IN PARTNERSHIP WITH YOU

Dear Friends,

Last week, I shared that Britt and I spread 12 yards of bark on our flower beds. Look what I found today!a trillium emerging through the bark! It was a beautiful site to see. I could hear my mom's words, "The trillium is a sign of hope."

As we move into week #4 of our extended school closure, we all begin to shift away from the newness of the closure into a time of feeling the depths of what "extended" means. Together, as the Enumclaw School District, we have the ability to be that "emerging trillium" at just the right moment for our students and families.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Chris Reykdal released a video. It's been widely shared on Facebook since its release. Below is the link. I would ask you to spend 12 minutes watching this and letting his words to our community, parents, teachers and students (particularly seniors) be like the emerging trillium...a united symbol of hope. <https://m.youtube.com/watch?v=tQf8i05V3Ls>

I am so grateful for how our staff have connected with students. I have seen example after example of continuous learning connections. I see and feel such joy in the videos and language. Britt and I continue to keep each of you in our thoughts, sending you much love for strength and good health during this time.

Be well.

Mike

Keep Learning

A COMMUNITY WHO READS TOGETHER
LEARNS TOGETHER!

Join us for a student, parent and community reading challenge called Read Together! Learn Together! Our goal is to collectively read 10 million minutes by our last day of school on June 19th! All students, parents and ANY member of our community is able to participate and submit their reading minutes. In order to meet this HUGE community learning goal, it is going to take all of us to come together and share our passion for reading. Let's show the world that the Enumclaw School District community LOVES to read!! What a celebration it will be when we meet our goal of collectively reading 10 million minutes! Visit our website at: <https://www.enumclaw.wednet.edu/teaching-learning/read-together-learn-together> to submit your minutes at any time!
