game time situations.

The Fliers' season was filled with mixed emotion. After gutting it out through summer training camp, the coaches had us feeling that we could make some ruckus during the regular season. We couldn't quite get it together for many games, but when we did, everything seemed to go right. In our Homecoming game against the Madison Bulldogs, we held on to the lead long enough to send those dogs to the pound. Good teamwork carried over to the McCook Central game as well. One fine day, in the fall of '05, we were out on the course that was covered with a five foot layer of snow. Did we play? Yes... four rounds. Coach K (Knudson) held very high standards for us and demanded much practice. He wouldn't let us compete in our weekly meets if we didn't have our homework done and four rounds of practice a night. Let's just say we were very dedicated to the sport we love. On top of this rigorous practice schedule we also had competitions in which the loser had to do sit ups and/or push ups, and if they didn't we shaved their heads. This year's volleyball team developed many new catch phrases. We learned how to "use our heads" during the McCook game when the ball ricocheted off the ceiling, bounced off Tiffany's head, and hit the opposing team's floor as they watched in amazement. Our second round against Deubrook taught us that "paybacks are priceless" and "it is always nice to have the last laugh." After losing our first match in five games, we came back in a tournament and played awesome, beating them in two games. Even though our season had some turbulent times, it was all smooth sailing when we used the phrase, "BK, your way!" It was our own way of pumping up, joining together, and taking control. Our practices were always interesting with dancing, laughing, games and especially cheers. A smile comes to our faces as we remember the sophomore cheer that won them the cheer contest by a landslide, "You have to B-U-M-P to setter Homie G, to your Spiker Number 3!" And who could forget the songs we'd sing while doing wall sits - anything from "Fishing in the Dark" to "The Shark Song."

While reflecting on the season, we would like to thank those who contributed to our season and those who supported us through everything. Remember - our team always beats with one heart.

Despite our record, the girls basketball team had a lot of good times this season. It was always a lot of fun, and all of us got along great... most of the time. We had our ups and downs, but we fought our way through it. You could never find a dull moment, with Resa Hendrickson and Jenna Carr on our team. More than once, Coach Carr had to stop practice to tell us to calm down and be more serious because Resa and Jenna had us laughing so hard. The 2006 season was an on the court, but you couldn't help let out a little giggle everytime you would look in the stands and see all of our fellow classmates dressed in the fabulous Flandrea purple and gold. The first thing to catch your eye was the one and only, Gollnicks... while he strutted his stuff and flashed a little skin in his 'tattoo tight' retro cheerleading outfit. The boys' basketball season of 05-06 was a season of greatness.

The "C" team, coached with the Jedi-like knowledge of Jason Schramm, ended their season showing archenemies of old, the West Central Trojans, that Andy Gassman can step it up when the season is on the line and nail the clutch jumper with a hand in the face. Then the "B" team, coached by Brian Relf, and assisted by Master Schramm, showed promise for the varsity years as they finished the season with a winning record. Then the "A" team bumped their play up a couple of notches and started to have some fun after being humiliated by Deuel. When McCook came to town no one gave the Fliers a chance, but we left the state in dismay after killing the Cougars. Many think the reason the Fliers started winning was because Coach Weber got after us in practice, but the real reason was Kyle Sanderson and Dan Warner took over as Captains, and paved 'Glory Road'. Yes, it is true; they took the team on a 13 game winning streak up until the Region finals against new archrivals, the Clark Comets. The Sandman and Warndogg must've decided they had had enough when the team lost to the Clark Comets at Frost Arena. Was this the year that the Fliers were to bring back glory to F-town? It may have been.

The 05-06 wrestling season was yet another great experience for all. With Head Coach Shaw holding the reins of the wild wrestlers and Assistant Coach VonEye whipping us on back. They always made sure that the wrestlers were in shape with endless laps and wall sprints. Shaw worked us hard but VonEye would work us until the mats melted. Most of the us had weight to drop anyway.

