Financial Update:

We have more funds than we were expecting due to funds not used for summer training for teachers.

We can carry over 10% of the total funds.

Discussion for the funds:

- Incorporating a tech plan throughout the school to replace/repair technology in waves so that everything doesn't have to be replaced all at once. This would use funds from Land Trusts, Title 1 and school budget.
 - Steven also invited any parents who wanted to be part of the technology committee to let Alyssa Thompson know.

Academic Update: NDJH School Improvement Plan is available for review on the district website under assessments.

- SAGE Scores: To see our scores for proficiency and growth follow the link and select the items that will show our school data. A score of 50 is average growth

Things that we can attribute this success to:

Differentiated instruction.

Feeder schools better preparing students for success.

Teachers here love the kids and care about their success.

Having our own staff help with Professional Development.

The 5x5 schedule is a great support to our students learning.

Administrators celebrating and investing in our teachers.

- School safety: Tim Allen

Our safety plan is about 42 pages long, reviewed and covers a response for every incident. We want the students to be safe throughout the whole day here.

We'd like these graphs posted in the foyer of the school so as they come in the building, parents, students and visitors can see a snapshot view of those results.

Counseling Department Items:

After School Program:

Director: Hyrum Brisco

Aide: Matt

The after school program has increased their attendance again this year. The 1st hour is tutoring and the 2nd two hours are for activities.

PTA:

Anyone who would like to help with the PTA should contact Sharla Carlson. There are many volunteer opportunities for our parents to help out.

Library: Ann Riding

We are doing Lego League. Ann has enough kids (40) to have 4 teams. We have many new books in the library and many students who are learning about how to do circulation of our books.

We are looking forward to our Book Fair with Barnes and Noble on Saturday, November 4th. Last 4 years we've had Overdrive at the Jr. High. It is now available district wide for the students to use. It has read aloud and audio books that will help many of the students to read their books.
