1. Identifying special educational needs and disabilities (SEND)

a. What kinds of special educational needs and disabilities does the school provide for?

The school ensures an inclusive ethos for all learners within a strong community environment where equal importance is placed on academic achievement and personal qualities. Our aim is to encourage all pupils to become independent learners and provide them with strategies for dealing with their needs in a supportive environment. We also give them meaningful access to the National Curriculum by enabling every pupil to experience success.

We ensure that all pupils, whatever their needs, receive appropriate educational provision through a broad and balanced curriculum that is relevant and suitably differentiated. The teachers identify, assess, record and regularly review the pupil's progress and needs.

Our building is a two-storey building which provides wheelchair access for the lower part of the school only.

b. How does the school know if children and young people have special educational needs and disabilities and need extra help?

Pupils and parents are key partners in identifying and assessing SEND, they will be listened to and their opinions valued. Referrals can be made by pupil, parent, member of staff or other professional. We have a systematic approach to identifying and assessing SEND and liaise with parents, previous settings and outside agencies. Identifying needs at the earliest point enables us to make effective provision and improve the long-term outcomes for the child.

Teachers make regular assessments of the progress of all pupils. They seek to identify pupils making less than expected progress. This can be characterised by progress which:

- Is significantly slower than that of their peers starting from the same baseline.
- Fails to match or better the child's previous rate of progress.
- Fails to close the attainment gap between the child and their peers.
- Widens the attainment gap.

c. What should I do if I think my child/young person may have special educational needs/disabilities?

Parents can raise any concerns about their child to the class teacher or to the Special Educational Needs Coordinator (SENDCO). This will be followed up with subsequent discussions or assessments, involving pupils and parent(s)/carer(s) in planning and supporting at all stages of the child's development.

2. Support the school provides for children and young people with SEND

a. What teaching strategies do you use to support children with special educational needs and disabilities?

Provision for pupils with SEND is a matter for the school as a whole. Every teacher has the responsibility to support pupils with SEND and to provide appropriately differentiated learning experiences. Our SEND provision is underpinned by high quality teaching and all members of staff are responsible for helping to meet an individual's needs and for following our school's procedures for identifying, assessing and making provisions meet those needs. We ensure that our decisions are informed by the insights of parents and those of the children and young people. We have high ambitions and set stretching targets and we track individual pupil progress towards these goals.

b. What additional support is available to help my child with their learning including specific interventions provided and adaptations to the curriculum and learning environment?

We have two intervention assistants who work closely with children in small groups. One of our staff members is Elklan trained, and delivers programmes for Speech And Language Therapy. Children use visual timetables, where needed. One of our staff members is Makaton trained. We work closely with the CYPIT (Children and Young People's Integrated Therapies) team to identify Occupational Therapy needs and Speech and Language Therapy (SALT) referrals.

We have a trained ELSA (Emotional Literacy Support Assistant) who works with groups and individual children to discuss social and emotional issues such as anxiety, social interactions and team building.

Interventions are run by teaching assistants, directed by the SEND staff and informed by reports from external professionals.

c. How is the decision made about what type and how much support my child/young person will receive?

We draw on the services of Educational Psychology, and Cognition and Learning teams to identify any specific needs of children and the provision they require. In addition to this, our SENDCO determines the provision required to specific SEND pupils. Parents are fully involved in this process and reports are fed back from the teams to leaders, teachers and parents with strategies for supporting the children. We use provision mapping across the school to track the intervention and support to ensure progress is maximised.

d. How will I (the parent) be involved in planning for and supporting my child/young person's learning?

We believe that a partnership approach is the best way to support development and it is important that parents and pupils are actively involved in setting targets and reviewing progress. Meetings will be held with the family and progress will be evaluated.

If the pupil has an Education Health and Care Plan (EHC plan) the outcomes on the plan will be clearly evaluated and support allocated as appropriate. An annual review will be held for all pupils with an EHCP.

e. How will my child be involved in his/her own learning and decisions made about his/her learning?

Children are always listened to at school, and their views are always taken into consideration. Children know what their targets are and these are talked through with class teachers or the intervention team. Their views will be sought prior to an annual review.

3. Children and young people's progress

a. How do you check and review my child/young person's progress?

