

Social Emotional and Mental Health Support

We aim to:

- provide appropriate support for all students who have Additional Educational Needs;
- to promote an ethos of inclusion
- to enable all students to access the curriculum and achieve their full potential

There are a small number of students whose needs necessitate additional support from specialist external agencies, many of which can be accessed through referral by a GP. In addition, there is a raft of support available to students and parents on the internet. I have listed a number of support agencies below under these headings:

- Self-harm
- Disordered patterns around eating habits
- Mental Health
- Counselling

Self-harm

Self-harm does not always just affect the individuals carrying it out, but their friends, family and other people around them too. Self-harm can be lonely and isolating and caring for someone who self-harms can be emotionally exhausting.

There is no single cause or event that leads directly to self-harm, but rather a series of risk factors combine to increase the likelihood that a vulnerable individual will start.

Self-harm is a coping mechanism, therefore it is necessary for the individual to learn about safer alternatives. Students have told us that they find www.kooth.com useful as it is a confidential way of accessing counselling for young people.

Our policy is that it is unacceptable for students to self-harm in school; we have a rule that any self-harm marks on arms should be covered by long-sleeved tops for P.E./Dance and that students must not show their cuts to their peers.

We are happy to support in any way we can, but we always advise parents and their daughter to see their GP so that they can offer the appropriate advice and referral to meet needs.

Alternatives to self-harm

Soothing/Stress Relief/Distraction:

- Going for a walk, looking at things and listening to sounds
- Create something: drawing, writing, music or sculpture
- Going to a public place, away from the house
- Keeping a diary or weblog
- Stroking or caring for a pet
- Watching TV or a movie
- Getting in touch with a friend
- Listening to soothing music
- Having a relaxing bath

Releasing emotions:

- Clenching an ice cube in the hand until it melts
- Snapping an elastic band against the wrist
- Drawing on the skin with a red pen or red paint instead of cutting
- Sports or physical exercise
- Using a punch-bag
- Hitting a pillow or other soft object
- Listening to or creating loud music

Disordered patterns around eating habits

The sentences below aimed at parents, are taken from a letter from 'Beat'.

Eating disorders don't just affect the individuals battling them, but their friends, family and other people around them too. Eating disorders are lonely and isolating illnesses and caring for someone with an eating disorder can be exhausting.

One really important thing to remember is that you are not the cause of the eating disorder. No single cause or event leads directly to an eating disorder, but rather a series of risk factors combine to increase the likelihood that a vulnerable individual will develop the condition.

Eating disorders are treatable and full recovery is possible. You can play a vital role in supporting your loved one through their recovery journey.

"It is a long and sometimes difficult journey but you can get through it, and you will be stronger for it. Accept any help offered".

Beat's support services are open to those looking after someone with an eating disorder as well as the individuals themselves. Beat offers resources, support and training for parents and carers.

For more information, advice or support visit www.b-eat.co.uk

We are happy to support parents and their daughters in any way we can, but we strongly advise parents to take their daughter to see their GP so that they can offer the appropriate advice and referral to meet needs. Some students have told us that they find www.kooth.com useful as it is a confidential way of accessing counselling for young people.

Kooth

www.kooth.com

www.kooth.com

Free online information, advice and support for all 11-18 year olds who live within Lewisham borough or attend a Lewisham borough school. This service is anonymous and confidential and they will not share information unless given permission by the young person. All Counsellors/Psychotherapists are UKCP/BACP accredited as well as KOOOTH itself and all content is pre-moderated by staff before going live on the site when posting to forums and magazines to ensure the safety of users. You can signpost your child to our site. There is no referral or waiting lists. This service has been funded by The Big Lottery as part of their HeadStart initiative.

http://www.youngminds.org.uk/for_parents

This is a place for you, as a parent to gain information around your child's mental health/well-being. There are lots of different resources available to you via Young Minds as well as a parent's helpline. They offer free, confidential online and telephone support, including information and advice, to any adult worried about the emotional problems, behaviour or mental health of a child or young person up to the age of 25. The YoungMinds Parents Helpline is open from 9.30 to 4.00pm, Mon- Fri. You can call them on 0808 802 5544

<http://mindkit.org.uk/>

MindKit is aimed at improving the emotional and mental wellbeing of 14-25 year olds in and across Lewisham and Bromley. They have lots of information and resources available on their website that may be helpful to you as a parent.

<http://workitoutlewisham.co.uk/>

Visit Work It Out Lewisham and go to I am a Parent/Carer in the navigation bar and you will find different services available to you/your child that can help with mental health/well-being as well as e-learning resources that you may find beneficial.

<http://www.mind.org.uk/>

When you're living with a mental health problem, or supporting someone who is, having access to the right information - about a condition, treatment options, or practical issues - is vital. This site provides information on a lot of mental health issues.

CAMHS - Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service

CAMHS are specialist NHS children and young people's mental health services. If you think your child might need more help than friends, family, school and GPs can give, you can find a CAMHS in all boroughs, but a referral needs to be made by your GP or school.

Counselling Services For Young People

There are many private counsellors/therapists that work with young people.

This is a website that can be used to find a local counsellor. Counsellors state their qualifications and style. We recommend that the counsellor is an accredited member of the BACP or UKCP.

The following is a list of London-based counselling organisations that offer free or low cost counselling for young people and their families. It is not comprehensive - there are other options to be found. Many organisations operate a means-related sliding scale of fees or ask for a donation. Some of these services might be helpful but not as a school referral more as a sign posted service. Your doctor may also be able to put you in touch with a qualified counsellor or refer your daughter to Child & Adolescent Mental Health services, if necessary.
