

Earn College Credit While in High School

Do you want to get started with college courses while still in high school?

Central Arizona College gives Pinal County high school students the opportunity to do just that. These programs offer qualified students the ability to earn college credits while still attending high school.

To enroll in these programs students should see their high school counselor for information. Each program has specific requirements, application processes and contact information. Students may participate in more than one program during the school year.
