VII. PRESENTATIONS

EDISON'S OWN...

Dr. O'Malley presented the Board with a video on "Edison's Own..." Amari McQuay, Edison High School Sophomore and presented her with a Certificate of Recognition.

LINCOLN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL – SHAWN SCULLY, PRINCIPAL

Mr. Shawn Scully, Principal, welcomed everyone to Lincoln Elementary School and informed the Board that Lincoln School is a very historic school, built in 1951 and is the oldest running school in Edison. It sits between Route 27 and Route 1 and has deep roots in the community, having a tremendous amount of community spirit and building pride. He was happy to announce that his students and staff recently participated in "Treats for Troops" where students and staff donated extra candy from Halloween. They collected over 600 pounds of candy from Halloween to send to the soldiers overseas. The students also collected over 60 new jackets and coats for families in need in our community. In addition, they also collected hundreds of pounds of non-perishable food items and the staff donated turkeys and pies to any family in the community that may have fallen on tough times this season, so they can celebrate and enjoy a Thanksgiving meal without the worry of going hungry.

Mr. Scully reported that Lincoln Elementary School has received over 100 brand new students to the building this year, boosting the enrollment to almost 850 students. In closing, he presented the Lincoln Choir and their outstanding teacher, Mrs. Mount, to entertain the Board and visitors.

PRESENTATION – EDISON HIGH SCHOOL – STUDENT VOICE

Dr. O'Malley introduced a presentation by Mr. Charles Ross, Principal, Ms. Lynn Tierney, Teacher, and Ms. Heeral Vakil, Edison High School Senior:

Ms. Tierney reported that she teaches AP Economics, the sophomore AVID elective, and Financial Literacy, and gets to see a wide spectrum of wonderful students at Edison High School. She loves the Student Voice initiative because it allows her to reach all of her students in the ways that work best for them, so that they are able to master the curriculum.

What does Student Voice look like in the classroom? In Financial Literacy, one class might have a mixed group of students from grades 9 through 12 in levels 2 through honors. The skill level of a 9th grader to write an essay or prepare a presentation is quite different from the experience that a 12th grader could bring to the same assignment. But by giving the students a voice in how they demonstrate their knowledge, it can even the playing field.

For example, when the students were learning how to complete 1040 EZ tax returns, many of them were making the same types of mistakes. In fact, they were making the same mistakes that adults do all the time. She challenged them to come up with a way to explain those common tax errors so they would remember how to avoid them.

They rose to the occasion! The students formed groups and they chose, identified an error to focus on, and created their own way of explaining it. One group of boys made a rap song and performed it for the class, another group put on a skit with the craziest costumes. Another team of students who were a little more reserved and didn't want to get up in front of the class made a delightful animated video. Suddenly something as dry as taxes became fun! By the time they were done with the assignment, they all knew how to fill out the 1040 correctly.

In AVID and economics classes, the students apply what they know to real world scenarios. So, they run Socratic dialogues, where the students research a relevant topic and then hold an active discussion where they question each other to raise everyone's understanding to a higher level.

However, when she listens to the students she finds that some students are intimidated by this method. Some students have a lot to share but need a little more time to express their thoughts verbally. The traditional method wasn't successful for them.

Ms. Tierney stated that the Student Voice initiative lets her listen to their needs and then modify instruction. They ran the traditional verbal discussion group, but also a simultaneous second group where students used their MacBooks by typing as an online chat.

Both groups were able to delve into the topic deeply, and both groups of students shared ideas that spurred each other to greater understanding. By asking and listening to her students, Ms. Tierney could ensure that those quieter students demonstrated their mastery of the content just as well as the louder ones and that they all gained a positive experience that will serve as a foundation for more success in the future.

Finally, beyond the benefits of Student Voice for the students, she finds that it helps her to continually improve her practice. When she asks the students what part of a lesson worked for them and what part didn't, she uses the information to adapt and grow herself. Most importantly, Ms. Tierney can model for them what it means to be a continual learner, and hopefully instill a growth mindset in them all.

She believes the Student Voice initiative at Edison High is tremendously worthwhile, and is very glad to be a part of it.

Student, Ms. Heeral Vakil stated that she is a part of the Edison High School's Class of 2018. Being a senior, she is ready to graduate and further dive into an education that'll allow her to pursue a career in the field of healthcare, hopefully nursing.

This September, she reported that she helped open the school year at Edison High by speaking for Mr. Ross at the opening faculty meeting. Touching on and trying to explain Mr. Ross's goal of being open to student voice, she talked a lot about understanding and tried to explain to the teachers that being in high school is a jumble of emotions, whether it's being scared for the decisions you'll have to make, excited for the future that awaits, or just overwhelmed by the millions of emotions that flood your atmosphere. High School is about trying to balance the standardized tests, college applications, AP exams, sports, extra-curricular activities, and jobs in addition to a 7-hour school day, family time, and social lives. Students, especially high schoolers, often feel that teachers forget what it's like to feel like this and this is where Mr. Ross's theme of student voice really made a difference.

