

Blended Learning

24 Hour Access Videos

Adam Blundell- Farmington High School

Do you think your students would be interested in watching videos of YOU giving lectures?

Would video recordings of your lectures be useful to students who miss class, or want to study for tests?

Is 24 hour access to class material an improvement to class structure?

I'm not sure. However, I have been teaching this past year with video recordings. This poster presentation is a video to show exactly that. Use your cell phone bar code reader, and watch the video linked here:

