

MISERICORDIA UNIVERSITY
President's Donor Report 2013–2014

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Friends:

Misericordia University is celebrating its 90th Anniversary, providing us with many opportunities to reflect on the growth and success accomplished in the decades since our founding by the Religious Sisters of Mercy. This is a year of celebration of our cherished traditions and realization of how well our campus preserves and lives the charisms of Mercy, Service, Justice, and Hospitality.

Without any equivocation, I want to acknowledge the tremendous impact your gifts have on the well-being of our institution. Your support is essential to our ability to deliver on the promise of personal attention that prepares students to succeed in life and in their fields of study.

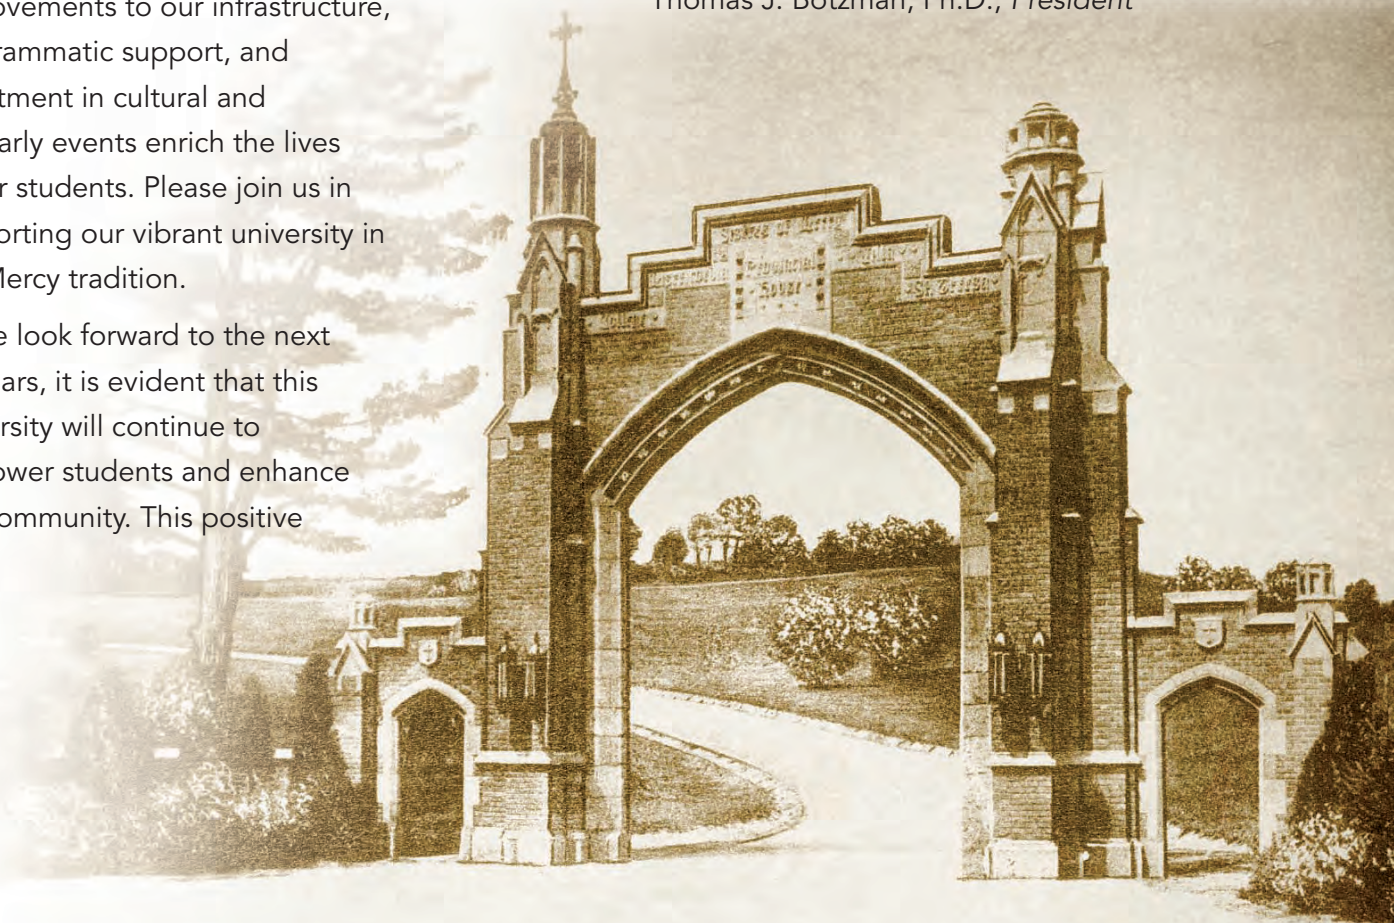

Your gift is opening doors of opportunity and building pathways for success in both literal and figurative ways. Scholarships, improvements to our infrastructure, programmatic support, and investment in cultural and scholarly events enrich the lives of our students. Please join us in supporting our vibrant university in the Mercy tradition.

As we look forward to the next 90 years, it is evident that this university will continue to empower students and enhance our community. This positive vision of the future is influenced, in no small part, by the depth of generosity and commitment I witness from our gracious donors. I want to thank you for your generosity and your loyalty to Misericordia University this past year. The Misericordia campus is open to you all year round; please visit anytime so you may see the impact of your generosity and the continuing Catholic and Mercy identity that fosters an environment in which students, faculty, and staff demonstrate personal concern for each individual as a valued member of the university community.

Thank you,

Thomas J. Botzman, Ph.D., President

A Great Adventure

As part of the 90th Anniversary year of Misericordia, I had the distinct pleasure of spending some time with Sisters of Mercy who were graduates and employees of the University. Over the course of several hours, they reminisced and told stories while I captured a glimpse into the past.

When the Sisters gathered together, there was a palpable sense of community and camaraderie. Warm embraces, wide smiles, hearty laughter, and friendly exchanges marked their interactions with each other. During our conversations, we enjoyed comfortable cups of tea and homemade scones. Their doors are always open in the spirit of their founder, Sister Catherine McAuley.

Upon first glance, it may be easy to forget that these are indeed “Mulier Fortis,” or women of valor. Like the founders of Misericordia before them, many of today’s Sisters are doctorally educated. They are accomplished writers, artists, musicians, educators, nurses, administrators, and most importantly, servants of the poor, the sick, and the uneducated. These are women who believe in the transformative powers of faith and education and also in the importance of peaceful action.

EDUCATION FOR ALL

When the Sisters of Mercy arrived in Wilkes-Barre in 1876, they had a clear plan in mind: educate the people of the Wyoming Valley. They conducted classes at all times of day and night, and also on weekends for breaker boys, coal miners, and women who worked in silk mills. They taught extension classes after they opened the college and worked tirelessly to educate. While they had made great strides in that community, their sights were set higher—they wanted to open a college for girls.

In preparation for the opening of Misericordia, many of the sisters also attended doctoral classes on weekends. Sister

Sisters of Mercy Reflect on Misericordia’s Past

by Luciana C. Musto

Jane Frances Kennedy ’60 said, “The Sisters would teach all week, and then on Friday afternoon, they’d be hustling out to catch the three o’clock train to New York. Then the next day, they would be going to Fordham or Columbia or New York University. Then they would come back on Sunday afternoon.”

In 1914, not many people attended high school, even fewer graduated, and still fewer of those graduates were women. Ten years later, when Misericordia opened its doors on September 24, 1924, it was the first four year college and women’s college in Luzerne County.

At the time, students from Mercy institutions were granted full scholarships. Girls with the highest average from each of the local schools, public or private, were also awarded full scholarships. Misericordia also offered scholarship tests each April. The Sisters also put all of their salaries into scholarships for the young girls. Today, 98% of Misericordia students receive some form of financial aid, so the spirit of access began by the founding Sisters remains.

SERVICE AND OUTREACH

The Sisters considered everyone to be part of the Mercy Family, and they strove to make sure that the poorest amongst them had equal footing. They walked through the community where they lived and served those in need. Back in the early days, there was an apple orchard on campus, and many times, the Sisters would take apples with them to St. Mary’s Convent in Wilkes-Barre for anyone who was hungry.

