From the President's Office

Dear Alumni and Friends of DeMatha,

In late summer of every year, Dr. McMahon and I collaborate on the themes for our two opening talks to the faculty and staff which are delivered in the few days before school resumes in mid-August. It is always our hope that our words and thoughts would engender approaches to Catholic education which would not only help the students, but also rejuvenate our own stamina as leaders within the school. Standing in front of any group of people for 180 days a year requires an internal, spiritual drive which keeps us focused and faith-filled.

In my talk this year I spoke about the reflective life. Every person listening to my talk in August as well as the readers today of the Red and Blue Review realizes the pressures of deadlines, schedules, commitments and responsibilities. With all of these impinging on our minds and hearts, it is easy for us to slip into a routine which never gives us the time to go beneath the duties to re-discover the reasons for all that we do. I reminded my colleagues that we are entrusted with the holy task of passing on the faith of Jesus to the next generation of faith-filled gentlemen, as well as passing on the wisdom of the ages for the next generation of scholars. To make this a reality, we must also model what it means to be a person who knows what is important in life, who knows how to balance our days and nights, and who demonstrates that faith and wisdom are components of a successful person. Reflection is a gift that we give to ourselves regularly, so that when we pause and think about relationships, about values, about choices and about each other, then we become more connected and capable to be the person who never takes life for granted. All of us are so happy when we meet someone like this in our own lives, and each of us is called to be that person in the lives of each other. We need to be reminded on a regular basis that reflection and slowing down are not a waste of time; rather, it is an opportunity to restore our spirits and to renew our commitments to be the type of man or woman that God has planned for us.

Here at DeMatha, we are blessed with faculty and staff who regularly accept the challenge to be reflective people in the ministry of Catholic education. Within this Red and Blue Annual Report, we are also blessed to read the names of countless alumni and friends of DeMatha who make the decision to support our mission to educate the next leaders in society and in the Church. The 72-year history of our school would be diminished if we did not have the gift of Board Members, faculty, staff, alumni and friends who know what it means to be true to the mission of the School. Together, we make it happen at DeMatha; many thanks and prayers for all that we do to let the words of the mission come to life daily on Madison St. Hyattsville.

In James, Offer.

Fr. James R. Day, O.SS.T. President

DeMatha Catholic High School Strategic Plan – 2019-2023

OUR MISSION

DeMatha Catholic High School is a college preparatory institution dedicated to educating young men in the Trinitarian tradition. DeMatha's historic and ongoing mission is to serve students of differing abilities, interests, and backgrounds from the culturally rich and diverse greater Washington Metropolitan area.

Faculty and staff work to help young men develop a way of life characterized by attention to scholarship, dedication to moral principles, devotion to hard work, and the awareness of the need to serve others. Through a broadbased and rigorous curriculum, numerous opportunities for spiritual growth, a wide range of co-curricular opportunities, and a comprehensive service program, DeMatha cultivates a respect for other people that finds its most complete expression in students who become faith-filled gentlemen and scholars.

DEMATHA CATHOLIC HIGH #### SCHOOL PHILOSOPHY

DeMatha Catholic High School offers to young men in the Washington area a college preparatory program in which faith and knowledge complement each other. A faculty and staff composed of Trinitarian religious and dedicated lay men and women provide a program of instruction that serves young men of varied intellectual, religious, cultural and economic backgrounds. The Trinitarian charism that informs DeMatha asks that students become "men of action, men of prayer."

The DeMatha student develops spiritually and morally in a community where faith seeks understanding and is lived in service to neighbor. Religious instruction provides the student with an intellectual appreciation for the Judeo-Christian tradition as well as an ecumenical respect for diversity in religious expression and creed. Intellectual growth occurs within the moral framework and is achieved through a broad-based curriculum that incorporates appropriate pedagogical techniques and technological innovations.

A rich co-curricular program provides an opportunity for informal and formal instruction where students witness and understand the sound principles for human rights and the corresponding need for self-discipline. By experiencing healthy competition and sportsmanlike behavior involved in physical education and athletic events, students grow toward physical and social maturity.

