NEWS and INFORMATION

1. Hour of Code Coming!

Collaboration. Communication. Creative problem-solving. Critical thinking. These four skills, known in some education circles as the 4Cs, are the skills necessary for the future and are the hallmarks of innovators. They are also skills utilized by coders. As North Creek looks toward the 2019 Hour of Code during the week of December 9-13, we're excited to engage our students in various Hour of Code activities as yet another example of how Northshore encourages innovation.

This year, our school is excited to once again participate in the Hour of Code. When students engage in coding activities during the week of December 9, they are immediately curious about how a line of code causes a computer, bot, or robot to respond. This curiosity motivates them to use creative problem-solving and critical thinking to think through the required logic related to a coding situation. Coding inherently involves trial and error, and students naturally begin to share their successes with others. Communicating about coding efforts with peers is the way students share what they learn and support one another as they work on coding projects.

North Creek's Hour of Code activities will be scheduled on December 11 and 12 during Jag Time. Additionally, North Creek offers both Semester and Year-long coding classes such as Introduction to Computers, Web Design, AP Computer Science Principles and AP Computer Science A. We are always looking for volunteers, so if you want to join us, please get in touch with Carol Anderssohn, our Volunteer Coordinator.
