STUDENT CHECKLIST

To make the process of post high school education a manageable and positive experience, it is helpful to have a plan.

Watch for Student Service Communications:

- Every senior should have joined the Schoology College Group for updates, links and reminders
- Scholarships are posted and updated on Naviance and Schoology
- Attend seminar information sessions as offered
- Listen to the morning announcements for specific reminders of college and scholarship information
- College Admission Representative Visits
 - College admission representative visits are posted on the Schoology Group and Naviance
 - College rep visits are scheduled on most Mondays and Thursdays during seminar periods in Student Services
 - Meeting with a college representative at your school can increase your chances of being accepted to the college or university
- College Open Houses
 - Many colleges offer open houses for juniors and seniors. Open houses provide students with an opportunity to tour the campus, view college life, and see if this college is the right fit for you. Please visit college websites for more info.

Attend Resurrection's College Night- Thursday, September 19, 2019

- College Night is an annual program sponsored by Student Services. This event is an opportunity for parents and students to ask specific questions and gather information.
- Over 100 colleges and educational institutions will be present at College Night. Public, private, in-state and out-of-state institutions will be represented and provide information on the many opportunities for education beyond high school.

Identify Schools and Narrow Your Choices

- connection.naviance.com/resurrection
 - To search schools by specific criteria, go to "Colleges" → "Supermatch College Search"
 - To get more information on a specific school search under "Colleges" tab

- Students will request letters of recommendation through “Colleges I’m Applying to” section
- collegescorecard.ed.gov
 - Provides the public with information on retention rates, average costs, average salaries after attending and typical debt ranges for specific colleges
- collegeboard.org
 - To search schools by specific criteria, go to top drop down menu and press “College Search”
- You should have a list of 4-6 schools that you are interested in (although this number depends on each individual student). 1-2 reach schools, 2-3 match schools and 1-2 likely schools.

Obtain Financial Aid and Scholarship Info- Financial Aid Info Night, Sept. 26th

- Financial aid is primarily obtained from the following four sources:
 - Federal Government (FAFSA)
 - State Government (FAFSA)
 - Directly from colleges and universities
 - Private organizations
- Resurrection does not administer financial aid for college.
- Scholarship information and applications sent directly to Resurrection are primarily private aid programs, such as independent community, religious, ethnic, or fraternal organizations.
- Check professional associations, parent/guardian places of employment, unions, and websites for possible sources of financial aid. Scholarship applications generally have very specific requirements and the deadlines to apply vary greatly.
- Scholarship opportunities are listed in Naviance and Schoology. Additional scholarship opportunities can be found at the websites below.

Apply for FAFSA starting October 1st

Apply to List of Schools

- Seniors will apply via Common Application, Coalition Application, or directly on a college's website. The application depends on what the specific school accepts
- Students must sign the FERPA authorization in Common App for documents to be sent
- Students must match their Common App to Naviance under "Colleges I'm Applying To"
- Once they have applied, schools need to be added to Naviance under "Colleges I'm Applying To"
- They can request letters of recommendation via Naviance under "Colleges I'm Applying To"
- Student request official transcripts by completing and submitting a "Transcript Request Form"

Send Test Scores Directly from Testing Organization

- Seniors should be aware of the school's requirement regarding test scores
- Some schools may superscore (take the highest score in every subject on any test), or some may be test-optional (not requiring any score to be reported). Familiarize yourself with what that school is requiring
- Test scores can only be sent through the testing website (ex: act.org)
- Resurrection does not send scores or print them on transcripts

Request Transcripts

- High school Transcripts cannot be released until we have parental consent
- Colleges requiring transcripts will need "official transcripts", which means the student needs to complete a "transcript request form" and submit it to Ms. Rogers
- Transcript requests must be submitted at least 10 working days ahead to assure they will be received by the college on time

Request Letters of Recommendation

- Many schools and scholarship committees require one or more letters of recommendation to provide further insight into who you are beyond the application
- Allow at least 10 working days for your letter to be written
- To formally request a letter of recommendation from teachers, you must complete the letter of recommendation form and ask if they are willing to write your letter
- Request your teachers or counselor to write your letter via Naviance
- Teachers and counselors submit your letters via Naviance

Complete All Parts of the Application

- Essays matter. All Common Application essay prompts are available on their website. If it is optional, it is recommended to write one.
- Deadlines for applications depend entirely on the college and can be found on Naviance and the college's website
- Allow 10 working days for counselors to process your application materials and transcript requests
- After applying, you must add the college or university to Naviance under "Colleges I'm Applying to"
- Mid-year and final transcripts are sent to colleges

WINTER/SPRING 2020 STUDENT CHECKLIST

Schedule College/Scholarship Interviews (if required)

Keep in Contact with the Admission and Financial Aid Office

- The best source of personal information regarding your application and admissions status comes directly from the admission office. Feel free to call or email the admissions office if you have any questions or concerns.
- The first step in applying for financial aid is to apply for admission. Most institutions require that you are accepted before they can offer financial aid. Apply for financial aid when you apply for admission.

Obtain the Most Financial Aid

- A lot of financial aid and scholarships are based upon need and/or merit and is distributed directly by the college. Colleges usually require the family to submit the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) or CSS Financial Aid Profile to document financial need. The FAFSA and CSS are known as “need analysis” forms and require both student and parent assets and income.
- “Need” is defined (according to the CSS and FAFSA analysis) as the difference between what it costs to attend a particular school and what you and your family can afford to pay toward the cost. Since the cost varies from college to college, you may be eligible for different amounts of financial aid at each institution.
- The FAFSA application is available online at www.fafsa.ed.gov
- Ask the college if they offer any alternative sources for financing your education. The college might have a tuition budget plan that will let you spread out your payments, or a loan program designed for students who don't qualify for federal loans. They may have a program to help students locate part time jobs.
- Do not hesitate to ask for advice. The college that offers you admission will want to help you arrange your finances so that you can attend. Remember, too, that even if you don't receive aid one year, you may apply for it the following year if your situation changes or more funds are available.

- Call the Financial Aid Office or the Admissions Office of your daughter's first choice and ask for more aid, if needed.

Check your email frequently

- Warning: Some emails are mass emails sent by colleges and universities. If you know you have all of your documents in and the email is saying you don't, call the school's admissions office to double check, but also be aware that it might have been sent to you automatically.
- Resurrection sends most documents electronically. Schools have to search for transcripts and letters of recommendation for each individual student. If you are receiving email's that say these are not submitted, call admissions and tell them it was submitted via Naviance.

Bring All Acceptances and Financial Aid Award Letters to College Counselor's Office

Make Your Final Decision

- May 1st is National College Decision Day. Many schools require a deposit to commit by this time.

ATTENTION ATHLETES – If you hope to participate in athletics at the college level, you must register online with the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association) and the NAIA (National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics). Register at www.ncaa.org (under eligibility center) and at www.naia.org (under membership services). Please contact our athletic director, Eddie Kane, at 773-775-6616 x134 or ekane@reshs.org with any questions.