As Coach Shaw put it, the team is like a family and we were all brothers. One big family that would beat on each other everyday in practice. Not everyone may think so, but wrestling is a team sport. Without every-one pushing and encouraging you, no one would succeed. The year was not totally about winning and losing, but more about having a good time. What more could you ask?

The success of our track season began on April 14th, 1988, when a certain Ben Hendrickson came into the world. Despite the early persistence of his father to become a 'golfer', Hendrickson found a love in the hurdles and high jump, but getting back to the 2006 track season. It started out great with some tantalizing results from many runners/throwers and only a few injuries. Our team started out very well with Hendrickson swiping the school record back from Daniel Julson at 6'4" in the high jump at Pipestone. Hendrickson continued to do well. We had some good performances at Howard Wood (with only one dropped baton... Butch!). Owen Parsley added a lot of pizzazz while cheering on the 4x400 relay. The boys team went on to become the Region II Champs.

On yeah, the girls team did pretty well too. They placed at state in the 4x200 relay with a questionable performance in the prelims. Also, on the state track trip to Rapid City, we had some near death experiences with some crazy drivers and an inebriated guy on a bicycle with Chinese food. That didn't stop the state team. Ben Hendrickson captured a 3rd in the high jump, 4th in the 110 hurdles, and 5th in the 300 hurdles; the boys 4x800 relay took 7th and the girls 4x200 relay took 7th, making them all legacies for a small town track team that has much to offer.

Extra! Extra! Did you hear all about "it"? Well, whatever "it" was, more likely than not the news had spread all about the school long before the stroke of the first bell. And whatever the news happened to be, seniors were typically the first to be acquainted with the information, consequently the rest of the student body would shortly hear after, and then teachers, maybe, by day's end. Naturally those in the library found out last, maybe two days later, sometimes even a week afterward.

"It" had been many different things and many different stories. Sometimes "it" was heartbreaking, sometimes hilarious, sometimes frightening, but regardless, "it" was always newsworthy, although perhaps extravagantly. But whatever the story or whatever the event that had sparked laughter in the halls, crying in the restroom, or discussion in the classroom, "it" always involved the Flier Society.

Class of 2006 Graduates

The Flandreau High School Seniors graduate on Saturday, May 20, 2006. Mr. Adam Shaw delivered the Commencement Address.

Many years of worry, late-night cram sessions, and hard work had culminated to this one event that lasted but one hour. I spent little thought over my own feelings over graduating and was concerned more with my sister's feelings, who had been crying off and on throughout most of the morning, the afternoon, and would continue to do so through the night.

For me, graduation symbolized opportunity, and in a sense, freedom. Not freedom from authority, but freedom to choose my own path. So the magnitude of this event was significant for me. I thought about all the late-nights where I wanted to jump into bed and sleep but instead had to write a two-page essay, APA format, complete about 18 problems for Pre-Calculus II, and study for an Economics test. To gain an internal satisfaction, I recounted thoughts such as these, in order to make graduation much more sweeter.

And yet their was a letdown. It had only been two days since I was up studying for my Economics, AP Government, and Anatomy/Physiology semester exams. I was left with a feeling of now what. No paper, reception, or ceremony could ever show the work and energy that many of us had expended to earn those degrees. Matters worse, I couldn't even remember walking across the stage, let alone how I felt, or if anybody screamed my name as I received my diploma. An event so great, and so unforgivingly forgotten.

"Signed, sealed, delivered..." Graduate Dusin Iverson made his big walk across the high school stage on Saturday, May 20, 2006.

My disappointment was aggravating. How could I ever show people what I went through to earn this degree? What about the times when I had to do inductive reasoning and calculations when all I really wanted to do was rejoice or cry, play or sleep?

