Half Term Sponsored Read

In aid of Koro Abili Primary School - Uganda

Dear Parents,

For many years the Prep boys have been invited to participate in a Sponsored Read during their October half term holiday. We would welcome your support in encouraging your son to participate in this pleasurable but voluntary activity. We understand that for the reluctant reader this challenge may appear a little daunting, but there are many books of short stories available to borrow from the library written by excellent children's authors and these are not at all intimidating for the boys. There have been many occasions over the years when this opportunity has allowed the boys to discover a new love for reading. The Sponsored Read is also an excellent opportunity for boys to explore the range of books available on My Book Blog and fully engage with all of the activities that website has to offer.

Boys in Year 3 and Year 4 are invited to read up to 3 books, and boys in Year 5 and Year 6 are encouraged to read up to 5 books over the two week period. Please will you assist your son in helping him choose the books he will read. Boys may borrow an extra two books each from our school library.

Over the past years the boys have raised thousands of pounds for worthwhile causes, and we will of course, keep you updated with the amount raised.

Thank you in advance for your support for this worthwhile activity.

Yours sincerely,

MLS Judd

Executive Head: Preparatory School

Half Term Reading Challenge

Get caught reading for charity!

Take a photo of yourself reading during the half term holiday
(the more unusual the location the better!)

You will need:

- A book
- A camera
- A location (on holiday, a family outing, in your house - it doesn't matter where!)
- Someone to take the photograph

Bring the photo in after half term or email it to Mrs Thomas at: Thomas_S@habsboys.org.uk and I will display them in the library!

Think about the books you have read...

You are meeting your hero. Which book would you recommend to them?

My hero:

I would recommend:

Tell me why:

Create a poster to advertise one of the books you have read. Make it bold and striking please! It doesn't have to fit on a piece of A4 paper. Be as imaginative as you like. There will be a prize for the most original poster!
