

COVID-19 Update from the Head of School تحديث عن فيروس كورونا من مدير المدرسة

April 2, 2020

Dear parents,

I hope you are healthy and well.

While the number of new COVID-19 cases here in Jordan has been growing smaller each day, the projections for the duration of school closures have nonetheless been growing longer. We still do not know how long exactly closures will last here and around the world, but we do know that containing the virus will be an ongoing battle; it will be won over time, not in just a few weeks.

During this time, our students and teachers have taken to online learning with a learner's mindset and customary diligence. In two weeks, we will evaluate our progress once again, and then further calibrate our teaching and learning for as long as online learning continues.

In the meantime, please know that we are also thinking daily about our student experience outside the classroom and what it means to be away from peers during this formative season. Expect to hear more from the school in the next few days about spring events and ways in which students and teachers can work together to acknowledge our feelings of loss and translate them into creative opportunities for redefinition.

Warmest wishes to you and your families in this challenging time. I look forward to being in touch again soon.

Peter Nilsson
Head of School
