

Honors in Leadership Seminar (Senior level)

Term 1 (Meets 2 day a week)

Term 2 (Meets 5 days a week)

Term 3 (Meets 1 day a week)

The Honors in Leadership Seminar is for selected seniors/first classmen who have exhibited growth through Culver leadership and who have demonstrated an interest in social change. The Honors in Leadership Seminar expands knowledge on the significance of ethical leadership, allows for deep study of leadership theories and practices, investigates the importance of effective leadership styles across diverse contexts as students engage in an authentic project experience that promotes change on an issue of their choice. The seminar project is centered on a multidisciplinary approach to investigating and developing informed leadership models, theories, and practices to support social transformation. Taking a research-based approach, this seminar teaches learners the practice of Action Research to support leadership for change. (Action Research is committed to both the collection and analysis of data about a community and the use of those data to create innovative designs and initiate leadership action that promotes change).

The Honors in Leadership Seminar challenges students with a rigorous workload that engages analytical and innovative thinking while giving an opportunity to become an effective leader and responsible citizen who contributes to meaningful change in a given community. Students must be willing to pursue a high level of achievement through intensive study resulting in a completion of a major project. Students are encouraged to take risks, embrace moments of failure as opportunity, and explore innovative solutions to problems. Students must be able to work deeply and collaboratively in the classroom as well as independently outside of the scheduled class.