DeMatha's administration and faculty are engaged in a continuous program of self-study, but the goal of a DeMatha education remains the same, to produce Faith-Filled Gentlemen and Scholars.

STRATEGIC PLAN:

A. CATHOLIC IDENTITY

GOAL: As the teaching presence of the Roman Catholic Church, DeMatha Catholic High School shall continue to advance the Trinitarian tradition which welcomes young men of all faiths who become faith-filled Gentlemen and Scholars.

STRATEGIES

1. Review and strengthen the Theology curriculum.

- 2. Review the liturgical life of the school and the Christian Service program.
- 3. Continue to provide annual spiritual retreats for faculty and students.
- 4. Investigate partnering with a Catholic university to provide professional development opportunities related to integrating faith into the curriculum.

B. MARKETING

GOAL: Promote the mission of DeMatha Catholic High School widely and effectively through a comprehensive marketing plan.

STRATEGIES

- 3. Utilize the website as an effective marketing tool.

GOAL: Enhance comprehensive recruitment plan to attract students of differing abilities, interests and backgrounds.

STRATEGIES

- 1. Further strengthen the feeder patterns of DeMatha Catholic High School by continued collaboration with the Archdiocese of Washington.
- 2. Develop an internal enrollment team for the purpose of diversifying recruitment efforts.

C. ADVANCEMENT

GOAL: Develop a culture of philanthropic giving for DeMatha Catholic High School.

STRATEGIES

- 1. Create by the Leadership and Advancement an annual advancement plan.
- 2. Optimize fundraising by engaging in effective longrange planning for the 75th Anniversary celebration at DeMatha Catholic High School.

D. GOVERNANCE

GOAL: Enhance the ability of the Board of Directors to effectively implement and oversee policies consistent with the mission of DeMatha Catholic High School.

STRATEGIES

- 1. Implement a training and professional development plan for the members of the Board of Directors.
- 2. Enrich the Board of Directors by identifying and nominating additional individuals with varied skills and backgrounds.

GOAL: Enrich the educational environment for administration, faculty and staff by increasing communication, collaboration and transparency.

STRATEGIES:

- 1. Establish an Administrative Cabinet and associated procedures.
- 2. Review and update faculty and staff policy manual.
- 3. Develop and communicate a policy regarding a clear definition of accommodations that can be provided to students with documented learning needs.
- 4. Develop, implement, and regularly monitor strategies to connect course learning outcomes to course assessments.

GOAL: Ensure the continuation of achieving accreditation standards and goals.

STRATEGIES: 1. Establish an Accreditation Committee. GOAL: Continue efforts to improve the safety, security, energy efficiency and functionality of the campus.

STRATEGIES:

- 1. Develop a long-term Campus Master Plan.
- 2. Develop, implement, and update policies and procedures related to a safe and secure school environment.

E. FINANCE

GOAL: Maintain financial sustainability

STRATEGIES

1. Continue practices for the efficient and effective deployment of resources.

F. CURRICULUM

GOAL: Ensure that the Master Schedule meets the needs of the students and the instructional objectives.

STRATEGIES

1. Ongoing review of the Master Schedule by the Administrative Cabinet.

GOAL: Deepen the technological literacy of students.

STRATEGIES

1. Explore and evaluate technology curriculum offerings. Identify opportunities for academic enrichment by enhancing the curriculum through the integration of innovative technology.

G. TECHNOLOGY

GOAL: Provide administration, faculty and staff with the current technological tools and the training necessary to utilize fully such tools to enhance the learning environment and to improve administrative functions.

STRATEGIES

- 1. Develop a Three-Year Technology Plan.
- 2. Engage an external consultant for an independent, annual audit of the systems, practices, protocols and procedures.

THE DEMATHA PLAN

DeMatha Catholic High School recently finished its fourth Strategic Plan. The Plan was assembled under the direction of the Center for Catholic School Excellence (CCSE) at Mount St. Mary's University.