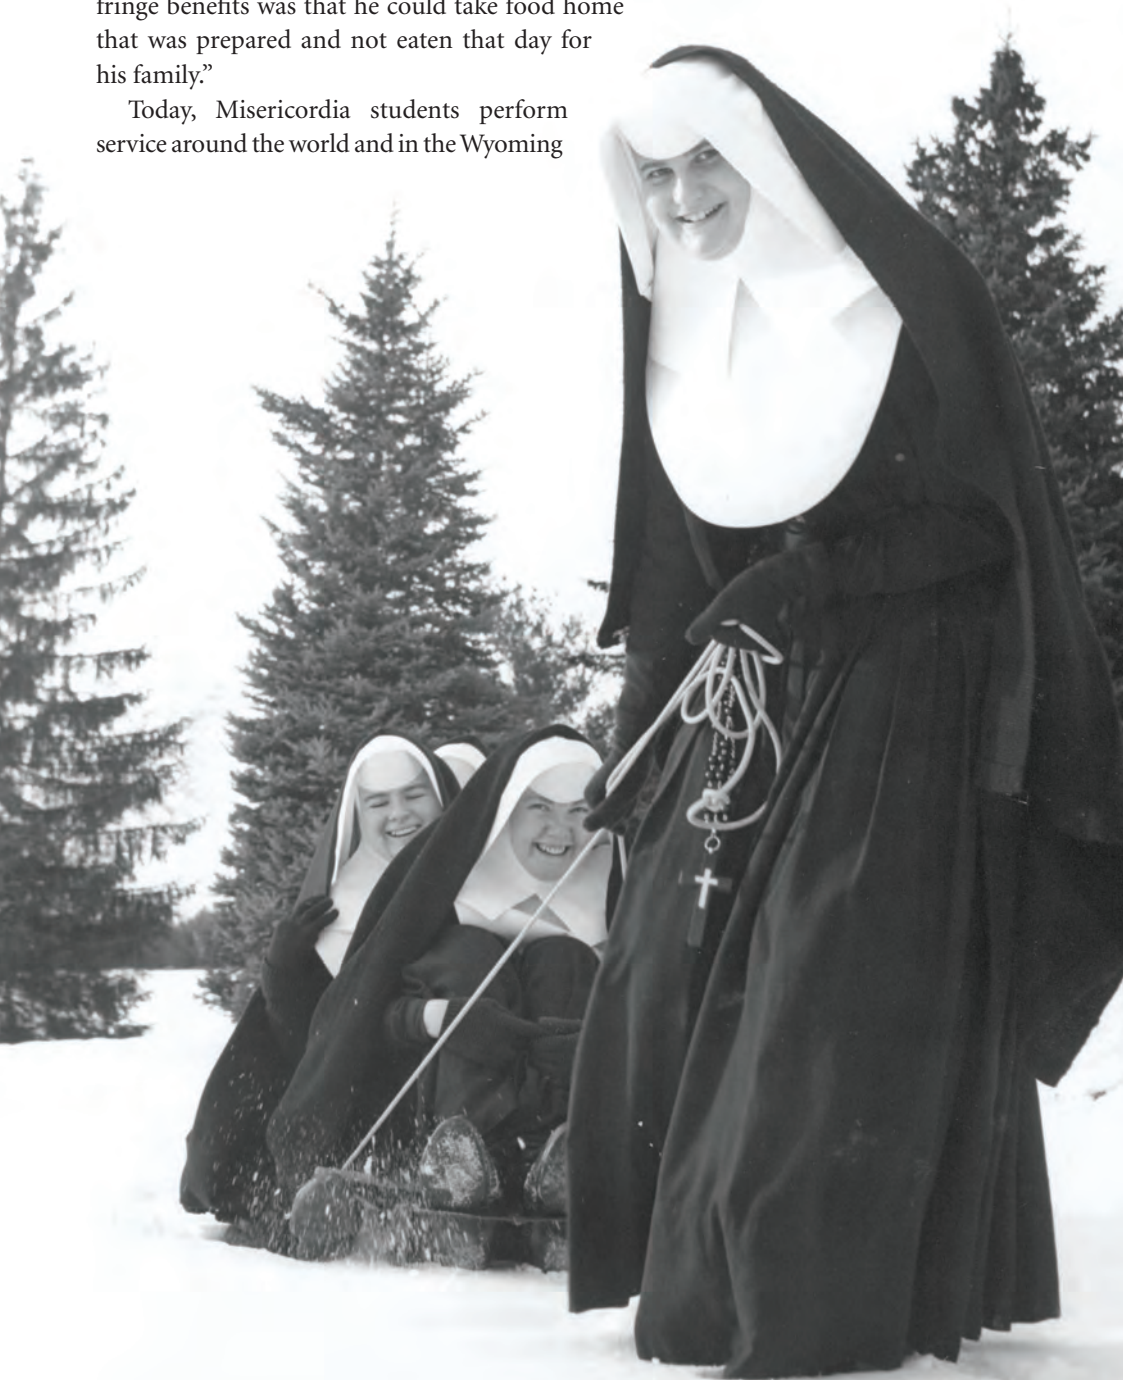

Sister Anne Paye (and many other Sisters) recalled Sister Annunciata Merick’s strict nature and attention to detail, but she also noted her devotion to those less fortunate. “She was the first to collect food for area poor,” Sister Anne said. Sister Annunciata was a faculty member at Misericordia, then became Academic Dean in 1945.

While Misericordia is synonymous with the Sisters of Mercy, there were also quite a few laypeople who worked at the college too. Once such person was Adrian DeMarco, a man who wanted to be a monk, that was, before he met the love of his life, who happened to be a woman who wanted to be a sister. “They never went further in their vocations, but they had a lot of children,” Sister Anne Paye said, “And one of the fringe benefits was that he could take food home that was prepared and not eaten that day for his family.”

Today, Misericordia students perform service around the world and in the Wyoming Valley, reaching out to those in need. Our students volunteer at the St. Vincent de Paul Soup Kitchen, the Meadows Nursing Facility and Mercy Center, Blue Chip Farm, among other local organizations. Many of our students engage in service abroad over their Spring Break in places like Guyana, Jamaica, and Peru. Service is still a great part of what makes Misericordia so special.

As the first active President of Misericordia, Sr. Celestine McHale frequently entertained at the then College.

Sr. Annunciate Merrick writes at her desk.

"These are women who believe in the transformative powers of faith and education and also in the importance of peaceful action." 🦋

THE ARTS AND CULTURE

