Austin Preparatory School
Reading, Massachusetts

Middle School Latin Teacher

Application Deadline: March 20, 2020

For a position to begin in the fall of 2020, Austin Prep seeks an experienced educator of Latin with a passion for the classical world and a genuine interest in working with Middle School (Grades 6-8) students. The school seeks an instructor who is versed in the Latin language and facile with using instructional technology to bring the ancient world to life. Building off of Middle School students' sense of curiosity and quest for relevancy, the candidate will be innovative in their immersive approach to exploring classical culture and cultivating student interest in the past.

AUSTIN PREPARATORY SCHOOL AT A GLANCE

Since Austin Preparatory School opened its doors nearly 60 years ago, it has remained steadfast in its mission to inspire hearts to unite, minds to inquire, and hands to serve. In the tradition of St. Augustine of Hippo (the school's namesake), an Austin Prep education emphasizes the importance of a life in service of others, supported by the pursuit of academic excellence in the liberal arts tradition within a welcoming and close-knit community.

A coeducational institution since 1993, Austin Prep now serves 750 students in grades 6 through 12 from Reading, MA, and neighboring communities Northeast of Boston. The Middle School currently enrolls 170 students. The Upper School enrolls 580 ninth through twelfth graders in a rigorous college preparatory program that guides its students toward becoming lifelong learners and engaged citizens.

An independent Roman Catholic school, Austin Prep is a proud member of the Augustinian Secondary Educational Association (ASEA). Originally founded by the Augustinian Friars, the Augustinian ethos and traditions form a significant part of student life. Each day begins and ends with prayer, and faculty work hard to model the school's values in their teaching and in the relationships they form with students. St. Augustine valued the role of community in spiritual life, and this emphasis is clearly borne out in the close bonds students, parents, and alumni cite as characteristic of their experience at Austin Prep.

MISSION: Austin Prep's mission is to inspire hearts to unite, minds to inquire, and hands to serve. St. Augustine is the School's patron saint, and the school strives toward the Augustinian ideal of: "One mind, one heart, intent upon God" in the Augustinian charisms of veritas, unitas, and caritas – truth, unity, and love – inspire the mission.

ACCREDITATION, MEMBERSHIPS, AND AFFILIATIONS:

- New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC)
- Augustinian Secondary Educational Association (ASEA)
- National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS)
- National Catholic Educational Association (NCEA)
- Association of Independent Schools of New England (AISNE)
- New England League of Middle Schools (NELMS)

ENROLLMENT AND FINANCIAL AID: Austin Prep's 750 students hail from 65 communities throughout Northeast Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire. The school also enrolls international students from China, South Korea and Italy. Tuition for the 2020-2021 school year is $24,100, and nearly a third of students receive financial aid. Students benefit from both need-based aid and academic merit scholarships, which includes the St. Augustine Scholarship, which is a merit-based award given to a limited number of freshmen each year.

FACULTY AND STAFF: Austin Prep's low student-teacher ratio (10:1) enables the formation of the close ties between students and teachers that many alumni name as a highlight of the experience at the school. Fifty of Austin Prep's approximately 75 faculty members hold advanced degrees, and there are ample professional development funds available for continuing education. The faculty is notable for its solidarity and its commitment to the institution. The faculty have an average tenure of 16 years at Austin Prep.

CAMPUS: Austin Preparatory School's 50-acre campus sits in Reading, Massachusetts, 15 miles north of Boston at the intersection of Interstates 95 and 93. The spacious, wooded surroundings contribute to the school's warm and nurturing environment.

McLaughlin Hall is the primary academic building. It comprises the Technology Center, the McCarthy Writing Center, counseling and administrative offices, classrooms, science labs, the Chapel of St. Augustine, the Fr. Smith Library and Media Center, and a newly renovated Dining Hall. Saint Augustine Hall contains conference rooms, the music and arts wings, the Murphy Art Gallery, and external affairs and facilities offices.

