

COBIS Safer Recruitment Course

Presenter: Robin Watts

Dates: Thursday 21st November

Venue: New Cairo British International School, Cairo, Egypt.

About the Presenter:

From September 1976 to September 2008 I worked for the Metropolitan Police. I was a career detective working in a range of arenas but mainly as a murder detective. During the last 10 years of my career I worked in the Child abuse arena, spending 5 years as a child abuse investigator in Lambeth London. Over the next 5 years, I worked as a trainer/instructor/consultant; training Police and Social Workers how to investigate child abuse from initial referral to conclusion.

Since my retirement from the police in 2008, I have worked as an independent trainer and consultant for numerous organisations; including police, social workers and professionals in education. I specialise in forensic interviewing of children, the assessment of risk and the investigation of suspected abuse. I have delivered training and consulted for numerous schools, in excess of 1000 in the UK, and over 450 International Schools in over 70 countries. Internationally I deliver safeguarding training from levels 1 to 3, safer recruitment, online abuse, bespoke courses and also talks for parents and pupils around safeguarding and online safety. I assist schools and designated staff in child protection procedures, policies, and practices. I also assist schools to get ready for the inspection process. To date, all schools I have assisted have achieved 'Outstanding' in the graded category for safeguarding. I work for organisations such as COBIS, BSME and others. I always offer ongoing support to schools, organisations and any clients with whom I have worked.

As a safeguarding consultant, I have assisted numerous schools and other organisations, develop robust child protection and safeguarding policies and procedures including advising on the investigation of staff.

Robin's top tips for helping attendees get the most out of their training course?

"Come with an open mind, even if told to attend, rather than requesting the training. Engage with the trainer and other delegates, network! Ask questions. Remember to prevent harm to just one child would be the most vital achievement you may have ever completed".

How to get there / getting around

- UBER works well in Cairo so long as the place you are going is either well known or you have a good address that is visible on Google Maps.
- 'We know Egypt': This is a private company that is managed by a couple of expats and has private taxis that are reliable. They can pick up from the airport. They also offer tours. Telephone: +20(0)1204277792 (they use Watts App) or email them on nick@weknowegypt.com
Note - please give them enough notice (at least half a day) for pick up arrangements.
- All large 4* or 5* hotels have their own limousine service which can be booked through the hotel.
- London Cab - very professional service. Slighter higher price. You can use their online service or phone them . They can also pre-arrange airport pick up.
