Student Rights, Responsibilities, and Code of Conduct

Student Publications

Student publications produced as part of the school's curriculum or with the support of student body funds are intended to serve both as vehicles for instruction and student communications. They are operated and substantively financed by the student body and the District.

Material appearing in such publications should reflect all areas of student interest, including topics about which there may be controversy and dissent. Controversial issues may be presented provided they are treated in depth and represent a variety of viewpoints. Such materials may not be libelous, obscene or profane nor may they cause a substantial disruption of the school, invade the privacy rights of others, demean any race, religion, sex, or ethnic group, or advocate the violation of the law. They may not advertise tobacco, liquor, illicit drugs or drug paraphernalia.

The Superintendent shall develop guidelines to implement these standards and shall establish procedures for the prompt review of any materials that appear not to comply with the standards.

- A. Given cause, the building principal will have the right to review student publication materials at any time to see if they comply with School District Policy 3200.
- B. Materials appearing in student publications must be reviewed by the sponsor of the publication to see if the materials comply with Billings Public Schools Policy 3200. If the sponsor finds the material to be in violation of said policy, the materials must be reviewed by the building principal.
- C. Materials are deemed approved if the principal does not indicate disapproval within two student instruction days of submittal.
- D. The principal's decision to refuse the materials may be appealed directly to the Superintendent. The Superintendent will review the materials and listen to the student's explanations and discussion. The Superintendent's decision will be communicated to the interested students.