The Sisters accomplished a lot from their tiny cubbies in the Administration Building, using their connections and commitment to bring world class culture to the Wyoming Valley, as well as to their students, who were white-gloved ushers, editors, correspondents, and musicians.

For example, Marcel Marceau was one of many famous acts to entertain audiences through Theater 3, which Sister Celestine McHale instituted during her presidency. Famed Russian author Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, who exposed the horror of the gulag to the world, wrote to Sister Miriam Gallagher and appeared in The Thinker's Digest many times.

Sister Miriam Francis Stadulis '62 recalled Sr. Bertrand telling her that she would play the bass fiddle, even though she never had a lesson in her life. She stood next to a classmate who knew how to play, and she said, "When she would go up, I would go up. When she would go down, I would go down. It was a riot!"

Sister Eulalia Herron taught logic, but she was also a poet. Sister Anne Payne said, "She would be out looking at the garden or smelling the roses and would forget all about class." Sister Teresa Mary Moyles, who was highly connected and graduated from Trinity College in London wrote the alma mater. Later in life, she went blind, but she continued to play the piano.

The Sisters also clued the girls in as to how they should act in certain social situations. Two weeks before Sister Jane Frances was to take her vows, she and a group of other Sisters were going to Detroit. Sister Marianna Gildea, who also served as an Academic Dean, gathered them together, passed out envelopes marked with the word, "Tips," and explained what they were to do with the contents. Sister Jane Frances said, "Her final comment to us was, 'If you find yourself in a restaurant or hotel and you cannot afford the appropriate tip, you do not belong there.' And that stayed with me."

