The Bronxville School

Full Year

The Stock Market Unit includes playing the Stock Market Game of Westchester and completing a research paper on a company from the Dow Jones.

Driving Question

Are companies treating their workers in way that we would feel comfortable investing in the company?

Dispositions

Products & Formative Assessments

Students submitted a research paper on Dow Jones 30 and how this company treats its workers.

Assessment of Dispositions

Students are able to look at a company in a way other than a vehicle for making money. They will have a stake in the company and its workers.

Students present to the class and their investment groups that will help them to play the Stock Market Game of Westchester. Students grew to look at a company in a different way which will help them in the future in thinking about workers, conditions and wages.

Students complete a research paper on a company from the Dow Jones 30 and assess whether it would be a good stock to invest in. A key component of their assessment is looking at how the workers are treated by the company. Where does the company produce their goods, what are the wages and working conditions and are there any complaints against the company for how they treat their workers.
