Raising an Organized Child

Damon Korb, M.D. F.A.A.P

Author and creator of Raising an Organized Child

Damon Korb, M.D., a board-certified behavioral and developmental pediatrician, examines the neurodevelopmental brain functions that determine how a child learns, behaves and socializes. With the publication of Raising an Organized Child, Korb aims to provide parents with the tools they need to help children develop their executive function skills.

Dr. Korb has more than 25 years of pediatric practice experience, including nearly 20 years focusing on child behavior and development, while establishing three unique California clinics that serve children with developmental variations. Caring for thousands of families who had a struggling child -- and raising five children of his own -- has given him a unique perspective about what works, and what doesn't, when it comes to parenting.

Currently the Immediate Past President for the Society of Developmental and Behavioral Pediatrics, Dr. Korb is also Adjunct Clinical Faculty at Stanford University School of Medicine.
