Internet Safety

A GUIDE FOR TEACHERS AND PARENTS

Provided by Michigan Secretary of State Jocelyn Benson

ProtectMiChild Are your children safe while online? Michigan families, especially minors, are becoming inundated with advertisements from alcohol, tobacco, pornography, illegal drug and gambling marketers through different internet and cell phone inboxes. Texting their advertisements is the newest marketing effort that many of these companies are using. Thankfully, the Michigan Secretary of State's office offers a free program to stop adult advertisements from reaching your email address and cell number via text. The Michigan Child Protection Registry is a free do-not-contact service for Michigan's families.

As a strong supporter of this Registry, I would like to encourage you to sign your entire family up for this program and inform your friends and colleagues about how they can protect their children and families from unwanted adult advertising. To sign up only takes seconds. Just go to www.ProtectMiChild.com and keep your family safe.

College Board Opportunity Scholarships

A Clearer Path to College for All Students

The College Board is investing $5 million per year in the College Board Opportunity Scholarships, with half of the scholarships designated for students whose families earn less than $60,000 per year. Applying to college is a complicated process, so we've created a program that guides students through it and rewards their efforts. Your students are eligible to earn scholarships by taking the following actions during certain windows in their junior and senior years:

The Scholarships	The Actions	Action Window
1. Build Your College List: $500	Build a college list with at least six schools on BigFuture™.	Junior Year: December–July
2. Practice for the SAT: $1,000	Use Official SAT® Practice on Khan Academy®, and practice for 6+ hours to get ready for test day.	Junior Year Through Fall Senior Year: December–October
3. Improve Your Score: $2,000	Improve your score on the SAT by 100 points or more either from PSAT/NMSQT® to SAT or SAT to SAT, after practicing on Official SAT Practice on Khan Academy for 12 hours.	Spring Junior Year Through Winter Senior Year: April–January
4. Strengthen Your College List: $500	Strengthen your college list on BigFuture with a minimum of one safety, two match, and three reach schools.	Summer and Fall Senior Year: August–October
5. Complete the FAFSA: $1,000	Fill out the FAFSA form to apply for financial aid.	Fall and Winter Senior Year: October–February
6. Apply to Colleges: $1,000	Apply to at least two colleges you want to attend.	Fall and Winter Senior Year: October–February
Complete Your Journey: $40,000	Complete all six scholarship steps within the action windows.	Final Drawing: March of Senior Year

The more steps students take toward college, the more opportunities they have to earn a scholarship. Learn more about scholarship details and student eligibility at cb.org/opportunity.

Steps to help students prepare. Scholarships to help them pay.

The College Board Opportunity Scholarships guide juniors and seniors through the college planning process and offers them a chance to earn money for college for each action they complete. Scholarships ranging from $500 to $40,000 are awarded through monthly drawings during certain action windows. Program eligibility begins in December of a student's junior year and runs through February of their senior year. The more steps students take toward college, the more opportunities they have to earn.

The College Board National Recognition Programs

Starting in fall 2019, if you take the PSAT/NMSQT and you're African American, Hispanic American or Latinx, Indigenous, attend school in a rural area, or are from a small town, you may be invited to apply for academic recognition as part of the College Board National Recognition Programs*.

Benefits

The College Board National Recognition Programs are academic honors that can be included on college applications. They're not scholarships, but colleges use them to identify academically exceptional students.

We are working with four of our College Board strategic partners to distribute the honors. These partners are:

- African American Recognition—Jackie Robinson Foundation
- Hispanic Recognition—Hispanic Scholarship Fund
- Indigenous Recognition—Indigenous Education, Inc.
- Rural and Small Town Recognition—Jack Kent Cooke Foundation

Learn more about our partners and the scholarships they offer.

Who is Invited to Apply

The College Board reaches out to students who:

- Take the PSAT/NMSQT in October of their junior year.
- Identify as African American, Hispanic or Latinx, or Indigenous.
- Attend school in a rural area or are from a small town. Location is based on information from the National Center for Education Statistics.
- Achieve the minimum requested PSAT/NMSQT scores (qualifying level may vary by state each year).
- Earn a cumulative GPA of 3.5 or higher by the middle of their junior year.