In October of 2019, the school broke ground on a new athletic complex, which will include six new tennis courts and new synthetic turf baseball and soccer fields to replace existing grass fields. Additional facilities include the Athletic Stadium Complex, which offers a turf field, a state-of-the-art track, seating for 1,100, and a university-level scoreboard. Meelia Hall is home to the gymnasium, the Nelson Athletic Fitness & Training room, and Meelia Theatre.

ADVISORY PROGRAM: Austin Prep views its advisory program as fundamental to student achievement, and it is often cited by parents and students as one of the school's signature strengths. Austin Prep's three-pillared approach, which combines academic advising, emotional and social counseling, and college counselling, enables students to develop confidence interacting with peers and teachers and to make wise and thoughtful choices in their academic and personal lives. Integrated with the life of the school, the advisory program provides consistency throughout students' time at Austin Prep and encourages students to make the most of the ample opportunities offered by the school.

A LIBERAL ARTS ACADEMIC PROGRAM: The Upper School academic program shapes students in their growth as collaborative scholars, compassionate servant-leaders, and passionate global citizens.

Coursework encourages students to consider different points of view, cultures and backgrounds in an environment committed to valuing all community members. The robust curriculum is tailored to capitalize on students' natural curiosity about the world and their place within it. Individualized academic programs allow students to find purpose and balance in their learning. Opportunities to increase knowledge and practice skills seamlessly combine tradition with modernization to ensure that students are well-prepared for our 21st Century world.

Students pursue a well-rounded curriculum which includes coursework in Theology, English, Social Studies, Science, Mathematics, World Language, and Art and Design. Choice and voice are integral to the student experience with elective offerings in all departments to capitalize on student interest.

Courses are classified as one of three levels: College Preparatory, Honors, or Advanced Placement. College Prep courses are designed to push students to develop an understanding of the content and skills necessary to be successful in college and beyond. Honors courses encourage students to develop a deeper, nuanced understanding of the content and skills necessary to be successful in college and beyond.

WORLD LANGUAGE AT AUSTIN: Learning another language provides students with a new appreciation of another cultural heritage. In the Middle School, Latin is studied as both a language and a means to learn more about Roman culture, history, technology, and politics. Students learn about the daily lives of Romans- what they ate, did for fun, studied in school, and family life. Through this, Classics students learn how much of our own language and culture comes from ancient Rome. Intermixed with this is the study of Greek and Roman myths. Students will explore how Zeus escaped his father's voracious appetite and defeated the Titans, how Hermes tricked his brother Apollo, and much more!

WHO SHOULD APPLY? The World Language Department seeks an experienced educator of Latin with at least three years of classroom experience and a practiced master of pedagogy. The position calls for a mission-driven educator with experience in immersing students in the domains of language fluency and who innovates opportunities for students to apply their classroom learning.

The ideal candidate will:

- Model the School's mission to inspire hearts to unite, minds to inquire, and hands to serve
- Build content-specific knowledge to construct appropriate learning opportunities for students
- Engage in responsive planning, acquiring skills to address students' needs through thoughtful preparation
- Implement creative instructional strategies to involve students in meaningful learning experiences
- Utilize a range of assessment tools to allow students to demonstrate mastery of content and skills in different ways
- Learn more about successful academic achievement and positive social-emotional development
- Cultivate mutual trust and belonging among students and colleagues
- Apply assessment data to make sound decisions to expand students' proficiencies and comprehension
- Create and share educational research and related projects with colleagues
- Contribute to the teaching profession through participation in local, regional and national organizations and associations
- Join school planning committees to advance strategic initiatives and emerging priorities
- Attend conferences, seminars and workshops to advance professional expertise and to learn about professional trends and best practices
- Model and encourage community engagement, service to others, and advancement of the School's mission throughout the broader community

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter and resume to Ms. Celia Barletta, World Language Chair, at cbarletta@austinprep.org