CCSE serves as a site for reflection, strategic planning, and inquiry for school, parish and diocesan leaders. Mr. Timothy O'Brien '77, Chairperson of the DeMatha Board of Directors, contacted the Center in an effort to seek assistance in the development of a strategic plan. The CCSE team, collaborating with DeMatha, included Dr. Barbara A. Marinak, Dean, Division of Education, Professor Elizabeth C. Monahan, Director of the Center, and Dr. Stacey Brown-Hobbs, Accreditation Consultant.

DeMatha has a long standing relationship with the community. The school is located just northeast of Washington, D.C., in Prince George's County. It is a four-year college preparatory school founded by the Order of the Most Holy Trinity and of the Captives or Trinitarians in 1946. The school has recently adopted a President/Principal model of governance. DeMatha enjoys a stellar reputation and sends nearly 100% of its graduates to excellent colleges.

Members of the DeMatha faculty with officials from Mount St. Mary's University met over the summer to discuss and collaborate on the next DeMatha Strategic Plan that will run from 2019–2023.

Zach Landow's Friendship Formed Through Service

eMatha has a strong reputation of developing faithfilled gentlemen and scholars among its students, to help serve others. Some students develop that sense of service during their years on campus and others, like senior Zach Landow, have had that sense of service instilled for much longer. Zach, a player on the Prep Hockey team as well as the marketing director for the Spanish Club, has volunteered for a variety of youth organizations since he was in elementary school. Zach participated in back-to-school shopping drives for the Catonsville Children's Home, assisted with the Baltimore

Zach Landow has volunteered for several youth organizations while at DeMatha.

Saints special needs hockey team, and more recently assisted with a book drive for the children of the Baltimore Boys and Girls Club.

"I've always had a passion for helping others," Landow said.

During that time with the Baltimore Boys and Girls Club, a friendship grew between Zach and, a now, nine-year old boy named Chance who lives in inner city Baltimore. After meeting with Zach and watching him skate, Chance became very interested in learning how to skate as well.

"Whenever I see Chance, he gets this humongous grin," Landow said, "We got him some skates and a helmet and my dad and I have been taking him to learn how to skate in Columbia, MD., on Saturdays."

Last year, Zach received the 'Hero of Baltimore Award' by the Baltimore Boys and Girls Club for his service to the youth organization and was asked to speak at the organization's annual fundraiser. As part of his speech, he and the Baltimore

Boys and Girls Club surprised Chance with a 529 plan, which will pay for Chance to do two years of community college followed by two years of college at a state school when he is older. According to Zach, Chance was extremely excited at all of the commotion around him and the event even if he didn't fully grasp the gift of college.

"He had no idea what was going on," Landow said, "He thought he was getting a guitar or a Jeep as his surprise. But we gave him a graduation cap and he was just smiling because everyone started clapping like crazy."

Zach's life will continue to be busy during his senior year at DeMatha, but he's planning to continue working with Chance and volunteering with the Baltimore Boys and Girls Club as often as he can. He hopes to help out with a similar youth organization in college, but he knows he won't be able to visit Chance as often as he does now.

"I'm not going to be here as much," Landow said, "But I hope to stay in contact with Chance as long as I'm alive. Life-long friends."

With the world as chaotic as it is today, trying to make a difference that changes the world can be a daunting task. But making a difference in one person's life can be just as good because it changes that person's world. By reaching through with small acts, Zach said he wants to continue being that faith-filled gentleman and scholar after he graduates from DeMatha in June.

"Service has always been a really big part of my life. As long as I can help people directly, that's all I want to do."

Zahir Muhammad Staying One Step Ahead In Chess

hess is a game of the mind. It forces players to envision what their opponent is thinking and to plan out their own moves far in advance to ensure the utmost success. Over the last few years, junior Zahir Muhammad has gained attention throughout the country as he has competed and won tournaments at the city, regional and national levels. This past summer, Zahir, a Washington, DC resident, was invited to participate in the National Junior Chess Competition in Madison, WI. He was one of 51 state/province representatives throughout the country and finished tied for eighth overall in an impressive showing of skill, endurance and tenacity.

"I walked in with the DC flag and saw everyone else walk in with their state flags," Muhammad said, "It was fun because I got to meet a lot of different people who were at the top level of their state, but it's also in my head because everyone you play is the best in their state. So when you look around, you realize that."

How did Zahir rise to national levels in chess? He had several mentors growing up who helped him progress through various levels of competition and has been coached in both a team and individual setting. But it was when Zahir's father taught him how to play when he was three that he wanted to improve so he could beat his dad at his own game.

"He probably defeated me 400 times in a row before I finally beat him when I was seven. But that kept me going because I know that competitive nature was there in really wanting to beat him. It made me want to continue to keep playing and practicing."

The success of the sports programs at DeMatha has been well-documented and Zahir knows this very well as he also competes on the school's track and field team. Even though chess is different from a sport like track, Zahir said the preparation and training needed for success is extremely similar.

"You can go out on game day and play, but you have to practice those skills, in terms of looking at the board, visualizing things, seeing how the pieces move and coordinate together to create stronger attacks," Muhammad said. "For me, I'll practice a lot during the week and then just chill on a Saturday of a match. I won't have to stress myself out over it because I know I've put the work in throughout the week."

In addition to chess and track, Zahir is also involved in the Black Student Union and National Honors Society at DeMatha and also participated in the DeMatha Leadership Institute over the summer. In addition, he's taking classes this year that include Honors Physics, Pre-Calculus and AP Language & Composition. Zahir's success at chess has spread around campus and he said that people approach him and ask questions about the sport.

"When I came here as a freshman, there were maybe one, two or three people playing a small get-together," Muhammad said, "At one point this year, there were maybe six or seven people playing on three different boards and there were five people at each board watching."

Zahir hopes to get back to Nationals next year. But until then, he is preparing for local tournaments such as the Northern Virginia Open this fall. He said he hopes to continue playing chess competitively at the collegiate level and has reached out to similarly talented players his age to formulate a plan on which colleges to apply. Zahir is hoping to succeed in more tournaments so that he can reach the Chess ranking of 'Expert' by the end of the school year, which is a 2,000 level rating. (Zahir is currently at 1,804.)

As Zahir continues to improve, he said he enjoys introducing more people to the game. Zahir was recognized for his talent at chess in a special ceremony in October where he received a plaque from DC Ward 7 Councilmember Vincent Gray. Zahir said he's excited to continue using his platform to bring other people into the sport.

"I feel like here on campus, that's a microcosm of the bigger level," Zahir said, "I want to use that reputation to bring other people in and help them get better at chess as well."

Bro. Josh Warshak: A Journey To DeMatha

building in the mind and soul of DeMatha Campus Minister Bro. Joshua Warshak O.SS.T., in the fifth grade while growing up in Texas.

"I grew up in the Methodist Church and we had a wonderful minister," Bro. Josh said. "And I remember thinking that I'd like to be him one day. I just started seeing the priests as role models to me."

Bro. Josh became a Catholic in the eighth grade and grew more serious in taking the next step of his vocation after college. While deciding between which religious community to be a part of, the Trinitarian Order offered something special for him.

"When I came to the Trinitarians, I saw a group that really cared and knew about each other and really valued each other as a presence in our lives and in our ministry. I essentially found my home," Bro. Josh said.

After several years of theological studies in San Antonio as part of his seminary work, he came to DeMatha as a pastoral intern in 2016. He assisted Campus Ministry Director Ms. Erin Bright with organizing liturgies and services on campus, ran retreats, assisted teaching in the DeMatha Way classroom, and preached several times at daily mass.

"I love working in a school environment," Warshak said. "I love this school. I think it has a great mission of inclusion and diversity. I think we cast a wide net and I think the school is thriving because of it."