High schoolers are often treated like children but expected to act like adults. Even in school, students are told what to do and how to think. Personally, she likes student voice because it gives students a chance to control their surroundings. Whether it's something small, like being flexible or trying to understand, student voice gives everyone a chance to take charge of what happens all around and allows students to express their emotions and take leadership, to feel equal and to allow all students to not only have a voice, but have their voices felt.

Incorporating student voice doesn't necessarily mean a big change; sometimes it's the smallest things that'll make the greatest difference. For example, Ms. Vakil reported, the AP Biology teacher assigned a project last week about photosynthesis. Most teachers would give you a lab outline, show you a demonstration, and expect you to copy them. Her teacher, however, allowed students to test whatever aspect of photosynthesis they wanted, ultimately giving them the freedom to feed their own interests, make their own decisions, and create their own outlines. Even such a small project meant a great deal to each student. It allowed them to see a glimpse of their futures in decision making, while letting them take control of their own actions.

In the same light, she thinks that student voice is what distinguishes a good teacher from a great teacher. A good teacher may be the one that follows the school curriculum and keeps pace with the grade level, while teaching you important life lessons. But a great teacher teaches through listening. Mr. Ross, for example, is a good teacher in that he is constantly helping the students around him, pushing them to challenge themselves and believe in their potential. But what makes him great is that he listens to and understands each individual student. He places himself in their skin and looks through their eyes, realizing that everyone has their own story and their own overbearing feelings. Yet, he takes these insights and shows every student that it is okay and normal to feel like this. He understands and he accepts. For example, after listening to and even researching the stress high schoolers juggle, he made a rule where there will be no homework every month on the 18th. Even though it sounds silly, that one day off really makes students feel like they've been heard, giving them a break from their overbearing lifestyles.

Just like this, student voice is essential to creating a reciprocal connection. The students hear the teachers and the teachers hear the students. Speaking on behalf of the entire student body, she asked all to consider our voice and not only listen to us, but to hear us.

Mr. Ross stated that it is going to be hard to improve upon the eloquence, kind words and substantive examples of Ms. Tierney, our graduating Eagle - Ms. Heeral Vakil from the Lincoln School Class of 2011, or the Emmy nominated Brandon Uhlig and his subject tonight, Ms. Amari McQuay, with anything he may say. But isn't that the point of student voice to begin with...Mr. Ross asked the audience... to allow others the opportunity to have a say, to learn to shape the world with their voice? And isn't it the point of American Education to provide students with the foundation needed to speak with wisdom and empathy?

His staff is pushing student voice at Edison High this year to keep adding to the gains they have made by moving students to higher level classes and the most rigorous possible curricula. Student Voice is not abrogating our responsibility to teach or lead, it's working with students to co-construct their learning and their learning environment around the district's curriculum and goals. It's putting responsibilities on young people as they grow. And they are ready! Student voice broadens the top child's experiences and makes school relevant to the kid who thought school wasn't for them, or even about them.

At Edison High School, there are three main paths to student voice.

First feedback - basically listening to students, which great teachers have always done, but the teachers use surveys, exit tickets, quick google forms, formal and informal conversations, not just at the end of the year but on a regular basis to find out what gets students engaged, interested and thinking.

Secondly, choice within the lesson, allows students the freedom to determine how they learn, practice, or demonstrate mastery and how they show what they know. This helps them to take full advantage of the global networks available in the one to one technology initiative. They are no longer bound by books, so why be bound by rigid instruction?

Lastly, the students need to express their personal voice, to stand up, to speak out, to start making their impact on our world. As parents, everyone remembers attending those elementary shows, dance recitals, tournaments, waiting somewhat patiently for their child's turn to perform. Then the cameras or phones are out and everyone is proud and smiling at their unique and wonderful child.

At Edison High School, Mr. Ross concluded, they look to find regular and authentic opportunities for each and every unique and wonderful Eagle voice to be expressed and heard, for more of your children to have those moments in the sun, so that when life shines a light on them, they are ready.

Mr. Ross thanked the Board and informed them that there is more information for the students on their newly founded and run film club this year, which is posting videos of student voice in action on their YouTube channel. Have a listen, and you may just learn, what is great about Edison High School.

VIII. WELCOME BY THE VICE-PRESIDENT

Mrs. Moroney welcomed everyone to the meeting. She noted, that as everyone was assembled this evening on the cusp of America's great celebration of thanks, she would like to offer a personal message of gratitude to the Edison community.

Recently, she reported, Edison had experienced a divisive election period which exposed some undesirable undercurrents that are unwelcome in our community. Most residents choose to live in Edison because it is known for its religious, racial, cultural, and ethnic diversity. It is this rich diversity and mutual respect that makes Edison an interesting, vibrant, intellectual, and attractive place to live.

Everyone is grateful that Edison has an outstanding educational system, one of the best in the nation. The educational system is a beacon of learning because of excellent leadership, superb teachers and support staff, and parents who take an active role in understanding what their children are learning on a daily basis. The final component that makes Edison a great school system in our students, whose curiosity and respectful attitude toward learning, propel each of them toward success.

