Spotlight On Our Scholars

WELCOME

Dear Friends,

It is a pleasure to welcome you to the 2019 Parents Association Glowing Together Auction. Your participation in this special evening is a powerful testament to your love for the SSFS community—a community built upon, and stronger for, its diversity of backgrounds, beliefs, experiences, and traditions.

On behalf of the Board of Trustees and myself, I would like to express a heartfelt thank you to the dedicated volunteers and donors who make this event possible. Their generosity of time, talent, and treasure has brought us together for a marvelous evening. I would especially like to applaud the work of the PA Auction Committee and its incredible co-clerks, Alice-Ann Beachy and Michelle Alonso, whose creativity, enthusiasm, and unflagging energy are simply remarkable.

Tonight we gather in celebration of SSFS's students—past, present, and future—and our shared commitment to a community that produces young people whose bravery, passion, and optimism have the potential to change the world. Thank you for the role you play in this wonderful endeavor.

In peace,

Tom Gibian

During the 2009-10 school year, then-student Britney Ruud '11 and then-Head of the Upper School David Hickson collaborated on an art project. Britney produced a pencil-drawing of the Ashton Meeting House on the SSFS campus, and David produced a linoleum block print from Britney's art. Five prints were made. One was gifted to Head of School Dr. Ken Smith upon his retirement from SSFS, and one was an SSFS auction item, along with the original printing block. Auction winners Ted and Susan McAdams have requested the creation of a second series of five prints, and one of these prints, mounted and framed, along with the printing block, are generously being made available for this year's auction.

Did you know that Sandy Spring Friends School offers one of the most generous financial aid programs in the area? Nearly 40 percent of SSFS families receive some level of tuition assistance.

SSFS's financial aid program benefits our entire community.

Thanks to the financial aid program, our children experience a diversity of backgrounds, perspectives, and cultures—a diversity that enhances their entire educational experience and enriches the lives of each and every one of us.

A deep commitment to learning in a diverse community is fundamental to SSFS's mission, and a robust financial aid program is the only way to sustain our school's unique and inspiring character.

This year, we ask you to raise your paddles to support ALL of Sandy Spring Friends School's scholars!

L-16 Brook Moore-Inspired
Wedding Bowl

SSFS grandparent Don Brubaker crafted this lovely 14-inch segmented walnut bowl after seeing a picture of the bowl S. Brook Moore, member of Sandy Spring Friends Meeting and a founder of SSFS, made for the wedding of Lorne and Beth Garrettson. As Lorne shared with Don, it was said that a member of the Sandy Spring Friends Meeting was not really married unless the couple had received a wedding bowl from Brook Moore!

This wonderful bowl is a very special homage to Brook Moore and a beautiful piece in its own right.
