Mentoring: Scaled & Powered in the Digital World

Mentoring is a powerful and transformational tool that can help young people navigate the rapidly changing and complex world. Mentoring networks are so potent that they have been called “invisible colleges,” offering access, exposure and opportunity through informal relationships and connections.

That is why we created FIVE, the first Mentor Operating System (mOS), to bring the transformative capacities of mentoring (Networking, Empowerment, Trust, Relationships, and Connectivity) to a scalable, engaging digital platform. We are leveraging the power of mobile technologies and machine learning to connect and open doors for young people with promise.

What is FIVE?

The FIVE Network connects talented 9th grade high school students to influential and caring mentors from across the country. These mentors help them develop critical life skills, expose them to a world of work opportunities, expand their personal networks, and serve as a positive and consistent presence in their lives over the course

FIVE Highlights

Fun and engaging content builds life skills and expose mentees to the world of work.

A gaming experience where mentees earn points and can use them to purchase cool things.

Safe and secure - mentors undergo background checks and extensive safety protocols are in place.

Free of charge to students and schools, thanks to corporate partners who are committed to developing the future workforce.

Building connections - mentees and mentors communicate by synchronous/asynchronous video, text & audio messages.

Easy and efficient - just 3-5 minutes per day.

Exceptional mentors from businesses, associations and organizations across the country.

5 year commitment - mentees start in 9th grade and stay with their team of mentors through 1 year post graduation.

FIVE Datahub is the mos Brain, tracking progress and network-wide trends.
