

Listening

Listening

Sometimes people want to talk to me. When they talk to me, I need to stop what I'm doing and look at whoever is talking to me. When I look at them, I will be able to pay attention to the things they tell me.

If I stop what I'm doing when people talk to me, I can hear all the things that they tell me.

When someone talks to me, I will try to stop what I am doing and listen to what they have to say.

Listening The First Time

Sometimes grown-ups ask me to do something or give me instructions. When grown-ups talk to children, children need to listen.

Grown-ups often talk to me and tell me what to do or give me instructions. I will try to listen the first time so I will know what to do.

When I listen, I will know what the grown-up has asked me to do.

When I listen to my teachers, I will know what to do. I will try to listen to my teachers and do what they say the first time they ask.

Listening to My Teacher

My teacher's name is _____.

Mrs. _____ talks to the class. Usually, Mrs. _____ stands at the front of the room when she is talking. When Mrs. _____ is talking, it is my turn to listen.

I will try to listen to Mrs. _____.
