Dear Parents and Guardians,

As we enter the Holiest time of the year, Holy Week and then Easter Sunday, I want to extend prayerful wishes to each of you.

The current worldwide pandemic is one of the most challenging experiences most of us have ever had.

I cannot tell you how often I think of you and the many challenges you as parents are experiencing. Besides your children, many of you care for parents and help other relatives and neighbors. It is a time filled with worry, fear and uncertainty. And as parents it must be so hard for you to see your daughters and other children disappointed in missing spring sports, dances, birthday parties and so many other special events.

As painful as this experience is, your daughters are amazing. They are resilient, full of hope and compassion. They are not only working hard with their e-learning but they are also looking for ways to bring hope and joy to others. I am inspired and impressed by them. To see their goodness and strength is to also see your goodness and strength. As parents you are their first and primary teachers, and you have and continue to do an outstanding job.

Please know that all of us Sisters of the Resurrection are holding each of you in our hearts and prayers during Holy Week. This is a week that reminds us that no matter how difficult and painful life can sometimes be, God loves us so deeply that He was willing to experience suffering and death for us, and He continues to walk with us in our moments of greatest need.

We pray that each of you and your families may experience the Hope, the Joy, the Love, and the Assurance that Easter brings!

Jesus is Risen and is with us!

With heartfelt wishes,