Mrs. Moroney thanked the voters of Edison for electing Jerry Shi, Falguni Patel, Paul Distefano and herself to bear the responsibility for decisions guiding Edison's school system for the upcoming years. She also wished to express her gratitude to those candidates who ran unsuccessfully this year, but offered their time, effort, and expertise to the community as well.

On this night she invited all of the Edison community to celebrate the strength and noble character of this great community, a town that "dreams big" and accepts "nothing less than excellence" to join her in a moment of thanks and offering of peace.

Time - 7:00 P.M.

Event – Public Meeting

Date – Monday, December 18, 2017

Location – John Adams Middle School (Cafetorium)

Time - 7:00 P.M.

XIV. BOARD MEMBERS – OPEN DISCUSSION

Mr. Errico reported that he attended the World Language Induction Ceremony and was surprised to see the diversity in languages, which included French, Latin, Italian, Spanish and Chinese. He also discussed the bussing issues at the Margate complex and said the PTOs are wondering what had happened to the overnight trips to Camp Bernie.

Mrs. Ward also attended the World Language Induction Ceremony, where 134 students were honored. She commended teacher, Ms. Laura Holboro, on receiving a $100,000 Grant from Farmers Insurance and congratulated the Edison High School theater company on their recent production of “12 Angry Jurors.”

Mr. Shi also congratulated the Edison High School theater company. He thanked everyone who voted for the Unity Team and thanked the 70 plus volunteers who campaigned for the Unity Team. The Team, he stated, will continue to put the students’ interest first and will do whatever they can to make this district more diverse.

Mrs. Moroney also commended teacher, Laura Holboro for winning the “Dream Big Challenge” grant which will enable the students of John P. Stevens High school to make improvements on the greenhouse by adding solar panels. She mentioned that Ms. Holboro is one of five people in the country, and the first in New Jersey, to receive this grant which will now provide heat and light to the facility. The greenhouse, in its third year, grows approximately 1,000 pounds of seasonal, organic produce annually, which is available to students and the Edison community. She recommended everyone to read the wonderful November 11th article in the Star Ledger newspaper.

Mrs. Moroney also congratulated the Edison High School Marching Band on winning the New Jersey State Group 4 Open Championship and the John P. Stevens High School Marching Band for winning the New Jersey State Group 6 Open Championship which took place in October at the Rutgers High Point Solutions Stadium.

She mentioned that the ETEA hosted a dinner for new teachers at the Crown Plaza, which was very informative for the teachers. On November 5th they hosted a Trunk or Treat event, where many local organizations donated treats for the children of Edison.

Mrs. Moroney also reported that several Board members attended the annual New Jersey School Board Convention in Atlantic City from October 23-26, 2017. This was an opportunity to attend many sessions on new laws, ethics and curriculum. They met with many vendors and networked with board members from other districts.

In closing, she announced that the height of the convention was a program given by Dr. Heelan, Mr. Michaud and Mr. Busch called After the Fire. They discussed the events of the fire at James Monroe School and building the new school. Mr. Brandon Uhlig's documentary of the fire was the grand finale of the program, which ended without a dry eye in the audience.

Mr. Brescher discussed a pending lawsuit against the Board and asked that the Board fight this issue to the end because he feels the Board will be vindicated once all the documents are reviewed. He asked to go on record stating that during his whole ordeal, he felt the whole administration had lacked judgment and believed that confidence between the administration and the board has been compromised and that all conversations should have been kept in the strictest of confidence.

Mr. Brescher made motion of no-confidence against the administration, seconded by Mrs. Ward. Mr. Michaud took a roll call vote and the result was as follows:

AYES: Mr. Brescher, Mrs. Ward

ABSTAINED: Mr. Errico

NAYS: Mr. Distefano, Mrs. Prasad-Madhukar, Mr. Shi, Mrs. Moroney

The motion did not carry.

XV. PUBLIC COMMENTS

A resident congratulated all the new board members and stated that the Board of Education should stay away from becoming a political institution.

Elizabeth Conway, resident, said that when she ran as a candidate, she saw dirty politics at play. She asked why the parent teacher conferences in November were cancelled and asked why the November Caucus Meeting was cancelled. Ms. Conway also asked if the overnight Camp Bernie program can be reinstated and asked that the Board look for outside nurses and bussing for this event.

A resident felt that the election flyer she received in the mail was offensive and suggested the township hold more cross-cultural events to unite all residents.

Matt Hrevnak, ETEA Vice President, informed the Board of a few smaller grants other teachers also received. He commented on the recent negotiations and the elimination of the one teacher conference date, which did not change the number of hours for the conferences. It only changed the number of days.

XVI. ADJOURNMENT

There being no further questions or comments forthcoming, Mrs. Moroney asked for a motion to adjourn this November 20, 2017 public meeting of the Edison Board of Education at 8:07 P.M. Mr. Errico made the motion, seconded by Mr. Shi and approved by all members present.

Respectfully submitted,

Daniel P. Michaud
