What Can We Do?

If Your Child is Victim of Cyber Bullying

- Reassure them that it's not their fault
- Let them know you're there to help
- Help them find ways to be assertive
- Inform them that ignoring the bully is sometimes the best and easiest response
- Encourage them to report harassment
- If the harassment continues despite your efforts, have the child delete their account and create a new one, only sharing their information with a select few people

Keeping Kids Safer Online

- Increase supervision
 - Keep the computer in a common area of your home
 - Consider monitoring software
 - Consider setting parental controls
- Set rules for computer use
- Have your child set any profiles to private
- Depending on age, know your child's passwords
- Keep all contact information and personal data to yourself- this is important for children AND adults

Keeping Kids Safer Online

- Save inappropriate conversations and harassing messages
- Do NOT reply to inappropriate or harassing messages
- Leave the online area where the harassment is happening (chat room, IM, game, etc.)
- Inform the police if physical threats are made

Keeping Kids Safer Online

- Remind children to think about the real-life consequences of their actions online
- Encourage kids to ask for help when a bullying or safety problem arises, both online and in real life
- Create an open relationship for your children to share their concerns
- Teach children to trust their instincts if they feel uncomfortable or unsafe

Parental Controls

- Google Safety Center
 - Will walk you through the steps to control what your family sees on the web, including search results, android games, youtube, and Google play

 - Can be found at the bottom of their webpage
- Restrictions on iPhone, iPad, and iPod Touch devices

Helpful Tips:

- Google your child's name to see how much information is being shared online. It's helpful to do this activity with your child. Google some friends in order to compare and contrast
- If your child breaks your computer rules, discipline offline
 - Don't allow your child to attend this weekend's party. Banning a child from a website may cause a child to create a private account and hide online activity to avoid future punishment
