On this side you will find our very own aspiring journalist, Jackie Broussard's, weekly article and students' activity for the week!

Welcome to my YES Prep Talk. Our topic for this week is FOOD. I recently read an article that focused on which fried chicken restaurants had the best chicken, and they compared companies like Popeyes and KFC to little mom and pop shacks. Mind you, I read this on my way to Popeyes this Tuesday so I was a bit bias at that moment. Throughout their mission to find the best chicken, they created a checklist which included the crunchiness of the skin, juiciness of the meat and dryness of the biscuits (It is a world known fact that Popeyes' biscuits are dry so you can already tell how high it ranked in dryness). To make a short story short, I decided to make my own chicken list with restaurants in Houston and run them by my family to see which one ranked top three. We all (besides my older brother who doesn't get a say so in family votes) ranked 1) Popeyes, 2) Church's and 3) Frenchy's as our top three go-to restaurants.

If you have any suggestions on chicken shacks, send them my way because food is life. While you're at it, let me know your top 3 and we will debate on if they truly should be acknowledged. Email me at jbroussard2020@gmail.com!
