Brawerman Elementary school students on both campuses donned their goggles, lab coats, and thinking caps last month for exciting nights exploring science and engineering.

On Wednesday, February 13, Brawerman East hosted its first annual Makers Fair in honor of the 100th day of school. Students and their families came together for a delightful evening of crafts, technology, and delicious snacks. Faculty and administrators were thrilled to showcase students’ STEM learning at the community-wide celebration of science and creativity. Every grade level showcased work, and teachers and parents also led activity booths. Activities included exploring virtual reality with ocular glasses, deconstruction and reconstruction booths, creating musical-fruit circuits, and remote controlling a Mars Rover model (as shown in the picture). Among the exciting displays were Star Wars Cars, 3-D Printing, and one focusing on Mars Rover landing information.

At Brawerman West on Thursday, February 21, students and parents gathered on campus for the third annual Math and Science Night. It was an enjoyable evening of shared explorations, activities, and learning. As Andrea Weinstein, Assistant Principal at Brawerman West for Grades 3 through 6, explained, “The goals for the evening are twofold. First, we want parents and children to engage together in hands-on learning experiences. At the same time, we want to spark excitement and curiosity around math and science.” Guided by Brawerman West faculty, students and parents enjoyed a variety of educational and mind-opening experiences. In the sessions, they built parachutes and tested them in a wind tunnel, constructed roller-coasters, made circuits with Play-Doh, and even programmed a banana to play music. In addition, the 2019 Math and Science Night kicked off with a dramatic demonstration of “elephant toothpaste,” an experiment showcasing the giant, foamy reaction caused by combining yeast and hydrogen peroxide in a plastic bottle.

Both events were successful evenings of hands-on learning and creativity. Students and parents alike can’t wait to do it again next year!
The “Sanctuary” of Shabbat
Parashat Vayakhel Exodus 35:1-38:20

Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel in his work The Sabbath wrote: “When history began, there was only one holiness in the world, holiness in time...the sanctity of time came first, the sanctity of man came second, and the sanctity of space came last. Time was hallowed by God at the very moment of creation; space, the Tabernacle, was consecrated by Moses.”

Parashat Vayakhel opens with Moses gathering the people of Israel and repeating their obligation to observe Shabbat—to not work or kindle fire. This is one of only two admonitions in the Torah of what not to do on Shabbat, and yet the rest of the portion is filled with details of how to build the Mishkan, the moveable sanctuary. So what are these verses about Shabbat doing at the start of this parashah?

The meaning of Shabbat is to celebrate time as opposed to space. Six days a week we live under the everyday tyranny of all things space: the space of school, the space of work, the space of our cars. On Shabbat we try to become attuned to the sanctity of time. We turn our attention from the results of creation to contemplate and appreciate the mystery and the wonder of creation.

Unlike a building like the Mishkan, no one can own time. Shabbat is a sanctuary of space and a holy time without brick and mortar, where the self, God, and community gather to reconnect and to reflect. Vayakhel teaches us that Shabbat is our one true sanctuary, our own personal Mishkan. It is the gift of time that we receive each and every week, so make sure you use it wisely.

Karsh Center Programs Destigmatize Mental Health Challenges

The stigma surrounding mental health issues, particularly in minority communities, prevents many individuals and families from getting the help they need. As part of our health and wellness programming at the Karsh Family Social Service Center, we invite clients to look past this stigma and recognize that utilizing mental health resources can be life changing. It is one of the key ways the Karsh Center supports individuals so that they may stand with dignity and create a future in which they grow and thrive.

