- p. 339: What Time Is It?
 - Video Lesson: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HrxZWNu72WI>
- p.366 and 367: Enough for the Grade?

Extra Math Work if you'd like: Do daily math practice in current concept areas of 3 digit addition and subtraction, measuring by feet, inches and yards (if you have access to a ruler,) skip counting patterns (counting by 3's, 4's, etc,) and place value into the 1000's. Make up a couple of problems for your students to work on or have them come up with their own problems. Math work does not need to be turned into us.

Spelling:

Complete one of the attached spelling jobs for the following words each day:

1. spelling
2. singing
3. ringing
4. reading
5. eating
6. looking
7. walking
8. playing

Writing:

Write a paragraph about Bees. First brainstorm what you know about bees. Be sure your paragraph has an introduction, at least 3 detail sentences, and a conclusion. You may research more about bees to add to your paragraph.

Information that could go in your paragraph:

- Bees live in colonies.
- Bees have different jobs (worker bees, drone bees, queen bees)
- Bees have pollen baskets to collect pollen.
- Bees drink nectar using their tongue (proboscis)
- Bee life cycle

Lexia:

Attached are the instructions for signing onto Lexia. You may have your child log onto Lexia each day or some days if you wish.

Art:

Draw a cover for your bee paragraph. Try to label the different parts of a bee.