Bro. Josh completed his internship and returned to Texas to finish his last year of studies. After graduating this past May with his Master of Divinity, he returned to DeMatha for the beginning of the 2018-19 school year. Next summer, he will profess his Solemn Vows and become a fully professed member of the Trinitarian Order.

The first six months of this final year of preparation has Bro. Josh working once again in the Campus Ministry Office. One area he has focused on is the Junior Retreats where he accompanies groups of 10 DeMatha juniors to perform service at a homeless men's shelter in Washington, D.C. Bro. Josh teaches the groups about the Gospel mandate to care for the sick and feed the hungry and then the students put it to action by serving lunch and interacting with the people at the shelter. Bro. Josh said it's a great opportunity not only to help those in need, but also to break down stereotypes and create new social narratives about the homeless population.

Bro. Josh is working this school year in the Campus Ministry Office.

"If you get to know somebody who is homeless and then later hear a negative comment about the homeless population on the news or family members talking about it, hopefully their mind goes to the person they met. They'll say 'I met this guy at the homeless shelter and he's not X, Y or Z. He just fell on hard times."

In January, Bro. Josh will travel to Rome where he will spend six months with other Trinitarians throughout the world who are also preparing for their final Solemn Vows.

"This time in Rome is an opportunity to know each other because we are a rather small international community," Bro. Josh said. "We will get to connect and we'll do an in-depth study of the writings of our reformer St. John the Baptist of the Conception who, in the 1500s, wanted to return the community to a more authentic way of living."

Bro. Josh has been preparing for Solemn Vows a long time and he said his goal is to return once more to DeMatha next year where he can fulfill his ministry in the school community. He does, however, recognize that he may be sent somewhere else if that is what's needed in the Trinitarian community. Regardless, Bro. Josh is pleased with the work that has been done at DeMatha to teach a group of young men to better care for and understand the world around them.

"I think we're doing some really good work here in the DMV area," Bro. Josh said. "We're educating a diverse group of men to be Faith-Filled Gentlemen and Scholars."

STORIES FROM THE EXPRESS

A second documentary on Brendan Looney '99 titled 'Brendan' will be released soon.

LAST APRIL, CBS SPORTS RAN A FEATURE ON JOHNNY SURDICK '14 OF Army lacrosse who wore #40 in Brendan's honor even though Brendan playedlax at Navy. Of course, at Navy, one lax player wears #40 each year in honor of Brendan. The video feature ran at halftime of the Army-Navy lacrosse game.

Earlier this year, Kevin Looney '74 received this letter from an 11-year old boy from Poughkeepsie, NY who saw the broadcast. Here is the letter: "Dear Brendan Looney Foundation:

Hi, my name is ( ). I am 11 years old and in sixth grade. I play hockey, baseball, and lacrosse. I would like to go to the Naval Academy and then become a Navy SEAL. Recently, I watched the Army-Navy lacrosse game and I watched the special on Brendan Looney. I learned that he wore #40 and that only one player on the team gets to wear that number and that player is the hardest worker on the team. As a result, I changed my hockey and lacrosse numbers to 40. I hope it will remind me of what I want to become. I also want it to remind me of Brendan's core values: to be strong, to be accountable, and to never complain. Brendan is my role model and one of my heroes. I hope you take my donation in memory of him."

TWO NOTES WE RECENTLY RECEIVED FROM PEOPLE/FAMILIES WHO were only at DeMatha a short while.

The first is an e-mail received by Mr. Rick Reeves, Science Chair: Dear Mr. Reeves:

Hope you are doing fine and are ready for the new semester at DeMatha!

I am not sure if you remember me, but I was a German exchange student that came to DeMatha for a short 6-week exchange back in 2013.

In the past 5 years, I have graduated from high school and started my bachelors of science international management double degree program at the ESB Business School in Reutlingen, Germany. For the second part of my program, I recently moved to Raleigh NC, to finish my second bachelors degree at NC State University, Poole College of Management.

