7th July 2015

To all the children at Holmbush Primary Academy,

A very big thank-you to you all for making me so welcome when I came to see you at school on the 18th June 2015.

During my visit I listened to many of you in your classrooms and I took a very interesting tour of your school with some of you.

I also met with groups of you and you were able to tell me about the importance of Rights and Respect in your school. You explained to me that the UNCRC is for all children everywhere and so everyone should be able to enjoy their rights.

I had meetings with your teachers, parents and others who work at your school. These adults are all very proud of you and of everything you are doing at school to become active global citizens.

As a result of what I saw and heard I should like to tell you that your efforts have met with success. You are now the holders of UNICEF's Rights Respecting School Award (Level 1). Congratulations!

I hope you will now be encouraged to go even further acting as RRSA ambassadors in your community and with other schools helping more and more people to understand and support the UNCRC!
