

Start Ups

I have an idea and I don't know where to go

Vision. write it out. this isn't your solution, it's your vision, that you can always go back to.

Is this already being done @CG somewhere?

no.

kind of. go help them out. they might be looking for your inspiration.

yes. great, you found it!

Does this fit our Mission?

no. dead end.

kind of. Then kind of think about it some more.

yes

Does this enhance our Campus Life?

no. This is more of an off campus endeavor.

yes.

yes.

Is this available to students somewhere else?

no. (opportunity!)

yes. then there's already an outlet and avenue for this.

Would an Educator be willing to sponsor this?

yes. great, start rolling.

no. why not? what can you see that they can't.

no. why not? what are they seeing that you can't see yet.

help

- Four times a year, Mr. Rogosich meets with groups of kids and educators to work on this. It's better done in groups.
- Leadership Forum is a great time to try this out.
- Leadership Roundtables meet during the school year. See Mrs. Burn.
- Isn't a great that you go to a place where you can fail. It's a heck of a lot better than the alternative. Why didn't it work?... read some more below...

Top Reasons Why Your Idea Didn't Work.

Great article from a Leadership Blog on Why things Fail.

my friends
Internal Conversations
my family
lol

Plug and Play: I saw this at my old school, or at another school, and I thought it was cool. Good poets borrow; Great poets steal. We should steal the idea and make it ours, not unplug it from their outlet and plug it into ours.

worked there
Plug & Play
must work here
Amore USA

Internal Conversations: Everyone I talked to said it was great. They have no skin in the game. Get outside your circle of support and get some real gritty feedback. Ask for it.

What is a Club?

A club is an Educator led organization of 5 students or more meeting at least once a month approved of by the administration.