

24th Summer Show

Atkinson Gallery, Millfield

8 July – 10 August 2013

Private View: Monday 8 July, 7-9pm.

PRESS RELEASE

Following on from the huge success of Millfield's 23rd Summer Show, this year's exhibition will again feature a diverse range of contemporary works which celebrate the passion and energy of local artists. In 2012 five artists shared the total £1500 prize pot including Will Anderson for his eye-popping painting, Sick of War and Bonnie Brown's iridescent Illume Blue. With the added attraction of affordability of many works on display this hugely popular show is firmly established as a highlight in the exhibition calendar.

This accompanying exhibition features four artists selected from last year's Summer Show, Fiona Robinson, Andrew Davey, Toni Davey and Alexander Titley. The curated works are connected by an elegance of form and execution, an attention to the importance of process and a concern for memory and the past. Re-inventing space and the connections between time and space are concerns that interest all four artists.

Future Exhibitions

The Atkinson Gallery's autumn 2013 programme will include Albert Irvin: The Complete Prints, with Irvin's bold, vibrant brush strokes reflecting his life's journey between 1975 and 2010. Also, Language of Paint – Iain Andrews & Richard Kenton-Webb, which explores Kenton-Webb's epic journey into colour and Andrews' playful yet contemplative figurative paintings that create a living dialogue with the viewer.