The Performing Arts Department at Misericordia offers our students many opportunities to develop their skills. The Chamber Singers, the Misericordia Players, dance classes, and applied music are just a few of the many offerings on campus. The Cultural Events Series brings the world stage to Misericordia, featuring speakers such as Temple Grandin and art by Picasso and Salvador Dali. This appreciation for arts and culture has echoed throughout Misericordia's history.

DEDICATION

While the girls were studying at Misericordia, the Sisters took the place of their parents, and many families chose Misericordia because they knew their daughters would be safe. This was especially true in the early days of Misericordia's history, when the Catholic faith wasn't accepted in the Back Mountain area. Numerous cross burnings took place in front of the Administration Building, with the KKK intending to strike fear in the hearts of the Sisters and their students.

Sister Kathleen Marie Carroll '63, recounted a story told to her by Sister Philip, who was a novice during that time. When Sister Kathleen asked her what the Sisters and students did in the face of such hatred, Sister Philip said that they went into every room in the Administration Building to "turn all the lights on," so that they could show they weren't afraid.

Not all of their acts were on such a great scale. It is often the small things that reveal so much about a person's character. Take for instance Sister Annunciata donning an apron and scrubbing the arcade every Saturday, or Sister Wilfred

"The Four Charisms: Mercy, Service, Justice and Hospitality, are evident everywhere on campus, both in the physical and spiritual senses."

Gallagher serving as apothecary for the girls when they weren't feeling well, adding that human touch. There were apologies after a stern scolding, cookouts for students on Friday nights, and food sent home with the lay people for their families.

Although much has changed at Misericordia over the years, the core of what the University stands for remains the same. The Four Charisms: Mercy, Service, Justice, and Hospitality, are evident everywhere on campus, both in the physical and spiritual senses. The Founding Sisters' faith, as well of that of each and every Sister of Mercy who has followed them on this campus, have created the landscape of Misericordia with the same loving care as a sculptor's hands.

Special thanks to Jean Messaros, RSM '73, who was integral in arranging meetings with the Sisters; Thanks to Dr. Martha Hanlon, RSM '60; Jane Frances Kennedy, RSM '60; Susan Marie Nowalis, RSM '55; Anne Paye, RSM '52; Jayne Pruitt, RSM; Anne Frances Pulling, RSM '62; Miriam Francis Stadulis, RSM '62; and Catherine Williamson, RSM '61 for sharing their memories.

SPECIAL GIVING SOCIETIES

Whether it's continuing to provide opportunities for first-generation college students or living by the Mercy values each and every day, our journey continues to be possible because of three particular sets of friends who show inspiration, service, and love to Misericordia through their gifts. Those donors who have given $100,000 or more during their lives are named "Lifetime Honorary Associates" by Misericordia University. Individuals who have provided for the future of Misericordia in their estate plans belong to the "Heart of Mercy Society." Among the third group, the "Loyalists," you'll find the donors who over at least a decade have sent gifts year in and year out. These individuals have truly been part of the journey among friends.

Lifetime Honorary Associates

A curriculum that prepares students to continue to excel for decades to come. Ever-increasing faculty excellence in teaching and scholarship. A continued inclusive excellence in our campus community. These friends who have given $100,000 or more to Misericordia continue to empower us to keep striving toward these goals because of their generosity and loyalty.

Every gift matters on this journey among friends. From alumni across the world to faculty and staff on campus; parents and families near and far to corporations, foundations, and organizations who appreciate the mission of the Sisters of Mercy; friends around the globe to honoring those who aren't with us today—we couldn't continue to move forward without your support. We are grateful to each and every one of you—old friends and new—who have helped us continue to move Misericordia forward. Without our friends, this journey wouldn't be possible.

Alumni

Alumni contributions are important to Misericordia University's ability to inspire new generations through our hands-on teaching. The University respects its alumni donors and also the dedicated volunteer Class Agents who contact classmates for contributions, organize reunion activities, and encourage attendance at alumni events.