As classes will start here at NCSU tomorrow, I just wanted to take 5 minutes to say thank you for giving me the chance to study at DeMatha 5 years ago – this exchange definitely contributed to my personal and academic development. Not only did I make friends for life, but I also learned a lot about myself and my abilities to adapt to a new academic environment. It does give me the confidence and experience that I need to succeed in the upcoming two years in the States.

I hope you have a terrific late-summer and hope to see you soon – maybe I will get the chance to visit you at DeMatha when I visit my Aunt in Maryland this semester.

The second was a note received by Ms. Anne Metz, Finance Director: Dear Ms. Metz and Colleagues:

Sometimes life does not go as planned. Our son's transfer to another school was a very difficult decision for our family and we will be forever grateful that you made the process as smooth as possible. Our family will always hold DeMatha in high regard. Please accept this donation.... DeMatha is a phenomenal school and we are sorry it did not work out.

The game NBA 2K19 was released and contains an animated scene of Victor Oladipo '10 of the Indiana Pacers doing a post-game interview with Dave Aldridge '83 of Turner Broadcasting. After the brief interview, the Aldridge 'character' faces the camera and says, "Victor, One DeMatha." It is a great scene. David is a member of the DeMatha Board of Directors.

STORIES FROM THE EXPRESS

The Class of '88 celebrated their 30th reunion in September and group leader Dave DiLuigi, an officer on the DeMatha Board of Directors, delivered a wonderful speech at the event. Here was the final part of the speech:

"OUR EXPERIENCES AT DEMATHA, AND THE PERSONAL RELATIONships formed here, have made us better friends, husbands, sons, and fathers. To a person, when asked what DeMatha means to him, the response is, 'DeMatha changed my life. I wouldn't be where I am today if it hadn't been for this community!

As I stated five years ago, the diversity in our class – race, education levels, physical abilities, and socio-economic status – served not to divide us, rather this diversity brought us closer together because we were accepting of each other's differences, learned from them and have come to truly love one another. Our class has lived the school's mission to serve students of differing abilities, interests, and backgrounds from the culturally rich and diverse Washington Metropolitan region, where the faculty help young men develop a way of life characterized by attention to scholarship, dedication to moral principles, devotion to hard work, and the awareness of the need to serve others.

In closing, my belief is that for those present in this room and our brothers who were unable to join us, DeMatha, its people, its traditions, its history and its commitment to excellence in all things is a part of who we are. I am proud to be a DeMatha Man. I am fortunate to have shared these experiences with you, and I consider it one of the greatest gifts in my life to be a member of the Class of 1988. I love you guys."

A MISSIVE FROM CHRISTINA MATTA, MOTHER OF JONATHAN '19:

Shane Denman '11 was Jonathan's role model. Shane, although eight years older than Jonathan, had a very close relationship with my son. They grew up together carpooling to the same elementary and middle school. Jonathan looked up to him so much, that when Jonathan was in elementary school and Shane was at DeMatha, all Jonathan wanted was to be a Stag. He looked up to Shane in a way that only a Faith-Filled Gentleman and Scholar could provide.

Jonathan wanted to be a Stag so badly, that when he played Crofton Recreational Lacrosse, he would proudly wear Shane's DM lacrosse helmet, although it never fit and wobbled on his head when he ran up and down the field. He was proud to represent DeMatha in the only way he could before attending.

DeMatha was the only high school Jonathan applied to, and it was his dream to go there and be a Stag, which came true when he got accepted in 2015. On Jonathan's first day of high school, Shane, although in college, made time to surprise Jonathan, and drive him to DeMatha to recreate their younger years of lower school carpooling. The brotherhood that DeMatha creates will bond Shane and Jonathan together forever, which only a Stag can understand.

Shane's ambition, kindness, thoughtfulness, and overall demeanor were the qualities that made Jonathan look up to him and want to be a DeMatha Man. Shane embodied the exclusive qualities of a Stag. As Jonathan completes his time at DeMatha, he too has been molded into a Faith-Filled Gentleman and Scholar who shares the same qualities as Shane, who came before him. A DeMatha Man's quality is admired by many, had by few, and is important for influencing the man you want your son to become.
