Come learn how to knit or sew by experiencing the work our students do in their Handwork class. We begin each class with verse and reading articles related to Handwork and creativity. Past participants can finish works from the classes before. New participants can select from suggested works. Willing participants can try 4-needle knitting to make a pair of socks (Fifth grade curriculum). If you want to knit socks, please email Yoriko (yyamamoto@sfwaldorf.org) to receive supply list (this project is not covered by the program due to its cost).

Handwork teacher Yoriko Yamamoto is an art educator who developed multidisciplinary art programs at Yerba Buena Center for the Arts and Oasis for Girls, an organization that supports arts and education programs for urban young women aged 10-20. She holds BA in Psychology and Education from Yokohama National University; MA in Museum Studies with emphasis on Art Education from San Francisco State University; and Handwork Teacher Training from Rudolf Steiner College. Yoriko led the handwork program at Greenwood school prior to joining SFWS.