Good to Know

- You need to identify as African American, Hispanic American or Latinx, or Native American, Alaska Native, or Native Hawaiian on the PSAT/NMSQT answer sheet where it asks for race and ethnicity.
- Official high school transcripts will confirm student's eligibility for the recognition programs.
- The African American Recognition Program considers students who identify as Black or African American (including African and Afro-Caribbean origin) and are from the United States, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, the Mariana Islands, the Marshall Islands, or attend school abroad.
- The Hispanic Recognition Program considers students who identify as Hispanic or Latinx and are from the United States, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, the Mariana Islands, the Marshall Islands, and/or attend school abroad.
- For the Indigenous Recognition Program, students who identify as Alaska Native, Native American, or Native Hawaiian must provide their federal or state tribal affiliation. See recognition program verification for more details.
- For the Rural and Small Town Recognition Program, students will be determined based on information from the National Center for Education Statistics and will receive an invitation to apply.
- Only junior-year PSAT/NMSQT scores count. SAT and PSAT 10 scores cannot be used.
- Opting in to Student Search allows prospective colleges and scholarships to find you.

Self-Nomination Instructions

If you took the PSAT/NMSQT but didn't let us know that you identified as African American, Hispanic American or Latinx, or Indigenous, or if you moved and now live in a rural area or small town, you can still be considered. Email the College Board National Recognition Programs for self-nomination instructions.

5 Scholarship Tips For High School Seniors

Jan 8, 2020 by Matthew Schwartz Reprinted from Road2College, click here for complete article.

When our children are growing up, we read fairy tales to engage them in a story that can teach them about the real world.

That's great when they are young, but by the time they are in high school and applying to college, we need to be honest with ourselves and them about reality.

Applying to private scholarships and winning enough to pay for college is one of those fairy stories you shouldn't pass on to your kids.

What are Some Facts About Scholarships?

Become familiar with our tips on scholarships for high school seniors.

According to prepscholar.com, " Fewer than 20,000 students per year will earn a private full-ride scholarship award." (This refers to full-time college students enrolled at four-year colleges.)

The money to cover the free ride comes from a combination of money from colleges themselves, federal and state grants, and private scholarships. To be even more realistic, there are less than 250 private scholarships that even provide enough money to cover all college costs.

So, the likelihood of winning a full ride scholarship or even piecing enough scholarships together to cover your college costs is pretty slim. Before your student starts looking for private scholarships, understand the following five realities and share them with your student too...

Is it Worth Applying to Private Scholarships?

1) The largest scholarship a high school senior will receive will come from the college they attend.

According to the latest data from the College Board's Trends in Higher Education, 25% of all free aid money (money that does not need to be paid back) was given by colleges to students.

Scholarship money from colleges is second in dollar amount to what the government gives out in loan money.

Only 6% of free aid money came from private and employer grants.<sup>2</sup>

If your student is going to be efficient with their time, it's more worthwhile to find colleges that are going to offer the most money in either financial aid or merit scholarships, as opposed to searching and applying to private scholarships.

2) Private scholarships reduce financial aid students receive from colleges.

If your student wins a private scholarship, they must report that information to the financial aid office.

Many colleges practice something called "Scholarship Displacement, that is, they use the scholarship money to reduce the amount of need-based aid they offer.

Some colleges choose to reduce the college's grant or others may reduce loans included in the financial aid package.

Reducing the loan amount is better for the student, but in either case, winning a private scholarship doesn't give you more money than what you would have received from the college and government anyway.

Frustrating – right?!!

3) Private scholarships last for one year, merit scholarships are for four years.

Private scholarships are usually for just one year.

If your student is depending on private scholarships, they'll have to apply to scholarships every year to continue to find scholarship money for each year of college.

On the other hand, merit scholarships are usually offered for all four years of college, assuming students continue to meet the requirements (like GPA minimums and no academic or legal violations).

Which would your student rather do – research and apply each year for new private scholarships or do the upfront research to find a college that will offer need aid or merit scholarships for all four years?

4) Don't count on private scholarships to get your child through college debt-free.

It's possible to earn scholarship money to help with college costs, but know that the average student will only win $1,000-5,000.

Here's advice from Kevin Ladd, VP at Scholarships.com: "I say if you're really good you might win one out of every six scholarships you apply for. If you're average you might get one out of ten.

