Little Notes

I am so proud of how well the kids did with their International Day presentations! They received a lot of complements for their hard work.

Today ended the 2nd trimester. Report cards will go home next Friday. Please use this weekend as a time to reflect with your child how this past trimester went, and discuss what they would like to do better this trimester. Feel free to let me know if there are particular goals they are working towards, so that I can help on my side.