As the night went on and I finally was able to be alone with my thoughts, I started to realize that the letdown resulted from a fear that all that hard work and energy would go to waste on some college degree that I might not have really wanted to have pursued. It wasn't enough to use the knowledge I had gained on academics, but to make these past 13 years truly worthy, it would be necessary to use all that knowledge in all that I do in my life. Becoming a nuclear physicist would no doubt prove to people the hard worker I was, but to use all my knowledge would require me to use my compassion for others, my sense of responsibility, my understanding of flow and rhythm, and even my ability to think comprehensively. Such use of wisdom and knowledge serves society in such a way that waste and disappointment could never be. I hope that you all, my fellow classmates, will also discover the worthiness of these past 13 years. It is sad to leave, but it will be great to finally use all that we have learned to make this world a little better. "Know that although in the eternal scheme of things you are small, you are also unique and irreplaceable, as are all your fellow humans everywhere in the world."

The Flandreau Times

We hoped you enjoyed looking back on memories and moments that have now passed into history. Compiling pictures has been a joy for the yearbook staff. Every picture we select, we really do read intently. Look at the faces to the right of you. Each face could tell you a story on its own, whether in a thousand words or in one. The stories they share with you are about friendship, intelligence, hard work, relief, hope, promise, and sheer happiness. (We should probably note that most of these photos were taken on the last day of school.)

In conclusion, we hoped we spurred you to reflect on your happy times at Flandreau Public High School. But, even greater, we sincerely hope we gave you cause to reflect on your life, to see what you have learned in the past year, or in the past several years. One day, you'll look back at this book and realize how much you have grown, not just in age or size. When that day happens, we have served our purpose.

For many of us seniors in yearbook, these past few years have been a privilege in bringing you your annual picture book and we thank you for your cooperation and for the many great moments you made us snap. Thank you.

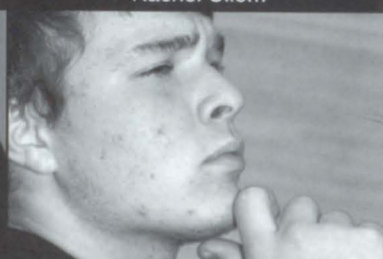

Senior Yearbook Staff (Best of luck Jackie! And remember the key is patience!)

Hurricanes ravage the Gulf Coast region in the fall of 2005, posing an unprecedented test of the United States federal emergency response efforts. Hundreds of lives are lost and thousands are left homeless in the wake of Category 4 Hurricane Katrina, followed by Rita and Wilma. The tragedy spurs contributions of money, talents, homes, food and more in an attempt to raise spirits and rebuild the area.

August

- 25 Hurricane Katrina strikes Florida.
- 28 Mandatory evacuation of both New Orleans and Mississippi is ordered as Katrina becomes a Category 5 storm in the Gulf of Mexico.
- 29 Downgraded to a Category 4 storm, Katrina hits land. 1.3 million homes and businesses lose electricity in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. 30 levees are breached, flooding New Orleans and leaving 100,000 people stranded. After slow government response, civil unrest and looting begins.
- 31 President Bush surveys the damage.

September

- 1 30,000 National Guard troops are deployed. Gas prices spike to as high as $5 per gallon.
- 2 President Bush visits Louisiana and signs a $10.5 billion relief bill. Nearly 154,000 evacuees arrive in Texas.
- 4 The New Orleans Superdome is evacuated.
- 6 President Bush and Congress pledge to investigate the flawed disaster response.
- 9 Government-issued debit cards are distributed to evacuees. The program fails and is ended days later.
- 12 Michael Brown, head of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, resigns. Flooding is down to 50 percent in New Orleans.
- 14 New Orleans Mayor Ray Nagin announces a phased repopulation plan.
- 15 New Orleans begins to reopen. Katrina is named the most destructive hurricane in U.S. history.
- 20 Louisiana Governor Kathleen Blanco declares a state of emergency as Hurricane Rita strengthens off the coast.
- 22 Rita hits the Louisiana coast and heads for Texas.
- 23 Thousands evacuate eastern Texas and the 9th Ward of New Orleans floods once again after levees are overrun.

October

- 24 Hurricane Wilma hits southwest Florida.