The mental health services that the Karsh Center and our collaborators offer are not limited to counseling sessions with the Southern California Counseling Center or grief groups we offer with OUR HOUSE Grief Support Center; many of our other programs focus on creating space and destigmatizing mental health challenges: Our Thursday child and family enrichment group with Children’s Bureau brings together young parents in Koreatown who may be feeling isolated and lacking support. The food demonstrations that Karsh Center volunteers lead with FEAST for Mobile Food Pantry clients help redefine their troubled relationship with food, which may be rooted in trauma, sexual assault, and scarcity. Our Navigators create a warm and safe space for every client who walks through our doors, whether they come in search of a computer to use, a dental appointment, a bag of food, or help taking a first step toward applying for a job. In Spring 2019, we will begin working with UCLA as a collaborator to incorporate new depression and anxiety screenings into our client engagement process, creating new avenues to support those who may be silently grappling with these issues. These programs aimed at destigmatizing mental health challenges comprise one of the avenues the Karsh Center provides in its ongoing efforts to be a safe, vibrant, and responsive place for those who walk through our doors.

Depression and Anxiety Screenings made possible through the generosity of Laurie and Steve Gordon and the Max Gray Eternal Light Fund to fund Mental Health Services at The Karsh Family Social Service Center.
On January 26, our Erika J. Glazer and Mann Family Early Childhood Centers held their Annual Gala, a Night at Studio Wilshire, at NeueHouse Hollywood. All proceeds from this amazing night help support the early childhood centers’ scholarship fund and operating budget. We are so grateful for the Gala committee members’ considerable work, and for all the generous supporters of this investment in our future. A special thank-you to the 2019 Gala Chairs: Lina Cohan, Alexandra Nechita, Carolyn Shapiro, and Katherine Villasenor and thank you to our Parent Association Presidents Dianna Mannheim Sternberg and Deena Fleiner for all of your help and guidance throughout. We are so appreciative of their dedication and hard work.

On Purim there is a mitzvah called matanot l’evyonim (gifts to the poor). In our city, we have a large community of people living below the poverty level. We are partnering with our very own Karsh Family Social Service Center to work to improve the lives of our underserved neighbors by creating three types of gift bundles: baby supplies, Mother’s Day pampering items, and kitchen essentials.

As a family, you are asked to support Purim with a Purpose by sponsoring at least one of these gift bundles (pictured right):

Sponsorship dollars raised by your donations help support Religious School programs and Karsh Center clientele. Each gift bundle costs $36.

Save the dates for Purim with a Purpose: Sunday, March 10, at the Irmas Campus and Sunday, March 17, at the Glazer Campus (during regular Religious School hours). More information is available at wbtreligiousschool.org/purim.

AUDREY IRMAS PAVILION DONOR PROFILE

Audrey Irmas Pavilion donors describe their enthusiasm for Wilshire Boulevard Temple and how they envision the Audrey Irmas Pavilion will serve the community.

It wasn’t until Cary Kleinman and his wife, Jennifer, became Temple members that he experienced religion as more than just the set of strict rules and obligations he had to observe during childhood. “I have to admit, religion was rarely fun for me when I was growing up,” he said. “We were borderline Orthodox, and the sole focus was on following the rules instead of understanding and appreciating the rituals and culture.

“So I look at the Temple,” Cary continued, “as my opportunity to introduce religion to my family in a very different way, and for the Temple to be a unifying element for our family. It is a place where we come together to share in Jewish traditions and values.”

The Kleinmans also welcome the camaraderie that comes with being a Temple member. “We all have our differences, but the Temple is a place that brings the community together as a whole,” the couple affirmed. “It’s a shared experience among our family and friends.”

So when Rabbi Leder shared with them the Audrey Irmas Pavilion initiative, the Kleinmans were immediately interested.

“We take great pride in contributing to the Temple, and providing assistance to the Audrey Irmas Pavilion is particularly meaningful to us. We were afforded the opportunity to contribute to the creation of a very special place. The Pavilion will be the site of some of the most important celebrations in the lives of our family and friends,” they explained. “Here was a chance to do something extraordinary and to help create something special.

“Our contribution is going toward future joyous occasions—the happy times, the life cycle events. These events will be even more significant for us, just knowing that we were part, albeit a small part, in making the Pavilion a reality.”

