We hope this letter finds you enjoying your summer. It is a wonderful opportunity for you to pursue other activities and interests without the rigors of your schoolwork. We look forward to working with each one of you again this year as we near the beginning of your second year of middle school.

As educators, we receive enormous satisfaction from being able to play a role in your academic and personal growth. Please consider the new responsibility that each of you has this year in being a role model for the incoming seventh grade students. They will be looking to you to set an example in all areas of school life from successful performance in your classes to respectful behavior at all times. We are pleased you are part of the team.