If your circumstance is unusual you might get a higher ratio, but typically if you want to win ten scholarships to pay for 90% of your need, you're going to have to apply to five to ten times that many to win them."

Let's do the math – If you want to earn $10,000 from private scholarships, you'll probably have to apply to 100 scholarships in the hope of earning 10 scholarships, for $1000 each.

How much time do you think that will take?

5) Is that a private scholarship or a sweepstakes your student is entering?

Over the years, more and more scholarships look like sweepstakes, rather than scholarships awarded based on defined criteria.

If no specific information is required to apply for a scholarship, especially "no essay" scholarships, then what criteria is being used to pick winners?

These scholarships are really just lotteries used by companies to collect student information. When you see the words "no essay," think advertising and lead generation.

So, if your student plans on entering these types of scholarships, make sure to at least create a new email address to use, so they don't get overwhelmed with marketing emails.

Even if you believe and agree with these five issues about pursuing private scholarships, it doesn't mean students shouldn't give it a try to find and apply to scholarships.

There are some very good local and niche private scholarships that will help fill some of the tuition gap.

And if your student is motivated, and has the time, go for it! Just be realistic about the effort needed and the potential outcome.

And remember, if you really want to make a dent finding money for college, the best time spent will be used towards targeting schools that are more likely to offer financial aid or merit scholarships.

Check out our essential guide for researching colleges and developing a list of affordable schools.

Save time, energy, and money using our College Data Spreadsheet. With data on over 1500 four year colleges in one place you can filter, sort, and compare schools to find those that are most likely to offer your student either merit scholarships or need-based aid.

BRINGING THE PHRASE “BUSINESS IS GLOBAL” TO LIFE FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ACROSS THE NATION

The Business is Global (BIG) program, presented by the Indiana University CIBER, is a two-week program for rising high school sophomores, juniors, and seniors interested in exploring the intersection of business, language, and culture.

The program seeks to broaden student horizons and increase their familiarity and interest in critical languages while helping them explore career options. BIG introduces students to concepts of cultural proficiency, as well as the importance of cultural awareness in business. The BIG program also aims to help students develop public speaking and networking skills and to expose them to international opportunities that will help them become thoughtful citizens of the world.

Students gain a basic understanding of how business operates through an accelerated curriculum based on the Kelley School of Business’s top-ranked undergraduate program.

Student teams apply their new business and cross-cultural skills in a hands-on, practical team competition where they are challenged to create a small business set in one of the countries studied. The teams formally present their business ideas to an external panel of judges.

The deadline for Summer 2020 applications is April 8, 2020. Visit <http://go.iu.edu/6bw> to learn more.

A few facts about the new coronavirus (2019-nCoV)...

During late 2019, a deadly viral epidemic originated in Wuhan, a city within the Hubei province of China. The outbreak, known as the coronavirus (pictured upper right in a computer rendering of 2019-nCoV), is a virus that affects the respiratory symptoms of individuals. Thousands of people in mainland China have already been affected with the Wuhan Coronavirus, and authorities are worried that it will continue to spread to other countries. The virus was initially thought to be flu syndrome, however Chinese authorities in January reported to the World Health Organization that they had identified this new virus as belonging to the same group as Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS) and Middle East Respiratory Syndrome (MERS).

This particular strain of the virus mimics symptoms of the common cold, leading to influenza-like illnesses and later spreading to the lower respiratory tract. Severe cases have identified the Coronavirus as a cause for bronchitis, pneumonia, and acute respiratory distress, which can lead to shortness of breath and even death in many cases.

The World Health Organization has been working with Chinese authorities and global experts regarding the diagnostic processes and containment procedures for halting the spread of the Coronavirus. Two hospitals have been constructed in Wuhan for the sole purpose of managing Coronavirus patients.

In addition to establishing containment procedures and limiting travel to China, the US Government has instituted testing sites at major airports, and passengers are being regularly screened. Anyone who has travelled to China in the past two months is recommended to receive an immediate diagnostic to assess their health.

As of now there is no vaccine or cure available, however the Center for Disease Control and the World Health Organization are working hard to find one. They expect to move to the clinical stage of trials within the next two months. Until the disease has been fully contained, prevention is extremely important. Be thorough when washing hands, and limit contact with individuals who have travelled to China.