In addition to their support of the Temple, Cary and Jennifer also are involved with and contribute to a number of local and national organizations, including Children’s Hospital Los Angeles (Children’s Circle of Care), Make-a-Wish Foundation (Real Estate Division Cabinet Member), L.A. Philharmonic (Board of Overseers), Los Angeles Police Foundation, and Wesleyan University.

“In the future, we are looking forward to celebrating our children’s b’nei mitzvah in the Pavilion. However,” they added with a laugh, “since both kids are toddlers, it’s too early to think about wedding options.”

CELEBRATE YOUR FAMILY FOR GENERATIONS TO COME

WITH AN AUDREY IRMAS PAVILION PATIO PAVER

Every family has their own special reason.

“I’m a Rem Koolhaas groupie. The opportunity to be a small part of what will surely be a future LA landmark, joining our beloved Synagogue, & honoring our Temple, is a privilege.”

- Maralee Beck

“Together we can link the past, present and future.”

- Aviva and Carl Covitz

“Congratulations to Wilshire Boulevard Temple on this modern, inclusive and architecturally significant religious center. Our family is thrilled to be a part of this historic contribution to the City of Los Angeles.”

- Alissa and Jordan Zachary

“Contributing to the Audrey Irmas Pavilion is our way of preserving and perpetuating Judaism and Jewish values for generations to come.”

- Nan and Allan Goodman

“My memories of Wilshire Boulevard Temple go back to when I was a kid going to high holidays with my family and the look of pride on my grandparent’s faces. I wish they could see what Rabbi Leder has done and continues to do with the Temple. I wish they could see the look of pride on their great grandchildren’s faces when they walk into this magnificent sanctuary and look down on this paver remembering how important this place is to our family.”

- Lara, Arianna, Bianca, and Charlie Kaplan

This month we are pleased to highlight Lily Zweig, Mann Family Early Childhood Center Class of 2003 and Brawerman Elementary School Class of 2010. Below, Lily describes what she learned from her time at the Wilshire Boulevard Temple Schools and shares the impressive things she’s doing today:

As a proud member of the Brawerman class of 2010, I have carried forward countless memories, friends, and lessons into the nine years since I left the corner of Olympic and Barrington. Following graduation, I attended the Crossroads School for Arts & Sciences. Throughout my time in high school, I worked closely with the Los Angeles Museum of the Holocaust, and after hearing so many survivors’ remarkable accounts of suffering, injustice, and survival, I have a powerful obligation to lend my voice to communities left without one.

Currently, I am a junior at the University of California, Berkeley, where I am working toward a degree in Media Studies. My time at Cal has inspired me to consider how, when used to its fullest potential, this overwhelming digital dimension can be directed to become a valuable force for learning and growth. My regard for the power of storytelling and civic justice spirit have intersected in a way that has inspired me to pursue a career in criminal law—protecting our nation’s most vulnerable constituents and their invaluable narratives. Presently, I am studying abroad in Washington, D.C., where I am interning in the Criminal Section of the Civil Rights Division at the Department of Justice. Going to work each day, and learning of communities and individuals who face great injustices, I am reminded of a lesson that Brawerman taught me every day for seven years. Thus, it is my ultimate goal to live my life performing acts of tikkun olam, helping those who could never repay me.

I have no doubt that without the deep love for learning, critical thinking, and problem solving that I was armed with at Brawerman, my experiences would look different. Nothing means more to me than confronting big questions, demanding empathy for others, and working to make the world a better place. I credit my years at Brawerman, and the teachers who poured themselves into showing me what it means to be a mensch, for the many sensational opportunities life has granted me.

FOOD PANTRIES

Thank you to those individuals and families who have chosen either to underwrite ($1,000) or sponsor ($500) a week of food.
If you are interested in joining this effort, please contact Rabbi M. Beaumont Shapiro at (242) 208-8930 or email dmagilnick@wbtla.org

Mitvah go/rei mitzvah—doing a mitzvah leads to doing more.

Thank you to Cantor’s Deli, Brooklyn Bagel, Noah’s Bagel, Larchmont, and Western Bagel West L.A., for their weekly donation of bread to our Food Pantries.
