

LEADERSHIP MASTERMINDS

Guides: Homa Tavangar and Will Richardson

AAIE is prototyping a new concept for leadership learning this year by offering Masterminds for International School Leaders starting in March 2020. We want to continue learning together beyond the NYC 2020 CONVERSATION.

A Mastermind runs like a hybrid group coaching and leadership development community. You are invited to one of three groups, to take place during times convenient for three different time zones.

By joining a cohort you can expect to:

- ~ Break the isolation you might experience in your role by committing to regular monthly meetings and ongoing backchannel conversations with other international school leaders
- ~ Set goals, brainstorm and test ideas, and get feedback and support in a safe, trusting environment.
- ~ Build accountability to keep moving forward on your innovation and change plans, while gaining tools to confront obstacles
- ~ Engage in an active learning and self-improvement process through conversations around articles, books, podcasts and other media from various fields.

HOW A MASTERMIND SESSION WORKS

Each month the cohort joins a one-hour call, typically built around three sections: 1) Check-ins to share wins, offer accountability. 2) Discussion around a reading or resource and key take-aways. 3) "Hot Seat" sessions where a member gives the group context of a current challenge and the group offers tips, experiences, and help thinking it through.

- ▶ Cohorts will run in three different time zones. You can choose one that works for you.
 - 7 pm in New York, NY (7 pm US ET)
 - 7 pm in Shanghai, China (6 am US ET)
 - 7 pm in Athens, Greece (12 pm US ET)
- ▶ Cohorts meet once a month for 1 hour from March- June, August- January.
- ▶ Groups will be capped at 12 members in each cohort.
- ▶ Meetings will take place in Zoom and Slack will be used in-between meetings for essential and important leadership conversations where your colleagues bring substance to your leadership life.
- ▶ Cost per person for this first round of 10 sessions is $300 to confirm your commitment.