When a referral is received a variety of data is gathered including teacher assessment, test results, attendance records and information about the pupil's level of attainment and a range of people are consulted. The SENCO will examine the information presented and meet with the pupil and parent(s)/carer(s) to assess the exact nature and extent of the need. The formal assessment process may include reports from other professionals such as Educational Psychologists, Speech and Language Therapists, Occupational Health Therapists and Healthcare professionals.

Pupils with an Educational Health and Care Plan have their plan reviewed every year.

Teachers regularly review the progress of the pupils in their class which include those with SEND. The teachers hold the responsibility for the progress, tracking and achievement of the pupils in their class. Half termly pupil progress meetings are held between the Head Teacher, Assistant head, class teacher and SENDCO to assess and review individual progress. Interventions are adapted accordingly.

b. How do you involve my child/young person and parents in those reviews?

Parents and pupils are involved in review meetings and can contribute prior and during the process. External professionals who are involved with the child's learning are invited to contribute to the review process and attend review meetings where necessary.

c. How do you know if the provision for children and young people with SEND at your school is working?

Children identified with SEND or Speech and Therapy Plans are discussed with class teachers and intervention staff to ensure that the provision meets the targets, and targets are on track to being met. Therapy plans are updated regularly. Class teachers meet regularly with the SENDCO and the head teacher to discuss the progress of all pupils in their class. Interventions are mapped and reviewed at least on a half termly basis. Interventions for SEND pupils can be changed at any point during the term as required.

4. Support for overall well-being

a. What support is available to promote my child/young person's emotional and social development?

At Eton Porny, we have a set of trained lunchtime playground leaders who wear bibs, and work on a daily rota – helping and encouraging children to play games (they have had training from the Windsor Schools Sports Partnership).

We have a strong behaviour policy which is embedded throughout the school. All staff, including lunchtime supervisors are aware of this policy, and we ensure that it is adhered to at all times.

An ELSA (Emotional Literacy Support Assistant) is employed at school, and works with individuals and groups of children. We identify the needs of pupils and regularly review these sessions, and the impact they are having. Parents are invited in to talk with the ELSA about the outcomes of these sessions, and possible next steps forward.

We have a lunchtime Nurture group which encourages children to make positive social interactions and encourages team building skills.

5. Preparation for new and next steps

a. How will you help and prepare my child to join your school?

When children with SEND join our school we ensure that we visit them in their previous setting and meet their existing teachers and SENDCO. We arrange home visits so we can meet them in their home environment and meet their parents. We encourage the pupil to visit our school before they join so they can become familiar with the environment, and where needed, multiple visits can be made with previous key workers to ensure the transition is as smooth as possible. We take pictures to make a transition book for the child to look at prior to starting the new school. Children with SEND start a day earlier than other children so they have time to adjust to their new setting.

All children have short transition sessions in the previous summer term to prepare them for school and the class teacher will carry out home visits.

b. How will you prepare my child/young person to join their next year group/school/stage of education or life?

Transition plans are put together once the school has been notified of the new educational setting (for those children who are leaving at the end of year 4, transition is spoken about in a general context throughout the year to slowly prepare them for this change). The child is always at the centre of what we do, and different plans are drawn up depending on the child's individual need. Children begin to spend time completing transition books, looking at feelings, and have ELSA sessions 10 school weeks before the end of the Summer Term. All children have at least one transition day. Children who have SEND will have further visits to the new school so as to familiarise them with their new setting and make the transition as smooth as possible.

All paperwork is handed over including all meetings with various professionals who may have been involved with the pupil, Annual Review paperwork, and the most current progress levels.

6. Accessibility and specialist equipment

a. How accessible is the school environment?

(A link to the School's Accessibility Plan can be found in section 8b)

All staff have recently had Speech & Language and Focus & Attention training. New training, including SEN and Working Memory, has already been booked for the coming year.

All of these offer schools and parents advice and support for children with SEND and well-being issues.

We meet with the CYPIT team and the Educational Psychologist regularly to identify needs and review current interventions.

We work with the SHINE team, and encourage parents to attend sessions that they run. Parents are aware of these services, and are invited to attend sessions with these professionals for initial discussions and feedback.
